Convoy Awaits Schenectady Trip

Ulster county Civilian Defense units converge on the convoy area at the entrance to the Thruway at Saugerties ready for their trip to Schenectady where a simulated "A"-Bomb attack took place on Saturday. County Units Are Praised For Work in Mock 'Attack'

Communication Teams and Fire-Fighters Get Real Workout in Upstate Test

Ulster county Civil Defense units, particularly the communications and fire fighting branches, were given a real workout Saturday when they participated in a simulated A-bomb attack on the city of Schnectady. Also participating in the test were token units of auxiliary police and other branches of Civil Defense.

The test Saturday demonstrated that the Ulster county Civil Defense units are all well organized, alert and ready to go in case of emergency.

While the principal unit under test Saturday was the fire fighting department Acting County Civil Defense Director Colonel Allan L. Hanstein also sent token representation of other units to Schnectady as observers.

The Ulster county units which took part in the test were highly complimented today by Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson, county fire-coordinator of the Civil Defense Fire Service who acted Saturday under the direction of the Ulster County Fire Advisory Board which is responsible to the Director of Safety and the Bureau of Fire. Chipp acts as liaison officer between the two groups.

The alert signal came Saturday at 8:08 a. m. with the white signal following at 8:18 a. m. At 8:45 a. m., the convoy of fire equipment and its accompanying vehicles was at the entrance to the Thruway at Saugerties ready to roll north from the assembly point.

At 9:30 the convoy was at Cox-

Egyptian Woman Killed by British

Military Says Auto Was Driven to Crash Roadblock

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 29 (AP) — A British military spokesman said today an Egyptian woman was killed and her male companion wounded by British troops who fired on their automobile as they tried to crash through a British roadblock in the embattled Suez Canal zone.

The spokesman said an Egyptian officer immediately made an official protest against the shooting, which occurred last night after a week-end lull in the Canal zone.

Egypt meanwhile moved toward a war footing.

The Egyptian State Council, which has the status of a supreme court, yesterday approved general mobilization of manpower and drafting of all Egyptians between 18 and 50 "in case of war or threat of war."

Provides for Council

It also provided for setting up a high council of war headed by Prime Minister Mustapha El Nahas Pasham.

This latest move in the British-Egyptian squabble over the Suez and the Sudan needs only formal cabinet approval to become law.

The council acted as Egypt officially informed Britain of her parliamentary act two weeks ago junking the two treaties providing for British sharing in the defense of the Suez Canal and in the rule of the vast cotton-growing Sudan.

Britain has refused to recognize the one-sided act and has poured thousands of troop reinforcements into the canal zone. She holds military control of the canal, despite Egyptian labor, food and water supply boycotts.

Reinforcements Arrive

Badawawi Khalifa Pasha, under secretary of interior, said last night 1,308 new British reinforcements for the canal zone had arrived yesterday in several ships at Port Said.

There appeared to be some confusion over last night's shooting, which occured at Tel El Kebir, 20

Protestants Hear Statement About Diplomatic Move

Ministerial Association Asks Continuation of Church-State Separation

The influence and power of "the Papal Nuncio, who would be established in Washington" if President Harry S. Truman's appointment of Gen. Mark Clark became effective, would make him an official ambassador of the Roman Catholic Church, said a statement read yesterday at local Protestant churches.

The statement by the Kingston Ministerial Association said it represented 60 Protestant churches in the Kingston area.

The Rev. William C. Cain, president of the association, said today that services in local churches yesterday were well attended and the congregations remained after services to sign petitions to be forwarded to President Truman and Senators Lehman and Ives in opposition to the proposed appointment.

"Protestant churches in the area," the petition said, "are disturbed by the sudden, unexpected action of President Truman in nominating the first American ambassador to the Vatican."

Met October 23

The churches' representatives met in extraordinary session Oct. 23 to "consider the meaning of this action in relation to the religious and political freedoms of America and of the world."

The meeting formulated the petitions which were signed yesterday and will permit more signatures during the week, and it au-

Bus Accident Kills Seven, Injures 22 at Bay Bridge

Oakland, Calif., Oct. 29 (AP)—A crowded Greyhound bus hit a loose block of concrete on a bridge approach early Sunday and plunged down 40 feet, killing seven and injuring the other 22 aboard.

The slab of concrete was torn from an abutment on the San Francisco Bay Bridge approach by another automobile accident three minutes earlier.

The bus blew a tire when it hit, careened across the roadway and smashed through a concrete and steel safety railing with a flash of sparks. It teetered a moment, then toppled down to railway tracks 40 feet below.

"It made a loud crunching noise when it hit below," said John Shepard, Oakland Tribune truck driver.

A 16-year-old bus passenger set his stop watch as the bus went over. It was 5:22 a. m. Like everyone else, he was knocked unconscious by the crash.

Then, said Charles B. Taylor who lived nearby:

"People were screaming 'get me out . . . for God's sake get me out.'"

"One woman kept shouting: 'Turn off the ignition before we all blow up.'"

The crumpled bus lay upside down, flattened so badly some of its moaning injured were trapped for nearly two hours.

A priest said final rites for the dead as rescuers cut and pried out the living and the dead.

Of the 29 persons aboard only Air Force Lt. John R. Haber, 24, of Camp Stoneman, Calif., was about to walk away from the hospital after treatment for minor cuts and bruises.

Twelve of the injured were reported in critical condition.

Negotiators Fail Again To Progress

Subcommittees Schedule Meeting to Discuss Buffer Zone — Each Proposes Line

Joy Reaches Korea

Senior Allied Envoy Returns After Time in Tokyo

Munsan, Korea, Oct. 29 (AP)—Allied and Communist negotiators failed again today to make any progress toward agreement on location of an armistice buffer zone in Korea.

"Today's discussions were completely inconclusive," the official U. N. spokesman announced.

Supcommittees of the armistice delegations met 3½ hours in Panmunjom. They scheduled their sixth meeting for 11 a. m. tomorrow (9 p. m. Monday EST).

Each side has proposed a demarcation line. The UN wants it generally to follow the current battle line, mostly in North Korea.

The Reds want the Allies to pull back as much as 15 miles, giving up such hard won positions as the Iron Triangle, the Punchbowl and Heartbreak Ridge. In exchange, they offered the Ongjin Peninsula in the west. The UN says that has little military value.

Plan Rejected

Allied negotiators rejected the Communist plan and said it could not be considered "any further."

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, the UN spokesman, described Monday talks as "a fruitless effort to arrive at" a solution.

He said subcommittee members argued "spiritedly" but in a "completely impersonal atmosphere" on the two conflicting proposals.

The Allies and Communists were in disagreement even on location of the actual battle contact line at some points, as well as location of a cease-fire line.

Nuckols added:

"Very little news came out of today's meeting. This afternoon the delegates discussed the line of contact, discrepancies in the line of contact, the United Nations command proposal and the Communist counterproposal."

Joy Returns to Korea

As the meeting was in progress, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior Allied envoy, returned to this advance headquarters after spending a few days in Tokyo. Major Gen. Howard M. Turner, new member of the five man truce delegation, accompanied him.

If and when the issue of a buffer zone is settled, it doesn't mean the fighting will be stopped. Three other tough issues must be settled first. They are:

1. Supervision of the truce.
2. Prisoner exchange.
3. Recommendation to the involved governments, including the Communist demand that all foreign troops be withdrawn from Korea.

Pope Speaks Out On Birth Control

Warns Catholics Against Misuse of Theory in Address

Vatican City, Oct. 29 (AP) — Pope Pius XII spoke out at length today on the subject of birth control, extending his remarks to warn Catholics against possible misuse of the so-called "rhythm theory" of marital relations.

The Pontiff's address was made to a special audience for delegates to the National Congress of Italian Obstetricians, but his words obviously were directed to Catholics throughout the world.

Defining the primary objective of marriage as "procreation of new life and its education," the Pope not only spoke out against birth control, but warned against "blind slavery" to nature's impulses. Vatican sources described the 10,000-word address as a "very important" message. It took up the entire front page and half the second page of L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper.

The Pontiff spoke of the "constantly more diffused recourse (in the sexual act) to ties of natural sterility—the so-called periods of non-fertility in the woman."

"This has in the past frequently been referred to as the rhythm theory of fertility and non-fertility in women." (The theory is that conception is possible only during certain periods of each month in a woman's life.)

Advises Authority

The Pope urged his listeners to base their instructions concerning this theory upon authoritative judgment and publications, and not upon "simple popular publi-

Hot Debate Lies Ahead Over UMT For Congress in '52

Security Commission Sees Training of 800,000 Youths at Huge Cost in Year

Washington, Oct. 29 (AP)—Lawmakers today predicted hot debate in Congress next year over a government commission's call for universal military training (UMT) as long range protection in the "mortal struggle with Soviet communism."

The new National Security Training Commission's blueprint for UMT envisions eventual training of 800,000 American youths annually at a cost which could run to more than $4,000,000,000 the first year. However, indications were that the first year cost would be a great deal less than that.

The commission's recommendations to Congress, made public last night, were submitted under terms of a 1951 law which extended the draft and approved the broad idea of UMT. The law, enacted last June, requires further congressional action to put UMT into effect.

No Delay Asked

The commission urged that the implementing legislation it recommended be approved "without delay" when Congress reconvenes next January. It added, however, that uncertain world conditions—notably the situation in Korea—make it impossible to forecast when the proposed training program could be started.

But a start at the earliest practicable time is imperative, the commission declared, because "the clear prospect is that the present generation must live in danger for many years."

An enemy today can strike directly at the United States by sea or air, so "the American people must be prepared, like their forbears who pushed the frontier westward, to meet a savage and deadly attack at any moment."

The commission said "The return to frontier conditions demands a frontier response"—to have every physically and mentally able youth 18 years old trained for six months in the "art of survival and self defense."

Reflects Reality

The group added that Congress' approval of the principle of UMT "reflects the reality that all free society is engaged in mortal struggle with Soviet communism."

The present law provides that the Senate and House Armed Services Committees will have 45 working days to study and act on the commission's recommendations after Congress reconvenes, Jan. 8. Any legislation sent to the Senate or the House by the committees will have privileged status, which means any member could call the measure up for a showdown vote at any time.

Senator Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate committee, and Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.), who heads the House Armed Services unit, are on record in favor of putting UMT into effect as soon as possible.

However, Rep. Arens (R-Ill.), another member of the House committee, told a reporter he is "not" convinced that the country

'Perfect Crime' Puts Three Persons in Jail

Saugerties Cashier and Two Men Are Seized—Money Recovered

State police and county authorities claimed a quick solution to "The Perfect Crime" with the arrest early Sunday morning of three persons on first degree grand larceny charges.

Investigation of a reported "gun point theft" of $2,500 from the J. J. Newberry Company store at Saugerties Saturday night led to the arrest of a criminology school graduate described by authorities as the "mastermind" of the planned crime; the cashier who reported she was robbed and struck in the face by a gun-toting robber, and of a 25-year-old Brooklyn man accused of entering the store at closing time and receiving the week-end receipts from the cashier.

Arraigned on Charges

Arraigned before Police Justice Daniel Lamb of Saugerties on first degree grand larceny charges were Louis John Mininchelli, 31, and his wife, Mildred Louise, 28, of South Partition street, Saugerties, and Arthur W. Hauffe, 25, who gave his address as 87 Monument Walk, Brooklyn. All the accused waived examination and were ordered held for grand jury action.

Calls Manager

Mrs. Mininchelli, who had been employed as cashier at the Newberry store since Sept. 8, called the manager, Raymond Ruby, from the front of the store about 5:30 p. m. Saturday, telling him a man had just entered the back door, displaying a nickle plated revolver, and forced her to hand over to him the money, which state police later said amounted to $2,597 in change and bills in denominations up to $20. The man slapped her on the face,

Barbers May Raise Haircut Prices

Mass Meeting Is Called For Wednesday by Union Local

Members of Journeymen Barbers' National Union, Local 534 and other barbers, will discuss a $1 haircut proposal for the city at a meeting in the former Opera House building on Fair street Wednesday at 8 p. m.

A call for the mass meeting of barbers was issued today by Anthony Saccoman, secretary of the union for the meeting to regulate prices and Monday closing.

Besides the proposed $1 for haircuts, they will discuss the price of 90 cents for childrens' haircuts on weekdays and $1 on Saturdays. It is proposed to keep the price of shaves at 50 cents. The price for women's haircuts would also be $1.

Arraignment Postponed

Lake Charles, La., Oct. 29 (AP)—Arraignment of five newsmen on charges that they defamed 16 public officials and three admitted gamblers during an anti-gambling crusade was postponed in district criminal court here today. The arraignment was delayed because the newsmen appealed to the Louisiana Supreme Court from a decision by Special Judge Bernard Cocke of New Orleans that he was qualified to try the case and Assistant Attorney General M. E. Culligan was qualified to prosecute it.

Broker Pleads Guilty

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—William J. Johnston of Sycamore avenue, Shrewsbury, N. J., former wealthy stockbroker, pleaded guilty today to first degree larceny. He was charged with misappropriating $180,000 given him by investors.

Hospital Cornerstone Placed At Rites; Mayor Is Speaker

The cornerstone of the Benedictine Hospital's new addition was blessed and put into place by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, P.R.V.F., during ceremonies Saturday afternoon.

More than 100 persons, including officials and staff members of the hospital, gathered around the wind-swept platform to watch the laying of the stone which Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, principal speaker, said "will be remembered for many generations to come."

Expressing the happiness of all Kingston's citizens upon the enlargement of the Benedictine Hospital facilities, Mayor Newkirk noted that the city "is a better and finer place for us and our families to live because of your presence."

Sealed within the stone were the annual report of the hospital, on which was listed the medical staff, the sisters, nurses, students and employes of the hospital; the nurses' school bulletin; a campaign brochure; newspaper clippings relating to the construction of the addition; The Catholic News; Saturday's issue of The Kingston Daily Freeman; an issue of the News Leader; pictures of Pope Pius XII and Francis Cardinal Spellman, and an official document listing date and time of the cornerstone ceremonies and national and local officials in office at the time.

After reading the list of materials sealed in the stone, Msgr. Drury commented, "I don't think future generations will have any doubt as to the time and place."

Red Power Buildup Is Indicated

Fresh Division Believed Shifted to Kumsong Area to Reinforce Mauled Army

Ground Fire Strikes Two Aircraft, Pilots Thought Lost

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Oct. 29 (AP)—Screaming Chinese Communists three times today charged an allied-held hill mass southeast of Kumsong but failed to regain the positions allied forces took three days ago.

A frontline dispatch said the pre-dawn attacks kicked off in company strength at 1:30 a. m. (11:30 a. m. Sunday, EST) and built up to battalion size three hours later.

Whooshing mortar fire pounded allied infantrymen as the Reds rolled down a slope facing the UN held hills on the central front.

AP Correspondent Milo Farneti reported from the central front that allied officers believe the Reds have shifted a fresh division to the Kumsong area to reinforce a Red division badly mauled earlier this month.

On the western front allied forces slogged forward as much as 1,200 yards.

Hill Is Seized

In the east they seized a hill and gained up to 1,000 yards after turning back three separate night attacks.

Between 80 and 90 Communist jets were sighted Monday over northwest Korea but a Fifth Air Force officer said the Reds "weren't aggressive and went out of their way to avoid tangling with our pilots." It was the first time in nine days the Reds had refused a fight.

Red ground fire, however, knocked two allied planes out of the air. There was no chance of the pilots surviving, the air force said.

In the air Sunday, allied and Russian-made jets battled for the eighth straight day. The Fifth Air Force said one Red MIG was shot down and another destroyed in three battles involving 64 U. S. Sabre jets and 160 enemy jets.

Pounce on Traffic

Fifth Air Force pilots Sunday night pounced on heavy enemy traffic columns and destroyed 235 vehicles. Pilots estimated they sighted more than 2,100. The heaviest movement was along the Sinanju - Pyongyang - Sariwŏn-Kumchon supply line.

On Saturday night pilots reported they destroyed more than 236 of 3,000 Red vehicles brought under attack.

Kumsong, 30 miles north of Parallel 38 and onetime enemy strong point, has been neutralized, an Eighth Army staff officer said.

Allied troops have been in and out of the rubbled city for days but have not occupied it because of heavy enemy gun emplacements behind the town.

Farneti said it was these guns which engaged allied tanks in a knockdown battle Sunday. Four tanks were damaged but all were retrieved.

Bunkers Knocked Out

UN tank guns knocked out 80 Communist bunkers and killed 42 Reds as the Communists poured 320 rounds of mortar and artillery fire on the column.

The Eighth Army said another tank force raided the city again Monday but ran into only a moderate concentration of enemy fire. Results of the raid were not announced.

The allied shells were landing only 3½ miles away.

Two hills fell Sunday to advancing UN troops east and north of Munsan, site of the allied peace camp. The Chinese put up a scrap for one but withdrew from the other following a heavy pounding the day before.

On the eastern front the Monday gains were made west of the punchbowl. A hill was occupied.

Small units fought sharp skirmishes Sunday west of Heartbreak Ridge and north of the punchbowl on the eastern front. There were 14 minor patrol engagements northwest of Yanggu.

Security Commission Sees Training of 800,000 Youths at Huge Cost in Year

Washington, Oct. 29 (AP)—Lawmakers today predicted hot debate in Congress next year over a government commission's call for universal military training (UMT) as long range protection in the "mortal struggle with Soviet communism."

The new National Security Training Commission's blueprint for UMT envisions eventual training of 800,000 American youths annually at a cost which could run to more than $4,000,000,000 the first year. However, indications were that the first year cost would be a great deal less than that.

The commission's recommendations to Congress, made public last night, were submitted under terms of a 1951 law which extended the draft and approved the broad idea of UMT. The law, enacted last June, requires further congressional action to put UMT into effect.

No Delay Asked

The commission urged that the implementing legislation it recommended be approved "without delay" when Congress reconvenes next January. It added, however, that uncertain world conditions—notably the situation in Korea—make it impossible to forecast when the proposed training program could be started.

But a start at the earliest practicable time is imperative, the commission declared, because "the clear prospect is that the present generation must live in danger for many years."

An enemy today can strike directly at the United States by sea or air, so "the American people must be prepared, like their forbears who pushed the frontier westward, to meet a savage and deadly attack at any moment."

The commission said "The return to frontier conditions demands a frontier response"—to have every physically and mentally able youth 18 years old trained for six months in the "art of survival and self defense."

Reflects Reality

The group added that Congress' approval of the principle of UMT "reflects the reality that all free society is engaged in mortal struggle with Soviet communism."

The present law provides that the Senate and House Armed Services Committees will have 45 working days to study and act on the commission's recommendations after Congress reconvenes, Jan. 8. Any legislation sent to the Senate or the House by the committees will have privileged status, which means any member could call the measure up for a showdown vote at any time.

Senator Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate committee, and Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.), who heads the House Armed Services unit, are on record in favor of putting UMT into effect as soon as possible.

However, Rep. Arens (R-Ill.), another member of the House committee, told a reporter he is "not" convinced that the country

'Perfect Crime' Puts Three Persons in Jail

Saugerties Cashier and Two Men Are Seized—Money Recovered

State police and county authorities claimed a quick solution to "The Perfect Crime" with the arrest early Sunday morning of three persons on first degree grand larceny charges.

Investigation of a reported "gun point theft" of $2,500 from the J. J. Newberry Company store at Saugerties Saturday night led to the arrest of a criminology school graduate described by authorities as the "mastermind" of the planned crime; the cashier who reported she was robbed and struck in the face by a gun-toting robber, and of a 25-year-old Brooklyn man accused of entering the store at closing time and receiving the week-end receipts from the cashier.

Arraigned on Charges

Arraigned before Police Justice Daniel Lamb of Saugerties on first degree grand larceny charges were Louis John Mininchelli, 31, and his wife, Mildred Louise, 28, of South Partition street, Saugerties, and Arthur W. Hauffe, 25, who gave his address as 87 Monument Walk, Brooklyn. All the accused waived examination and were ordered held for grand jury action.

Calls Manager

Mrs. Mininchelli, who had been employed as cashier at the Newberry store since Sept. 8, called the manager, Raymond Ruby, from the front of the store about 5:30 p. m. Saturday, telling him a man had just entered the back door, displaying a nickle plated revolver, and forced her to hand over to him the money, which state police later said amounted to $2,597 in change and bills in denominations up to $20. The man slapped her on the face,

Barbers May Raise Haircut Prices

Mass Meeting Is Called For Wednesday by Union Local

Members of Journeymen Barbers' National Union, Local 534 and other barbers, will discuss a $1 haircut proposal for the city at a meeting in the former Opera House building on Fair street Wednesday at 8 p. m.

A call for the mass meeting of barbers was issued today by Anthony Saccoman, secretary of the union for the meeting to regulate prices and Monday closing.

Besides the proposed $1 for haircuts, they will discuss the price of 90 cents for childrens' haircuts on weekdays and $1 on Saturdays. It is proposed to keep the price of shaves at 50 cents. The price for women's haircuts would also be $1.

Arraignment Postponed

Lake Charles, La., Oct. 29 (AP)—Arraignment of five newsmen on charges that they defamed 16 public officials and three admitted gamblers during an anti-gambling crusade was postponed in district criminal court here today. The arraignment was delayed because the newsmen appealed to the Louisiana Supreme Court from a decision by Special Judge Bernard Cocke of New Orleans that he was qualified to try the case and Assistant Attorney General M. E. Culligan was qualified to prosecute it.

Broker Pleads Guilty

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—William J. Johnston of Sycamore avenue, Shrewsbury, N. J., former wealthy stockbroker, pleaded guilty today to first degree larceny. He was charged with misappropriating $180,000 given him by investors.

Hospital Cornerstone Placed At Rites; Mayor Is Speaker

The cornerstone of the Benedictine Hospital's new addition was blessed and put into place by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, P.R.V.F., during ceremonies Saturday afternoon.

More than 100 persons, including officials and staff members of the hospital, gathered around the wind-swept platform to watch the laying of the stone which Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, principal speaker, said "will be remembered for many generations to come."

Expressing the happiness of all Kingston's citizens upon the enlargement of the Benedictine Hospital facilities, Mayor Newkirk noted that the city "is a better and finer place for us and our families to live because of your presence."

Sealed within the stone were the annual report of the hospital, on which was listed the medical staff, the sisters, nurses, students and employes of the hospital; the nurses' school bulletin; a campaign brochure; newspaper clippings relating to the construction of the addition; The Catholic News; Saturday's issue of The Kingston Daily Freeman; an issue of the News Leader; pictures of Pope Pius XII and Francis Cardinal Spellman, and an official document listing date and time of the cornerstone ceremonies and national and local officials in office at the time.

After reading the list of materials sealed in the stone, Msgr. Drury commented, "I don't think future generations will have any doubt as to the time and place."

Red Power Buildup Is Indicated

Ground Fire Strikes Two Aircraft, Pilots Thought Lost

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Oct. 29 (AP)—Screaming Chinese Communists three times today charged an allied-held hill mass southeast of Kumsong but failed to regain the positions allied forces took three days ago.

A frontline dispatch said the pre-dawn attacks kicked off in company strength at 1:30 a. m. (11:30 a. m. Sunday, EST) and built up to battalion size three hours later.

Whooshing mortar fire pounded allied infantrymen as the Reds rolled down a slope facing the UN held hills on the central front.

AP Correspondent Milo Farneti reported from the central front that allied officers believe the Reds have shifted a fresh division to the Kumsong area to reinforce a Red division badly mauled earlier this month.

On the western front allied forces slogged forward as much as 1,200 yards.

Hill Is Seized

In the east they seized a hill and gained up to 1,000 yards after turning back three separate night attacks.

Between 80 and 90 Communist jets were sighted Monday over northwest Korea but a Fifth Air Force officer said the Reds "weren't aggressive and went out of their way to avoid tangling with our pilots." It was the first time in nine days the Reds had refused a fight.

Red ground fire, however, knocked two allied planes out of the air. There was no chance of the pilots surviving, the air force said.

In the air Sunday, allied and Russian-made jets battled for the eighth straight day. The Fifth Air Force said one Red MIG was shot down and another destroyed in three battles involving 64 U. S. Sabre jets and 160 enemy jets.

Pounce on Traffic

Fifth Air Force pilots Sunday night pounced on heavy enemy traffic columns and destroyed 235 vehicles. Pilots estimated they sighted more than 2,100. The heaviest movement was along the Sinanju - Pyongyang - Sariwŏn-Kumchon supply line.

On Saturday night pilots reported they destroyed more than 236 of 3,000 Red vehicles brought under attack.

Kumsong, 30 miles north of Parallel 38 and onetime enemy strong point, has been neutralized, an Eighth Army staff officer said.

Allied troops have been in and out of the rubbled city for days but have not occupied it because of heavy enemy gun emplacements behind the town.

Farneti said it was these guns which engaged allied tanks in a knockdown battle Sunday. Four tanks were damaged but all were retrieved.

Bunkers Knocked Out

UN tank guns knocked out 80 Communist bunkers and killed 42 Reds as the Communists poured 320 rounds of mortar and artillery fire on the column.

The Eighth Army said another tank force raided the city again Monday but ran into only a moderate concentration of enemy fire. Results of the raid were not announced.

The allied shells were landing only 3½ miles away.

Two hills fell Sunday to advancing UN troops east and north of Munsan, site of the allied peace camp. The Chinese put up a scrap for one but withdrew from the other following a heavy pounding the day before.

On the eastern front the Monday gains were made west of the punchbowl. A hill was occupied.

Small units fought sharp skirmishes Sunday west of Heartbreak Ridge and north of the punchbowl on the eastern front. There were 14 minor patrol engagements northwest of Yanggu.

Missing Youths Involved in Theft

The questioning of one of three runaway boys picked up here Sunday revealed that they had been involved in a burglary at Elmsford.

A police report at 11:05 p. m., said a Hurley avenue resident notified headquarters that three boys were at her house and they appeared to be runaways. Officers DeGraff and Eisele brought them to headquarters.

A teletype message, meanwhile, had described three youngsters missing from a Dobbs Ferry children's home, and a check revealed the boys picked up here to be the trio. Two were 12 years old and the other 13.

The statement taken from one of them said they had entered the Elmsford restaurant, and the one who gave the statement said he cut his right wrist in entering the place. The cut was infected and was treated at Kingston Hospital, the report said. They were housed at the Volunteers of America home pending arrival of the children's home authorities.

Evening Verse
(For Your Scrapbook)
By DANIEL J. O'CONNOR

HALLOWE'EN

What becomes of all the witches—
Spooks who hide in darkened niches
Clowns and queens, and men of riches
After Hallowe'en?
Where will pumpkins, fat and blinking
Find themselves, when day is winking
And the moon is slowly sinking
After dawn is seen?

Where do ghosts and goblins hurry
When the world resumes its worry
And the pleasant hours of flurry
Fade before the sun?
Why must queens and clowns fantastic
Pumpkins, fat, with smiles elastic
Have to suffer changes drastic
When night is done?

Hallowe'en and all it sends us
Plays its jokes, and thus befriends us;
Smiles—and all too briefly lends us

MORTICIANS

County Units

sackie where a rest period was taken and the vehicles in the convoy were gased from a tank truck which accompanied the convoy.

The Ulster county convoy arrived at the check point, the Carman fire station just outside Schenectady at 10:45 o'clock where it was met by Officer Keating of the Schenectady fire department who accompanied the local men to the point of the incident and also after the incident was over convoyed the men and equipment to a point where emergency food had been prepared for those who had taken part in the incident. There hot coffee, beans and franfurters were served the men.

Arrive at 11:35 a. m.

Ulster county units arrived at the scene of the incident at 11:35 a. m. and within a minute of the arrival of the convoy water was being thrown by the pumpers. The incident was over and the local men left their assigned point back of the Van Curler Hotel near the G. E. plant at 2 p. m.

Units participating in the convoy were met at the assembly point at Saugerties by Sheriff Cluett Schantz whose car was used to guide the unit. Accompanying Sheriff Schantz was County Co-ordinator of Fire Arthur C. Chipp, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and Ward Tongue, civil defense auxiliary police chief.

Equipment from each area of the county took part in the test.

Participating Elements

From Ellenville was the Pioneer engine under direction of Fire Chief Benjamin Litchrod, Assistant Chief Edward Traphagen and men from all three fire companies who made the run were Percy Krom, Edwin Hoar, Pervis Damms, Gordon Krom, George Garrison, John McCoombs and Arthur Brown.

Ulster Hose Company under Assistant Chief William Norton, Fire Commissioner Milton Davis, Assistant Engineer Austin Brown, sent the following men: Donald Reed, Daniel Morehouse, Emil Wieland, Paul Stevenson, Otis Willt and Lieut. Ernest Petersen.

Assistant District Co-ordinator Robert Mishel also accompanied the men.

Esopus apparatus was under Chief Harry Maines with the following men making the trip: Fred Hamel, Ralph Coutant, Ralsey Mott, Jr., George Huth, David Lundy, Frank Kurtz, District Coordinator Edward Maines, who also is chief of the Port Ewen fire department, accompanied the unit.

From New Paltz, under direction of Marion Sheeley, was Alvin Beatty, John LeFever, Patrick Cafferty, Charles Mackey, Charles Spaats, Clifford Van Valkenburgh and George Bogert.

A. H. Wicks Hose Company of Kingston was under direction of Captain Foster Winfield with the following men making the trip: H. Shultis, M. Locke, J. Godwin, D. Hammond, T. Greer and N. Nanna.

Riding the bus which accompanied the convoy were D. Remus, J. McMahon, J. Hadsel, R. Lasher, W. Nessel and C. Remus.

Aldrich & Scheffel of Hurley avenue supplied a wrecker and its services were required when the incident was over at Schenectady. So much water had been thrown that the ground became soaked and it was necessary to hook on to the Pioneer truck to start it out from the incident.

A. R. Newcombe supplied the gasoline truck which was operated by Roy Van Etten. All vehicles were supplied with gas at Coxsackie on the way up, at Schenectady and at the Town of Ulster fire station on the way home. About 340 gallons of gas was pumped into the vehicles on the trip.

Jesse Van Kleeck supplied one of the Eagle Bus Company buses for the transportation of the extra men who did not ride the trucks to the scene.

In addition to the six fire trucks there were two station wagons in the convoy. One of the station wagons operated by Lou Rolling, Civil Defense director of New Paltz, was used as an ambulance and the other was the station wagon operated by Philip Schantz, assistant Ulster county Welfare Commissioner, which carried various pieces of equipment.

Most Complete Unit

A private car was also used to transport the Civil Defense Auxiliary police unit.

Bringing up at the rear of the convoy was the police car operated by Chief of Police Raymond Van Buren of the Kingston police department who was accompanied by Sergeants William Messing and Lemuel Howard. The convoy had a total of 14 vehicles.

The Ulster county unit was said to have been the most complete unit at the scene and presented the best convoy to take part in the incident. At the scene of the incident hot coffee and donuts were served the men.

The Ulster county equipment was in line with a battery of 16 pumpers which had been assigned to throw up a "wall of water" each pumping two streams of water from the canal which runs close to the spot. Sixteen other companies were at the incident pumping water by relay with each truck putting out about 800 feet of hose to cover the 2½ mile relay.

En route to the scene every cross road and every intersecting highway was protected by auxiliary police who gave the fire convoy the right of way.

County Co-ordinator Chipp today stated that the entire test was "handled nicely" and demonstrations proved that in a real emergency effective work could be done.

"I want to publicly thank the fire service for its excellent cooperation and every community which stood ready to send equipment, as well as the men who took part in the test," Chipp said.

Hot Debate Lies

wants peacetime military conscription." He indicated that Congress shouldn't seriously consider the issue while men still are being drafted.

'Absolutely Necessary'

On the other hand, Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, senior Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, declared "the chaotic world situation makes it absolutely necessary that the best possible UMT plan be put into effect as soon as conditions permit."

Senator Cain (R-Wash.) and Senator Hunt (D-Wyo.) also members of the Armed Services Committee, predicted stormy debate on the issue. Both lawmakers said, however, they hope Congress will enact legislation clearing the way for starting UMT when feasible.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) said he will continue to oppose the projected UMT program "because it would put an eight-year mortgage on the lives of all our young men at the very time they should be getting a start on their careers."

Johnson was referring to a provision of the plan requiring seven and a half years in a reserve component after six months of UMT training. That would make trainees subject to call in the reserves of the army, navy, marines or air force, or in the ground or air national guard.

Continuous Training

The commission's report calling for six months of continuous training for 18-year-olds also said:

1. The Defense Department has estimated the first-year cost of training 800,000 youths at $4,187,983,600, with the annual cost dropping subsequently to $2,158,764,200. The plan, the commission said, is to start the program on a much smaller scale. Training 60,000 men a year would cost, it was estimated, $398,895,210 at the start and $179,291,680 each year thereafter.

2. The military's cost estimate appears too high, the report to Congress said.

3. Induction of trainees would be through the Selective Service system, although the members would not be part of the regular armed services.

4. Deferments would be held to a minimum. Youths could remain in high school until (a) graduation, (b) until their 20th birthday, or (c) until they ceased to get satisfactory grades—with whichever situation arising first controlling.

Youths ordered to report for UMT service while in college would be deferred until the end of the academic year, but could be inducted earlier if they failed to make good in their studies.

5. The proposed program would not literally be "universal" because some 18-year-olds would not be able to pass certain physical and mental tests. Youths disqualified on that basis could be mobilized and their civilian skills used in an emergency.

Pope Speaks Out

cations." Above all, he said, two hypotheses must be considered:

Married persons, he counselled, can make use of their matrimonial right in the days of natural sterility.

"But," he added, "if instead (one) goes beyond that, permitting, that is, the conjugal act exclusively in those days (of natural sterility), then the conduct of the spouses must be examined more attentively. * * *

"If in contracting marriage one of the spouses had the intention of restricting to sterile periods the matrimonial right * * * that would invalidate the marriage itself, because the right deriving from the matrimonial contract is a permanent, uninterrupted and not intermittent right of each one of the spouses before the other.

"But, if instead the limitation of the act to the days of natural sterility refers not to the right itself but only to the use of the right, the validity of the marriage remains beyond question."

Woman Injured When Car Is Hit

Woodstock, Oct. 29—An automobile standing in Clarence Snyder's driveway on the Bearsville road was damaged Sunday afternoon.

State police reported that Mary Tripicco, a passenger in the automobile driven by Mrs. Florence Snyder, was treated by Dr. Hans Cohn for contusions of the left temple and a sprained wrist. The automobile, which was waiting in the driveway until traffic passed before it could pull out on to the highway, was struck by another automobile owned and driven by Dr. J. Robert Campenella, 43, of New York, troopers said.

The doctor's car, swerving to avoid a third automobile, crashed against the foundation of the Snyder home, troopers said.

Following the accident, Leonard Hartmann, 48, of New York was arrested on a charge of reckless driving. Although Hartmann's automobile was not directly involved, Dr. Campenella charged that he was forced off the road when Hartmann attempted to swing into another driveway. Hartmann was scheduled for a hearing Nov. 3 before Justice of the Peace Joseph Fitzsimmons of Woodstock.

Fire Trucks Arrive

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said today that the fire trucks for Cordts and Rapid Hose Companies which have arrived on a siding near Greenkill avenue were expected to be unloaded from the train some time during the afternoon. The trucks are 500-gallon pumpers with American LaFrance equipment on Dodge chassis. They will add to the gradual improvement of the volunteer firemen's equipment in the city.

Late Bulletin

Albany, Oct. 29 (AP)—Governor Dewey today moved in on the New York dock strike by ordering the State Mediation Board to "enter the dispute officially."

The governor said it was "intolerable" that the Port of New York "should be paralyzed by an intra-union dispute" for more than two weeks.

Dewey said the State Mediation Board had kept in touch with the situation unofficially while federal and New York city agencies tried to end the wildcat walkout.

Two Men Arrested For Theft of Car

Local police arrested two young men for the theft of an automobile early Sunday less than three hours after it was reported stolen.

Duane Francis Hamilton, 18, of 177 Murray street, and Donald Stokes, 18, of 11 East Pierpont street was arrested at 1:40 a. m. Sunday by Officers Raymond Wells and Albert Eisele in the downtown area and booked on second degree grand larceny charges.

Hamilton waived examination and was held for the grand jury and Stokes asked for examination before trial when they were brought before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today. The examination was put over until tomorrow morning. Bail was fixed at $500 for Stokes.

John F. Sass, of 144 Hunter street, reported to police headquarters at 11 p. m., Saturday, that his car had been stolen from Hunter street between 9 and 11 p. m. The two were arrested two hours and 40 minutes later.

Egyptian Woman

miles west of Ismailia, scene of bloody rioting two weeks ago.

The British spokesman said troops manning the roadblock fired after the automobile "tried to crash through." Egyptians claimed British soldiers searching a bus at Tel El Kebir control point killed a woman passenger.

Due to the confused situation in the zone, both reports could refer to the same incident.

Most Arab language newspapers in Cairo ignored an appeal by the Sudanese Constituent Commission yesterday to the United Nations for help in obtaining full self government for the Sudan.

Reports from Khartoum said the commission declared that Egypt's junking of joint rule with Britain threatens world peace.

The constituent commission was set up by British Governor General Sir Robert Howe. It includes members of all political parties except the Ashigga party which wants union with Egypt and which has boycotted British-sponsored political activities in the Sudan.

Firemen Are Called

Firemen were called out three times early Saturday night for fires in leaves. One at 7:44 p. m., was to Greenkill avenue, another at 7:48 p. m., was to North Manor avenue and at 8:30 p. m., to West Chestnut street. A call at 2:06 a. m. Sunday was for a slight fire caused by exhaust sparks in the car of the Rev. W. L. Washington, 236 Catherine street. At 1:18 a. m., today a call to the home of Mrs. Anna Ashdown, 154 Foxhall avenue, was for a burned out radio transformer which caused smoke.

'Perfect Crime' Places Three in Jail

causing her to fall to the floor, then left with the money in a bag, she reported.

Ruby immediately notified Saugerties police, who in turn notified state police, Kingston police and the Ulster county sheriff's office. Roadblocks were set up by troopers and maintained for an hour and a half.

At the time of the reported robbery, the manager was in the front of the long store, taking care of a last customer and letting other employes out the door. Also in the store was Mininchelli, apparently waiting for his wife.

Questioning Begins

When roadblocks failed to bring results, troopers under Lieutenant W. F. Driscoll, along with District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, Undersheriff Clayton Vredenburg and Identification Officer Arthur H. Brown began further questioning of the cashier and her husband. Other state police officials joining the investigation included Sgt. Lynn Baker and Trooper John Metzer of the B.C.I., and Cpl. Bernard Herron of the Kingston station, along with other uniformed men. Saugerties police under Chief A. W. Richter participated.

Among the facts which authorities said they learned during questioning was that last Thursday Mininchelli had received his diploma from the New York Institute of Criminology, where he had studied criminal investigation and detection under the G.I. Bill.

District Attorney Bruhn, state police and sheriff's office men charged today that "several discrepencies" in the stories of the Saugerties couple led to their arrest on charges that they were themselves implicated in the theft of the money.

None Remained

Undersheriff Vredenburg said he was suspicious of the fact that the "robber" was able to get away with every penny of the money. Not one cent remained in the cash drawer or the safe, he reported.

The district attorney also questioned how it was possible for the "robber" to slap the cashier in the face while carrying a revolver in one hand and a bag of money—later found to weigh about 30 pounds—in the other.

A chance remark attributed by authorities to Mininchelli caused Lieutenant Driscoll and the district attorney to dispatch Sergeant Baker, Trooper Metzer and Arthur Brown to Mininchelli's home to bring in for questioning a friend visiting them.

The "break" in the case came when the officials claimed they found Hauffe in bed at the Mininchelli home with the missing money.

The three persons were taken into custody and information gathered by the investigators will be presented to the grand jury. The grand jury members will determine whether the evidence is sufficient to indict, or formally charge, them with commission of the alleged grand larceny. If an indictment is found, the accused persons are granted a trial in county court.

State police claim they have obtained statements from the three in which Mininchelli was listed as the person who planned the theft, enlisting the aid of Hauffe, with whom he was acquainted and who came to Saugerties from Brooklyn on Saturday morning.

Although Mrs. Mininchelli at first said the "robber" held her up at gun-point, Undersheriff Vredenburg said later investigation disclosed no gun was used.

By DANIEL J. O'CONNOR

HALLOWE'EN

What becomes of all the witches—
Spooks who hide in darkened niches
Clowns and queens, and men of riches
After Hallowe'en?
Where will pumpkins, fat and blinking
Find themselves, when day is winking
And the moon is slowly sinking
After dawn is seen?

Where do ghosts and goblins hurry
When the world resumes its worry
And the pleasant hours of flurry
Fade before the sun?
Why must queens and clowns fantastic
Pumpkins, fat, with smiles elastic
Have to suffer changes drastic
When night is done?

Hallowe'en and all it sends us
Plays its jokes, and thus befriends us;
Smiles—and all too briefly lends us

Missing Youths Involved in Theft

The questioning of one of three runaway boys picked up here Sunday revealed that they had been involved in a burglary at Elmsford.

A police report at 11:05 p. m., said a Hurley avenue resident notified headquarters that three boys were at her house and they appeared to be runaways. Officers DeGraff and Eisele brought them to headquarters.

A teletype message, meanwhile, had described three youngsters missing from a Dobbs Ferry children's home, and a check revealed the boys picked up here to be the trio. Two were 12 years old and the other 13.

The statement taken from one of them said they had entered the Elmsford restaurant, and the one who gave the statement said he cut his right wrist in entering the place. The cut was infected and was treated at Kingston Hospital, the report said. They were housed at the Volunteers of America home pending arrival of the children's home authorities.

County Units

sackie where a rest period was taken and the vehicles in the convoy were gased from a tank truck which accompanied the convoy.

The Ulster county convoy arrived at the check point, the Carman fire station just outside Schenectady at 10:45 o'clock where it was met by Officer Keating of the Schenectady fire department who accompanied the local men to the point of the incident and also after the incident was over convoyed the men and equipment to a point where emergency food had been prepared for those who had taken part in the incident. There hot coffee, beans and franfurters were served the men.

Arrive at 11:35 a. m.

Ulster county units arrived at the scene of the incident at 11:35 a. m. and within a minute of the arrival of the convoy water was being thrown by the pumpers. The incident was over and the local men left their assigned point back of the Van Curler Hotel near the G. E. plant at 2 p. m.

Units participating in the convoy were met at the assembly point at Saugerties by Sheriff Cluett Schantz whose car was used to guide the unit. Accompanying Sheriff Schantz was County Co-ordinator of Fire Arthur C. Chipp, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and Ward Tongue, civil defense auxiliary police chief.

Equipment from each area of the county took part in the test.

Participating Elements

From Ellenville was the Pioneer engine under direction of Fire Chief Benjamin Litchrod, Assistant Chief Edward Traphagen and men from all three fire companies who made the run were Percy Krom, Edwin Hoar, Pervis Damms, Gordon Krom, George Garrison, John McCoombs and Arthur Brown.

Ulster Hose Company under Assistant Chief William Norton, Fire Commissioner Milton Davis, Assistant Engineer Austin Brown, sent the following men: Donald Reed, Daniel Morehouse, Emil Wieland, Paul Stevenson, Otis Willt and Lieut. Ernest Petersen.

Assistant District Co-ordinator Robert Mishel also accompanied the men.

Esopus apparatus was under Chief Harry Maines with the following men making the trip: Fred Hamel, Ralph Coutant, Ralsey Mott, Jr., George Huth, David Lundy, Frank Kurtz, District Coordinator Edward Maines, who also is chief of the Port Ewen fire department, accompanied the unit.

From New Paltz, under direction of Marion Sheeley, was Alvin Beatty, John LeFever, Patrick Cafferty, Charles Mackey, Charles Spaats, Clifford Van Valkenburgh and George Bogert.

A. H. Wicks Hose Company of Kingston was under direction of Captain Foster Winfield with the following men making the trip: H. Shultis, M. Locke, J. Godwin, D. Hammond, T. Greer and N. Nanna.

Riding the bus which accompanied the convoy were D. Remus, J. McMahon, J. Hadsel, R. Lasher, W. Nessel and C. Remus.

Aldrich & Scheffel of Hurley avenue supplied a wrecker and its services were required when the incident was over at Schenectady. So much water had been thrown that the ground became soaked and it was necessary to hook on to the Pioneer truck to start it out from the incident.

A. R. Newcombe supplied the gasoline truck which was operated by Roy Van Etten. All vehicles were supplied with gas at Coxsackie on the way up, at Schenectady and at the Town of Ulster fire station on the way home. About 340 gallons of gas was pumped into the vehicles on the trip.

Jesse Van Kleeck supplied one of the Eagle Bus Company buses for the transportation of the extra men who did not ride the trucks to the scene.

In addition to the six fire trucks there were two station wagons in the convoy. One of the station wagons operated by Lou Rolling, Civil Defense director of New Paltz, was used as an ambulance and the other was the station wagon operated by Philip Schantz, assistant Ulster county Welfare Commissioner, which carried various pieces of equipment.

Most Complete Unit

A private car was also used to transport the Civil Defense Auxiliary police unit.

Bringing up at the rear of the convoy was the police car operated by Chief of Police Raymond Van Buren of the Kingston police department who was accompanied by Sergeants William Messing and Lemuel Howard. The convoy had a total of 14 vehicles.

The Ulster county unit was said to have been the most complete unit at the scene and presented the best convoy to take part in the incident. At the scene of the incident hot coffee and donuts were served the men.

The Ulster county equipment was in line with a battery of 16 pumpers which had been assigned to throw up a "wall of water" each pumping two streams of water from the canal which runs close to the spot. Sixteen other companies were at the incident pumping water by relay with each truck putting out about 800 feet of hose to cover the 2½ mile relay.

En route to the scene every cross road and every intersecting highway was protected by auxiliary police who gave the fire convoy the right of way.

County Co-ordinator Chipp today stated that the entire test was "handled nicely" and demonstrations proved that in a real emergency effective work could be done.

"I want to publicly thank the fire service for its excellent cooperation and every community which stood ready to send equipment, as well as the men who took part in the test," Chipp said.

Hot Debate Lies

wants peacetime military conscription." He indicated that Congress shouldn't seriously consider the issue while men still are being drafted.

'Absolutely Necessary'

On the other hand, Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, senior Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, declared "the chaotic world situation makes it absolutely necessary that the best possible UMT plan be put into effect as soon as conditions permit."

Senator Cain (R-Wash.) and Senator Hunt (D-Wyo.) also members of the Armed Services Committee, predicted stormy debate on the issue. Both lawmakers said, however, they hope Congress will enact legislation clearing the way for starting UMT when feasible.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) said he will continue to oppose the projected UMT program "because it would put an eight-year mortgage on the lives of all our young men at the very time they should be getting a start on their careers."

Johnson was referring to a provision of the plan requiring seven and a half years in a reserve component after six months of UMT training. That would make trainees subject to call in the reserves of the army, navy, marines or air force, or in the ground or air national guard.

Continuous Training

The commission's report calling for six months of continuous training for 18-year-olds also said:

1. The Defense Department has estimated the first-year cost of training 800,000 youths at $4,187,983,600, with the annual cost dropping subsequently to $2,158,764,200. The plan, the commission said, is to start the program on a much smaller scale. Training 60,000 men a year would cost, it was estimated, $398,895,210 at the start and $179,291,680 each year thereafter.

2. The military's cost estimate appears too high, the report to Congress said.

3. Induction of trainees would be through the Selective Service system, although the members would not be part of the regular armed services.

4. Deferments would be held to a minimum. Youths could remain in high school until (a) graduation, (b) until their 20th birthday, or (c) until they ceased to get satisfactory grades—with whichever situation arising first controlling.

Youths ordered to report for UMT service while in college would be deferred until the end of the academic year, but could be inducted earlier if they failed to make good in their studies.

5. The proposed program would not literally be "universal" because some 18-year-olds would not be able to pass certain physical and mental tests. Youths disqualified on that basis could be mobilized and their civilian skills used in an emergency.

Pope Speaks Out

cations." Above all, he said, two hypotheses must be considered:

Married persons, he counselled, can make use of their matrimonial right in the days of natural sterility.

"But," he added, "if instead (one) goes beyond that, permitting, that is, the conjugal act exclusively in those days (of natural sterility), then the conduct of the spouses must be examined more attentively. * * *

"If in contracting marriage one of the spouses had the intention of restricting to sterile periods the matrimonial right * * * that would invalidate the marriage itself, because the right deriving from the matrimonial contract is a permanent, uninterrupted and not intermittent right of each one of the spouses before the other.

"But, if instead the limitation of the act to the days of natural sterility refers not to the right itself but only to the use of the right, the validity of the marriage remains beyond question."

Woman Injured When Car Is Hit

Woodstock, Oct. 29—An automobile standing in Clarence Snyder's driveway on the Bearsville road was damaged Sunday afternoon.

State police reported that Mary Tripicco, a passenger in the automobile driven by Mrs. Florence Snyder, was treated by Dr. Hans Cohn for contusions of the left temple and a sprained wrist. The automobile, which was waiting in the driveway until traffic passed before it could pull out on to the highway, was struck by another automobile owned and driven by Dr. J. Robert Campenella, 43, of New York, troopers said.

The doctor's car, swerving to avoid a third automobile, crashed against the foundation of the Snyder home, troopers said.

Following the accident, Leonard Hartmann, 48, of New York was arrested on a charge of reckless driving. Although Hartmann's automobile was not directly involved, Dr. Campenella charged that he was forced off the road when Hartmann attempted to swing into another driveway. Hartmann was scheduled for a hearing Nov. 3 before Justice of the Peace Joseph Fitzsimmons of Woodstock.

Fire Trucks Arrive

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said today that the fire trucks for Cordts and Rapid Hose Companies which have arrived on a siding near Greenkill avenue were expected to be unloaded from the train some time during the afternoon. The trucks are 500-gallon pumpers with American LaFrance equipment on Dodge chassis. They will add to the gradual improvement of the volunteer firemen's equipment in the city.

Late Bulletin

Albany, Oct. 29 (AP)—Governor Dewey today moved in on the New York dock strike by ordering the State Mediation Board to "enter the dispute officially."

The governor said it was "intolerable" that the Port of New York "should be paralyzed by an intra-union dispute" for more than two weeks.

Dewey said the State Mediation Board had kept in touch with the situation unofficially while federal and New York city agencies tried to end the wildcat walkout.

Two Men Arrested For Theft of Car

Local police arrested two young men for the theft of an automobile early Sunday less than three hours after it was reported stolen.

Duane Francis Hamilton, 18, of 177 Murray street, and Donald Stokes, 18, of 11 East Pierpont street was arrested at 1:40 a. m. Sunday by Officers Raymond Wells and Albert Eisele in the downtown area and booked on second degree grand larceny charges.

Hamilton waived examination and was held for the grand jury and Stokes asked for examination before trial when they were brought before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today. The examination was put over until tomorrow morning. Bail was fixed at $500 for Stokes.

John F. Sass, of 144 Hunter street, reported to police headquarters at 11 p. m., Saturday, that his car had been stolen from Hunter street between 9 and 11 p. m. The two were arrested two hours and 40 minutes later.

Egyptian Woman

miles west of Ismailia, scene of bloody rioting two weeks ago.

The British spokesman said troops manning the roadblock fired after the automobile "tried to crash through." Egyptians claimed British soldiers searching a bus at Tel El Kebir control point killed a woman passenger.

Due to the confused situation in the zone, both reports could refer to the same incident.

Most Arab language newspapers in Cairo ignored an appeal by the Sudanese Constituent Commission yesterday to the United Nations for help in obtaining full self government for the Sudan.

Reports from Khartoum said the commission declared that Egypt's junking of joint rule with Britain threatens world peace.

The constituent commission was set up by British Governor General Sir Robert Howe. It includes members of all political parties except the Ashigga party which wants union with Egypt and which has boycotted British-sponsored political activities in the Sudan.

Firemen Are Called

Firemen were called out three times early Saturday night for fires in leaves. One at 7:44 p. m., was to Greenkill avenue, another at 7:48 p. m., was to North Manor avenue and at 8:30 p. m., to West Chestnut street. A call at 2:06 a. m. Sunday was for a slight fire caused by exhaust sparks in the car of the Rev. W. L. Washington, 236 Catherine street. At 1:18 a. m., today a call to the home of Mrs. Anna Ashdown, 154 Foxhall avenue, was for a burned out radio transformer which caused smoke.

'Perfect Crime' Places Three in Jail

causing her to fall to the floor, then left with the money in a bag, she reported.

Ruby immediately notified Saugerties police, who in turn notified state police, Kingston police and the Ulster county sheriff's office. Roadblocks were set up by troopers and maintained for an hour and a half.

At the time of the reported robbery, the manager was in the front of the long store, taking care of a last customer and letting other employes out the door. Also in the store was Mininchelli, apparently waiting for his wife.

Questioning Begins

When roadblocks failed to bring results, troopers under Lieutenant W. F. Driscoll, along with District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, Undersheriff Clayton Vredenburg and Identification Officer Arthur H. Brown began further questioning of the cashier and her husband. Other state police officials joining the investigation included Sgt. Lynn Baker and Trooper John Metzer of the B.C.I., and Cpl. Bernard Herron of the Kingston station, along with other uniformed men. Saugerties police under Chief A. W. Richter participated.

Among the facts which authorities said they learned during questioning was that last Thursday Mininchelli had received his diploma from the New York Institute of Criminology, where he had studied criminal investigation and detection under the G.I. Bill.

District Attorney Bruhn, state police and sheriff's office men charged today that "several discrepencies" in the stories of the Saugerties couple led to their arrest on charges that they were themselves implicated in the theft of the money.

None Remained

Undersheriff Vredenburg said he was suspicious of the fact that the "robber" was able to get away with every penny of the money. Not one cent remained in the cash drawer or the safe, he reported.

The district attorney also questioned how it was possible for the "robber" to slap the cashier in the face while carrying a revolver in one hand and a bag of money—later found to weigh about 30 pounds—in the other.

A chance remark attributed by authorities to Mininchelli caused Lieutenant Driscoll and the district attorney to dispatch Sergeant Baker, Trooper Metzer and Arthur Brown to Mininchelli's home to bring in for questioning a friend visiting them.

The "break" in the case came when the officials claimed they found Hauffe in bed at the Mininchelli home with the missing money.

The three persons were taken into custody and information gathered by the investigators will be presented to the grand jury. The grand jury members will determine whether the evidence is sufficient to indict, or formally charge, them with commission of the alleged grand larceny. If an indictment is found, the accused persons are granted a trial in county court.

State police claim they have obtained statements from the three in which Mininchelli was listed as the person who planned the theft, enlisting the aid of Hauffe, with whom he was acquainted and who came to Saugerties from Brooklyn on Saturday morning.

Although Mrs. Mininchelli at first said the "robber" held her up at gun-point, Undersheriff Vredenburg said later investigation disclosed no gun was used.

Group Is Named By Vet Firemen To Obtain Gear

A committee of five to meet with the Board of Fire Commissioners for the furnishing of needed fire-fighting equipment was named during the recent regular meeting of the Veteran's Volunteer Association at the Rapid Hose Building.

Ray Radel, secretary of the VVA, said that the equipment would include boots, helmets and coats.

Last year, Radel pointed out, the same committee met with the commissioners who favored this plan and later conferred with the city budget planning committee requesting a set amount to be added to the yearly budget.

The VVA secretary added that it is the hope of the committee that if the request is approved by the fire commissioners the amount will be included in the 1952 budget.

25-Year Members Will Be Honored By Rondout Lodge

Rondout Lodge 343, F & A M, will pay honor to those who have been members of the lodge for 25 years or more Monday, Nov. 5, in its rooms in the Masonic Temple at 7:30 p. m. A unique program has been arranged.

Those who have been members for 50 years or more are William J. Turck, 67 years; Robert Quinn, 64 years; David Terry, 58 years; Wesley Gregory, 55 years; Alfred W. Tongue, 55 years; Charles H. Smith, 54 years; Benjamin W. Johnston, 53 years; Hiram T. Van Wert, 53 years; Irving W. Scott, 51 years; Dr. Samuel Stern, 51 years; Dr. Harry R. LeFever, 50 years; George B. Main, 50 years, and George B. Van Wert, 50 years. The lodge has 192 members who have been members from 49 years down to 25 years.

Rondout Lodge was instituted Sept. 18, 1854, in the rooms of Aretas Lodge of Odd Fellows in the building which stood at the corner of Canal and Ferry streets in the village of Rondout where they continued to meet each Monday night until December of 1856 when they moved to the new building which had been erected at the corner of Division and Garden streets (now Broadway and Strand) where they continued to meet until they moved to the present Masonic Temple on Albany avenue.

The records of the lodge are in an excellent state of preservation and complete from 1854 until the present.

To Display Relics

During the evening many interesting relics from the archives of the lodge will be on display. This will give many of the newer members an opportunity to see them for the first time. Especially interesting is the original charter issued by Grand Lodge, the original minute books, visitors register starting from 1854, which shows the fine writing used in those days, and many valuable old documents.

Among the relics to be shown will be a silver trowel presented Rondout Lodge by Blaney Lodge 271, F & AM of Chicago, Ill., July 10, 1872. This trowel was found among the ruins of Blaney Hall after the great Chicago fire on October 8 and 9, 1871, presented as a testimonial of fraternal friendship which existed between the two lodges. The original letter accompanying the trowel also will be on display. Another interesting relic will be the gavel presented to the lodge in 1910 by the late Wesley D. Hale upon his return from a trip around the world. While in Jerusalem he went to the quarries where was procured the granite used in the construction of King Solomon's Temple and the walls about the city and Hale secured a piece of the granite which he had a native workman form into a mallet. The handle was procured from an olive tree on the Mount of Olives.

Rondout Lodge extends a cordial invitation to all Master Masons to be present to help enjoy this evening of unique fraternal memories.

Masons to Give Dental Kits to School Students

Dr. Irving Josephson, assistant medical examiner of the Kingston school system, at a recent meeting of the Kingston Masonic Square Club held in the Masonic Temple, said that during the course of the school year, many health defects are discovered among the pupils by the school medical examiners.

In many cases the cost of correcting these defects is defrayed by the family of the pupil, he said. However, in some cases a child needs some help and the doctor pointed out that this would afford the club an excellent opportunity to aid these less fortunate pupils by providing the necessary medical attention.

Dr. Josephson outlined several projects that could be undertaken by the club and as an initial step the club decided to furnish several gross of dental kits, consisting of tooth brushes and paste which will be distributed to the students by the school nurse and dentists.

The welfare work of the club will be strictly of a non-sectarian nature and the first project is one of many the club will undertake and as the program progresses it will be of material benefit to the community.

The welfare committee of the club consists of George E. Radcliffe, Charles L. Troll, Fred W. Ahlers, Gordon A. Craig Sr. and Abraham Rosenthal.

AMENDMENT NO. 3

This proposal would amend section eight of article seven of the Constitution, to empower the legislature to provide for payment of increased pensions to members of a retirement system of the state or of a subdivision of the state.

The proposed constitutional amendment is designed to make it possible to augument the pensions received by former public officers of employes who are retired and who were members of public retirement systems. This is necessary, the sponsors contend, because inflation has reduced what had been previously adequate pension incomes. Such payments, they contend, are not permitted under the present language of the constitution. Under the proposed amendment, the legislature would have complete authority to increase the amount of pensions of members of all retirement systems, state and local without requiring any increase in member contributions during their time of active service.

There is a problem, brought about by inflation in the pension system. There are persons living on pension income who find this income inadequate.

It is considered generally that the state has a sound pension system, operated by the Public Employes Retirement Fund and jointly by the state government and the state employes.

If this plan would place the pension system in jeopardy, it should be defeated. On the other hand if it would provide adequate pensions for public employes under a sound actuarial program, it should be approved.

BETTER SECURITY RULE

The President has told a delegation of newspaper editors that he is willing to consider suggestions for modification of his security order which extends to the entire government the military system of classifying information so as to withhold it from the public. The statement may give to some small hope for improvement of the situation. The memory remains, however, that apparently no heed was paid to the protests and suggestions of editors who were given a preview of the order several weeks before it was issued.

Among features objected to by editors' groups are the vagueness of definitions for the classifications of information which may be withheld for security reasons, and the lack of clear channels of appeal from the rulings of department heads. These features embody perhaps the greatest dangers in the order to freedom of the press, to the people's right to know what is going on in government. Vagueness of definition leaves the way open for both unscrupulous and well-meaning officials to withhold information which the public ought properly to have, the former to cover up their abuse of office and the latter in simple excess of zeal. Channels of appeal are needed to bring such errors to light, if and when they occur.

In addition to imperiling press freedom, these features also weaken the security afforded by the classification system. If it is used to cover up information which is not significant to security, the effectiveness of the entire system for protecting really vital information will be reduced. It is entirely possible that this controversial order may produce less security instead of more.

When the gift catalogues from the mail-order houses are out, the youngsters can spend many dreamy hours romping from page to page. And father can contempate not so dreamily the effects on his wallet.

In asking ten different people their views on a particular issue you're likely to get eleven different answers. At least one is apt to change his mind before he's through talking.

Many a man can fill another's shoes, and it is no longer generally true that a woman would demand a size or two smaller.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

DOES NOBODY CARE?

There have always been crooked men, wicked men, malicious men—and women, too—but that is no reason why the citizens of such a country as ours should condone corruption, subversion, betrayal. Nor should we permit ourselves to be governed by the gutter by default.

Day after day, reports appear of official misconduct, internal revenue officials' dishonesty, of RFC corruption, of the secretary to the vice president being involved in using influence, of police being associated with bookmakers—and what has been disclosed amounts to hardly anything. The story has not been told by half.

And there is more than that. Take these strikes—dockworkers' strikes, milk strikes, strikes in munition plants, strikes that in the present state of our country make no sense. Those 90,000 casualties in Korea did not strike.

There seems to be no use raising that argument. Strikers say that they are veterans too. Some say that they have sons in Korea. But still they strike. They tie up supplies to their own sons and to their neighbors' sons. And what they quarrel about ought to be, among civilized persons, adjustable not only in the private interests of individuals but in the national welfare. These men are not thinking clearly; most of them are misled by extraordinarily selfish so-called leaders who project themselves into every troubled situation. For instance, the very serious New York dockers' strike began as part of a permanent feud between a man called Ryan and a man called Sampson, neither important to the needs of America.

There can be no reason why Harry Bridges should play any part in the affairs of this country. He is not one of us. He does not belong here. He has been ordered deported and somehow he and his lawyers and politicians connive to keep him in the United States. The Department of Justice has been delaying since August 1950 to bring his case on appeal before the courts, they, not he, applying for the delays. Who is interested in keeping this man, who has done this country no good since some misery brought him to our shores, in this country?

The association of Harry Bridges with John L. Lewis, and the Communists, particularly in the automobile, electrical and dockworkers' industries, cannot be constructive for America in times like these. Since 1936, they have kept the relations between labor and management disturbed with such constancy that it is impossible not to wonder why they do it. The motive must be other than personal ambition; it must be deeper than that and more perilous.

It is difficult to understand why John L. Lewis, who hates Communists, can associate with them from time to time. He has never permitted Communists in the United Mine Workers but he brought them into the C.I.O. and gave them high office. He knew that such men as Lee Pressman and Len De Caux were left-wingers. He knew that 11 of his C.I.O. unions were being organized under the control of Communists. Yet he hated Communists. How is this to be explained?

When Lewis temporarily broke with the Communists, they were strong enough to have him thrown out of the C.I.O. Yet, he is now back at the old stand, making deals with them designed to weaken the position of Walter Reuther in the United Auto Workers, so that Communists, associated now with Lewis, can gain control of that crucial union and industry.

No one can accuse John L. Lewis of being a Communist. But who can explain his conduct?

Obviously, it is impossible to depend on our politicians. They deal not with fundamental principles or with the issues in a situation. They count the votes. They measure the strength of pressure groups. They fear the violence of organized elements who answer all questions with picket lines, legal or illegal, with threats and intimidations. The police are generally instructed to ignore unlawful picketing lest they offend prospective voters. Party politics are paramount.

It simply cannot continue to go on that way without the citizens sooner or later taking matters in their own hands as they have done before in this country. And that is no solution, for it can only mean more disorders, more confusion, more injustice and hatred.

Corruption breeds not only corruption but lawlessness. When those at the top of government are moral cowards, the worst elements in the population gain control. They risk greatly because they recognize the smallness of heart, the selfishness of those at the helm of government.

This country needs a moral revolution— and soon.

MORE ABOUT PAIN IN THE NECK

I sometimes used to wonder where and when the expression "pain in the neck" started, but when we look at the symptoms of pain in the neck and see how many different conditions can cause this pain, there is no need to wonder any more. Physicians and surgeons are finding so many causes that they do not need to invent the saying "It's your nerves" because it is only too true that our nerves, which tense all the nerves of the body, very often cause this pain in the neck.

In his book "Headache," Dr. Louis G. Moench, Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine, University of Utah School of Medicine, states, "One of the most common of all headaches is that caused by hypertonicity (severe tightening or contracting of the neck muscles). Any pain in the head, shoulders, chest, or heart (under breastbone) aggravated by movement of the spine muscles at back of neck by stretching or holding neck muscles in the extended position forward, coughing, sneezing or straining, is apt to be arthritis of the joints between spine bones of the neck."

The pain in back of head and neck found in 40 per cent of early morning headaches is thought to be caused by spinal arthritis. In middle and advanced age groups they are found as often as headaches caused by eye disturbances and migraine—one-sided headache.

Bookkeeping, typing, proofreading, dressmaking and other occupations in which the head is continually bent forward are frequent causes of back of head and neck pain.

Dr. Moench suggests that in addition to the already known headaches due to strain and arthritis, there is a physical allergy, due to the formation of too much histamine in the blood. During the past year the number of cases of pain and other symptoms due to allergy caused our drug manufacturers to develop new antihistaminic (almost one new drug a week) to fight off these pains caused by too much histamine in the blood.

The role played by emotional tension cannot be overstressed.

All higher animals, including man, beset by physical dangers, raise nose, eyes, ears as high as possible and lifting the face is done by contracting neck muscles. Instead of dangers of ferocious animals, there are other conditions today that cause most of us to be alert and to tense neck muscles.

Treatment for pain in the neck is heat, massage, a high collar, injection of pain-killing drugs.

When no infection, eye disturbance or nerve tension is causing the headache, it would be worth while to remember that too much histamine may be the cause.

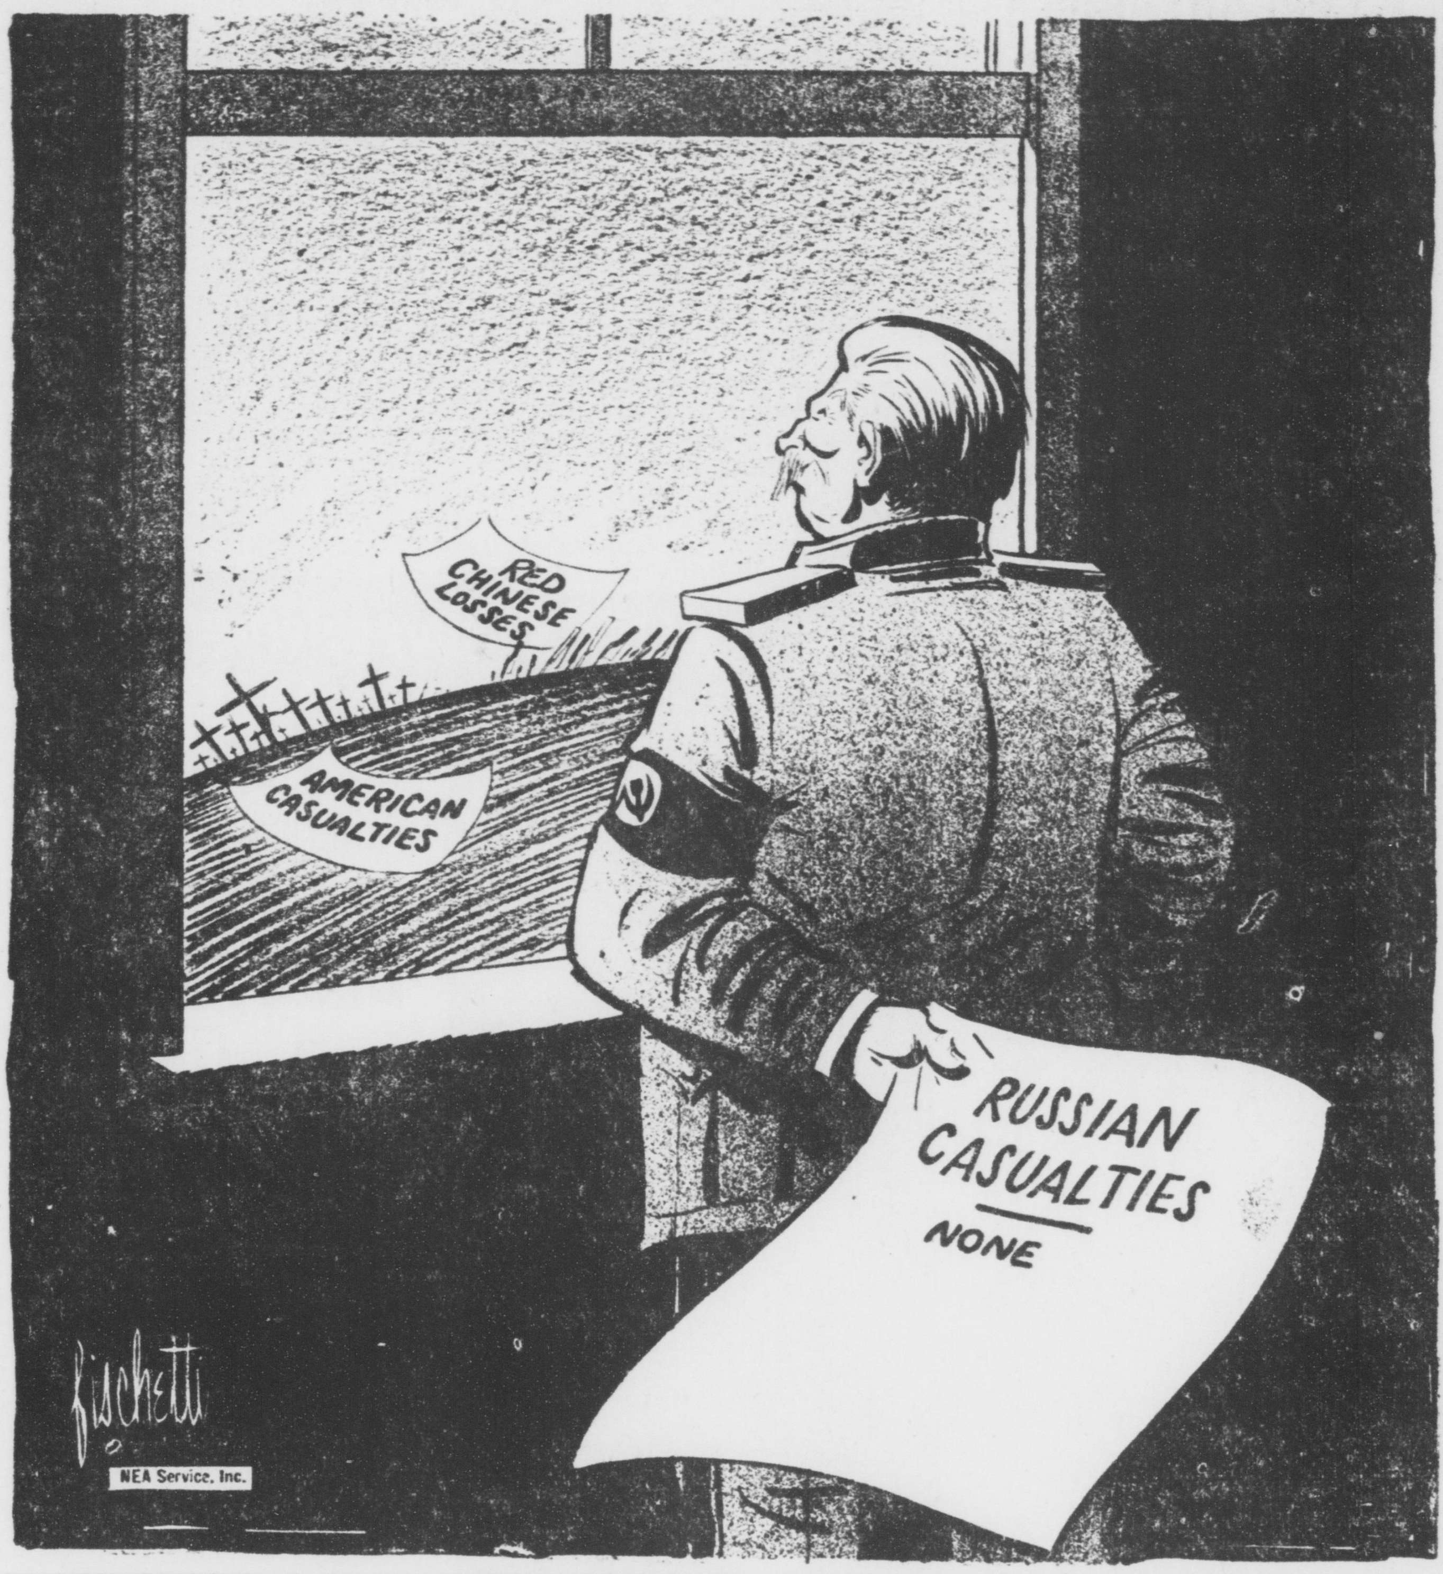
Soviet White Paper on Korea



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — With Congress taking the rest of the year off, vacation-minded congressmen have suddenly discovered "official business" in South America, the Pacific islands, the Mediterranean and other faraway places.

With winter approaching, the greatest congressional interest seems to be in South America, as compared with Alaska in the summer. More than two dozen congressmen have signed up for "surveys" of sunny South America in November and December. However, other tours are also planned through Europe, the Middle East and around the world.

While some of these trips are pure junkets, this columnist is of the opinion that some make worth-while additions to a congressman's store of knowledge at a time when the American defense line extends from Korea to the Rhine. However, since the taxpayer pays for the air travel, the public is entitled to know the travel program and judge for itself. Here are the chief itineraries:

First to light out for a foreign vacation were Congressmen Monroe Redden, North Carolina Democrat, and Fred Crawford, Michigan Republican. They represent the House Interior Committee, chiefly concerned with domestic matters. However, the congressmen explained solemnly to the air force that they had to inspect the Pacific territories entrusted to us under the peace treaty and they then headed for the Pacific by way of Paris, Geneva, Cairo and Bangkok. This is quite a long way round. Crawford left word he hoped to be back in time to make another trip to the Virgin Islands in December.

Another expedition to the Pacific "trust" territories is scheduled in November by Congressmen Ben Jensen of Iowa, Carl Andersen of Minnesota, Lowell Stockman of Oregon, George Schwabe of Oklahoma and William Van Pelt of Wisconsin, all Republicans, of the House Appropriations Committee.

Popular Latinos

The first junket to South America has been scheduled November 7 by Congressman Abraham Multer, New York Democrat, who is lining up a 45-day tour for House Banking Committee members. Presumably, they will take a long-distance view of U. S. banking problems, as seen from South America.

House Commerce Chairman Robert Crosser of Ohio has also made reservations with the air force for 18 of his committee members to make a 30-day tour of South America, November 10 to December 10. They will be followed four days later by a delegation from the House Foreign Affairs Committee, headed by Chairman James Richards of South Carolina. South America is very popular.

Those who have signed up for this South American trip are Congressmen Tom Morgan of Pennsylvania, Tom Gordon of Illinois and Omar Burleson of Texas, Democrats, with Robert Chiperfield of Illinois and Don Jackson of California, Republicans.

Another House Foreign Affairs group will leave for Europe at the same time. They will include Representatives Clement Zablocki of Wisconsin, A. S. Carnahan of Missouri and Edna Kelly of Brooklyn, N. Y., Democrats, and Jacob Javits of New York, Republican.

Around the World

Congressman Porter Hardy, Jr., Virginia Democrat, has scheduled a trip to Europe for the House Armed Services Committee November 7. A joint Senate-House group is also planning to tour Europe, North Africa and the Middle East, beginning November 6. This group includes Senators Theodore Green of Rhode Island, Brien McMahon of Connecticut, William Benton of Connecticut and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Democrats; and Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin and Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa, Republicans. Most of the above are members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, so have a legitimate reason for taking the trip.

With them will also go Congressmen Gene Cox of Georgia, Howard Smith of Virginia, Frazier Reams of Ohio and Donald O'Toole of New York, Democrats; and Walter Judd of Minnesota, Harris Ellsworth of Oregon and Kenneth Keating of New York, Republicans.

Meanwhile, another congressional delegation has already taken off for a leisurely, two-month, round-the-world tour. They include Congressmen Herbert Bonner of North Carolina, Harold Donohue of Massachusetts, Sidney Fine of New York, John Shelley of California and William Lantaff of Florida, Democrats; together with Charles Brownson of Indiana, Thomas Curtis of Missouri, Cecil Harden of Indiana, Walt Horan of Washington and George Meader of Michigan. Their "official trip" is sponsored by the House Expenditures Committee which has no round-the-world business, but is supposed to keep an eye on federal expenses.

It is interesting to note that not a single congressman has asked to go to Korea, where the weather is growing bitter cold and accommodations aren't so comfortable.

Sparkman vs. Lawyer

Sen. John Sparkman was mystified by a strange visit from an emissary of Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer just before the senator returned to Alabama.

The emissary, Assistant Secretary Thomas W. S. Davis, said, almost apologetically, "Secretary Sawyer is quite upset about your speech on the distribution of war contracts."

"What was the matter?" Sparkman asked.

"Well," Davis replied, "you said that 40 per cent of the war contracts are held by ten companies, and the secretary of commerce feels you gave an erroneous impression. After all, much of the work on the prime contracts is sublet. The Bendix Company, for example, has benefited widely from subcontracts, and it is not one of the first ten."

Sparkman said this was most interesting, and that he would like the figures on Bendix.

Davis took out the list of defense contracts, then seemed even more embarrassed. For the figures revealed that Bendix was fifteenth in the list of prime contracts, receiving $265,000,000 worth.

Note—In a recent talk at Columbus, O., not cleared at the White House, Secretary Sawyer lambasted the federal budget as "wild and extravagant" and called the small plants corporation, just approved by Congress to help small business, as "ridiculous." As a result, rumors are current around Pennsylvania avenue that Sawyer is anxious to exit from Washington.

American Conservatives Seen as Taking Heart in Churchill's Recent Victory

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 29—Any election which changes the man at the helm of the British government is bound to affect relations with the United States.

While some politicians on the Republican side here profess to see a trend away from socialism, and the Democrats believe that the programs of reforms adopted by the Labor government will not be essentially changed, the fact is that American conservatives — whether they be Democrats or Republicans — will take heart from what has happened in England.

Curiously enough, Stalin will derive considerable encouragement, too. For the "left wing" in the Labor government, which wants America to reduce her armament and appease the Communists in China and Korea, has come back with a strong vote at the polls.

As Stalin looks around the world, his cause thrives on friction inside the democracies. The rise of "left wingism" is grist to his mill. The "left wing" strength in Britain is such that, if the Conservative government fails, the next Prime Minister will not be the moderate Attlee but the extreme radical and socialist — Aneurin Bevan.

Winston Churchill will doubtless plead here for support on an economic and financial basis, using the argument that unless his government is helped to grow stronger with the people, Britain will go further and further toward the "left."

The British government is, indeed, in need of help because her economic situation is not as rosy as it has been painted. The disasters in Iran and Egypt will not diminish the external expenses of Great Britain but will increase them materially.

All in all, the British electorate is torn into three parts—the Conservatives under Churchill, the moderates or middle-of-the-roaders among the Laborites under Attlee, and the radicals under Bevan. The contest for supremacy has by no means been settled by the election. It may be, as happened in the early '30's when Ramsay MacDonald, as Prime Minister, left the Labor party to join in a coalition government, and again during the war when Attlee came into the Churchill cabinet, the majority of the British people will insist on a coalition government to see Britain through world crisis.

Plainly the conservative strength plus a substantial section of the Labor party would give a coalition government an overwhelming majority. It is on foreign or external matters that such a coalition would be forced because on domestic issues some of the major differences are still all but irreconsilable. It could be, however, that Churchill, who is a master of compromises, will woo to his side more and more of the moderate Laborites even on domestic questions. But if he doesn't choose to follow that strategy, he will be compelled to crystallize the issues for another test of power a year hence in the hope that conservative strength with the people will have been enhanced by a year of Churchill's rule.

It now is expected that Great Britain and America will work more closely than ever before. Former Prime Minister Attlee in his decisions has been constantly under the necessity of keeping an expedient eye on his "left wing," and hence he has been growing weaker and weaker in dealing with America. The "left wing" has been anti-American. Churchill, with a solid Conservative majority behind him, will have no such handicap and will not appease the "left wing," confining his compromises toward the moderate Laborites.

Concretely, a settlement of both the Iranian and the Egyptian problems will be sought by Churchill. The skill of the Conservatives as negotiators will be tested to the utmost. But a steady hand in the British foreign office, guided by the resourceful Churchill, may be looked for to cement relations between the United States and Britain in whatever joint policies may be evolved for the Middle East. Britain, in a broad sense, gains on external policy by switching to Churchill now.

What the future may be in the way of a strengthened or weakened British economy is not so readily appraised, and the danger of economic deterioration — as hoped for by Stalin — has not been removed by the entry of Churchill, because he takes over an already badly disintegrated economic system.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 28—I have been renewing old acquaintance with my first Favorite Author, Horatio Alger, Jr., through some of his earliest and best works. They are "Fame and Fortune or the Progress of Richard Hunter"; "Try and Trust or the Story of a Bound Boy"; "Phil the Fiddler, or the Young Street Musician"; "Strong and Steady or Paddle Your Own Canoe"; "Strive and Succeed or the Progress of Walter Conrad", and "Jed, the Poorhouse Boy."

This is revealing literature.

The preface to "Fame and Fortune" tells us that there were in 1868 more than 12,000 friendless, vagrant children in New York alone and many others in other cities.

"The author has sought to depict the inner life and represent the feelings and emotions of these little waifs," Alger tells us in this foreword. "He thus hopes to excite a deeper and more widespread sympathy in the public mind as well as to exert a salutary influence upon the class of whom he is writing, by setting them inspiring examples of what energy, ambition and an honest purpose may achieve."

Richard Hunter, the hero of this story, is the Ragged Dick of a preceding tale. As Ragged Dick he had slept in wagons and packing boxes and had blacked gentlemen's boots in Chatham Square.

Another figure in the Alger literature had run a racket. Equipped with a witch's broom this young man would offer to sweep the mud off the crossing in the path of gentlemen approaching, but only for a fee. If he didn't get a few pennies he would spray mud on their boots and trousers and the ragged dicks of the square would catch them for customers, altogether a graphic, description of the condition of the city streets not so long ago.

Now, Richard Hunter has rescued from a watery grave the small son of Mr. Rockwell, a rich merchant with a place of business on Pearl street and a home on Madison avenue. In gratitude, Mr. Rockwell gave him a job at $10 a week, a gold watch and chain, and a check for $1,000. Richard is a frank, modest, industrious character and by the end of chapter three we may leave him, confident that he will go over the top. He now lives in a respectable boarding house on Bleecker St., where he gets lodging and three meals a day for $5 a week. His first breakfast, a typical meal, consisted of beefsteak, hot biscuits, potatoes and very good coffee.

There is an inscription in pencil on the flyleaf of "Try and Trust or The Story of a Bound Boy"—"Jos. M. Smith, from His S. S. Teacher, Phineas Smith, Christmas, 1873."

Herbert Mason, 14, is left an orphan in Waverly, O., and his avaricious uncle in New York warily refuses to recommend him for "a situation" in the big city. Then a cruel fate would have it that he should get into a collision with mean and selfish farmer named Abner Holden in a narrow stretch or road. Herbert was driving a horse and wagon over to Mill Village to get some corn ground for a neighbor and he encountered a light open buggy driven by a "very dark man with black hair and an unshaven beard of three days' growth which did not set off his irregular and repulsive features." Herbert gave over, but the man would not yield an inch, so his buggy was upset and damaged ten dollars' worth.

Now Abner Holden, for it was indeed he, goes to Captain Ross, the "cheerman of the selectmen," who, all unknowing, delivered poor Herbert over to "the tender mercies of a man who had very little love for him."

I draw a veil over the wretched orphan's sufferings but leave you with the good news that all was well in the end.

The status and trials of Jed, the poorhouse boy, are similar to Herbert's and again we get by implication a glimpse of conditions which few of us ever heard of in our country. Adults and orphaned or abandoned children were legally committed to county poorhouses and the bondage of children in rural districts was a routine condition.

"When a boy becomes vain in his own achievements, and boastful, he is likely to alienate the respect and regard of his friends," the author wrote in the forward to "Try and Trust." How true! One may say. How true! But, "No such description will apply to Herbert Mason. It is hoped that the sympathies of the reader will attend him in his efforts to rise out of the poverty of his early days and in the fight against the

The President has told a delegation of newspaper editors that he is willing to consider suggestions for modification of his security order which extends to the entire government the military system of classifying information so as to withhold it from the public. The statement may give to some small hope for improvement of the situation. The memory remains, however, that apparently no heed was paid to the protests and suggestions of editors who were given a preview of the order several weeks before it was issued.

Among features objected to by editors' groups are the vagueness of definitions for the classifications of information which may be withheld for security reasons, and the lack of clear channels of appeal from the rulings of department heads. These features embody perhaps the greatest dangers in the order to freedom of the press, to the people's right to know what is going on in government. Vagueness of definition leaves the way open for both unscrupulous and well-meaning officials to withhold information which the public ought properly to have, the former to cover up their abuse of office and the latter in simple excess of zeal. Channels of appeal are needed to bring such errors to light, if and when they occur.

In addition to imperiling press freedom, these features also weaken the security afforded by the classification system. If it is used to cover up information which is not significant to security, the effectiveness of the entire system for protecting really vital information will be reduced. It is entirely possible that this controversial order may produce less security instead of more.

'These Days'

DOES NOBODY CARE?

There have always been crooked men, wicked men, malicious men—and women, too—but that is no reason why the citizens of such a country as ours should condone corruption, subversion, betrayal. Nor should we permit ourselves to be governed by the gutter by default.

Day after day, reports appear of official misconduct, internal revenue officials' dishonesty, of RFC corruption, of the secretary to the vice president being involved in using influence, of police being associated with bookmakers—and what has been disclosed amounts to hardly anything. The story has not been told by half.

And there is more than that. Take these strikes—dockworkers' strikes, milk strikes, strikes in munition plants, strikes that in the present state of our country make no sense. Those 90,000 casualties in Korea did not strike.

There seems to be no use raising that argument. Strikers say that they are veterans too. Some say that they have sons in Korea. But still they strike. They tie up supplies to their own sons and to their neighbors' sons. And what they quarrel about ought to be, among civilized persons, adjustable not only in the private interests of individuals but in the national welfare. These men are not thinking clearly; most of them are misled by extraordinarily selfish so-called leaders who project themselves into every troubled situation. For instance, the very serious New York dockers' strike began as part of a permanent feud between a man called Ryan and a man called Sampson, neither important to the needs of America.

There can be no reason why Harry Bridges should play any part in the affairs of this country. He is not one of us. He does not belong here. He has been ordered deported and somehow he and his lawyers and politicians connive to keep him in the United States. The Department of Justice has been delaying since August 1950 to bring his case on appeal before the courts, they, not he, applying for the delays. Who is interested in keeping this man, who has done this country no good since some misery brought him to our shores, in this country?

The association of Harry Bridges with John L. Lewis, and the Communists, particularly in the automobile, electrical and dockworkers' industries, cannot be constructive for America in times like these. Since 1936, they have kept the relations between labor and management disturbed with such constancy that it is impossible not to wonder why they do it. The motive must be other than personal ambition; it must be deeper than that and more perilous.

It is difficult to understand why John L. Lewis, who hates Communists, can associate with them from time to time. He has never permitted Communists in the United Mine Workers but he brought them into the C.I.O. and gave them high office. He knew that such men as Lee Pressman and Len De Caux were left-wingers. He knew that 11 of his C.I.O. unions were being organized under the control of Communists. Yet he hated Communists. How is this to be explained?

When Lewis temporarily broke with the Communists, they were strong enough to have him thrown out of the C.I.O. Yet, he is now back at the old stand, making deals with them designed to weaken the position of Walter Reuther in the United Auto Workers, so that Communists, associated now with Lewis, can gain control of that crucial union and industry.

No one can accuse John L. Lewis of being a Communist. But who can explain his conduct?

Obviously, it is impossible to depend on our politicians. They deal not with fundamental principles or with the issues in a situation. They count the votes. They measure the strength of pressure groups. They fear the violence of organized elements who answer all questions with picket lines, legal or illegal, with threats and intimidations. The police are generally instructed to ignore unlawful picketing lest they offend prospective voters. Party politics are paramount.

It simply cannot continue to go on that way without the citizens sooner or later taking matters in their own hands as they have done before in this country. And that is no solution, for it can only mean more disorders, more confusion, more injustice and hatred.

Corruption breeds not only corruption but lawlessness. When those at the top of government are moral cowards, the worst elements in the population gain control. They risk greatly because they recognize the smallness of heart, the selfishness of those at the helm of government.

This country needs a moral revolution— and soon.

MORE ABOUT PAIN IN THE NECK

I sometimes used to wonder where and when the expression "pain in the neck" started, but when we look at the symptoms of pain in the neck and see how many different conditions can cause this pain, there is no need to wonder any more. Physicians and surgeons are finding so many causes that they do not need to invent the saying "It's your nerves" because it is only too true that our nerves, which tense all the nerves of the body, very often cause this pain in the neck.

In his book "Headache," Dr. Louis G. Moench, Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine, University of Utah School of Medicine, states, "One of the most common of all headaches is that caused by hypertonicity (severe tightening or contracting of the neck muscles). Any pain in the head, shoulders, chest, or heart (under breastbone) aggravated by movement of the spine muscles at back of neck by stretching or holding neck muscles in the extended position forward, coughing, sneezing or straining, is apt to be arthritis of the joints between spine bones of the neck."

The pain in back of head and neck found in 40 per cent of early morning headaches is thought to be caused by spinal arthritis. In middle and advanced age groups they are found as often as headaches caused by eye disturbances and migraine—one-sided headache.

Bookkeeping, typing, proofreading, dressmaking and other occupations in which the head is continually bent forward are frequent causes of back of head and neck pain.

Dr. Moench suggests that in addition to the already known headaches due to strain and arthritis, there is a physical allergy, due to the formation of too much histamine in the blood. During the past year the number of cases of pain and other symptoms due to allergy caused our drug manufacturers to develop new antihistaminic (almost one new drug a week) to fight off these pains caused by too much histamine in the blood.

The role played by emotional tension cannot be overstressed.

All higher animals, including man, beset by physical dangers, raise nose, eyes, ears as high as possible and lifting the face is done by contracting neck muscles. Instead of dangers of ferocious animals, there are other conditions today that cause most of us to be alert and to tense neck muscles.

Treatment for pain in the neck is heat, massage, a high collar, injection of pain-killing drugs.

When no infection, eye disturbance or nerve tension is causing the headache, it would be worth while to remember that too much histamine may be the cause.

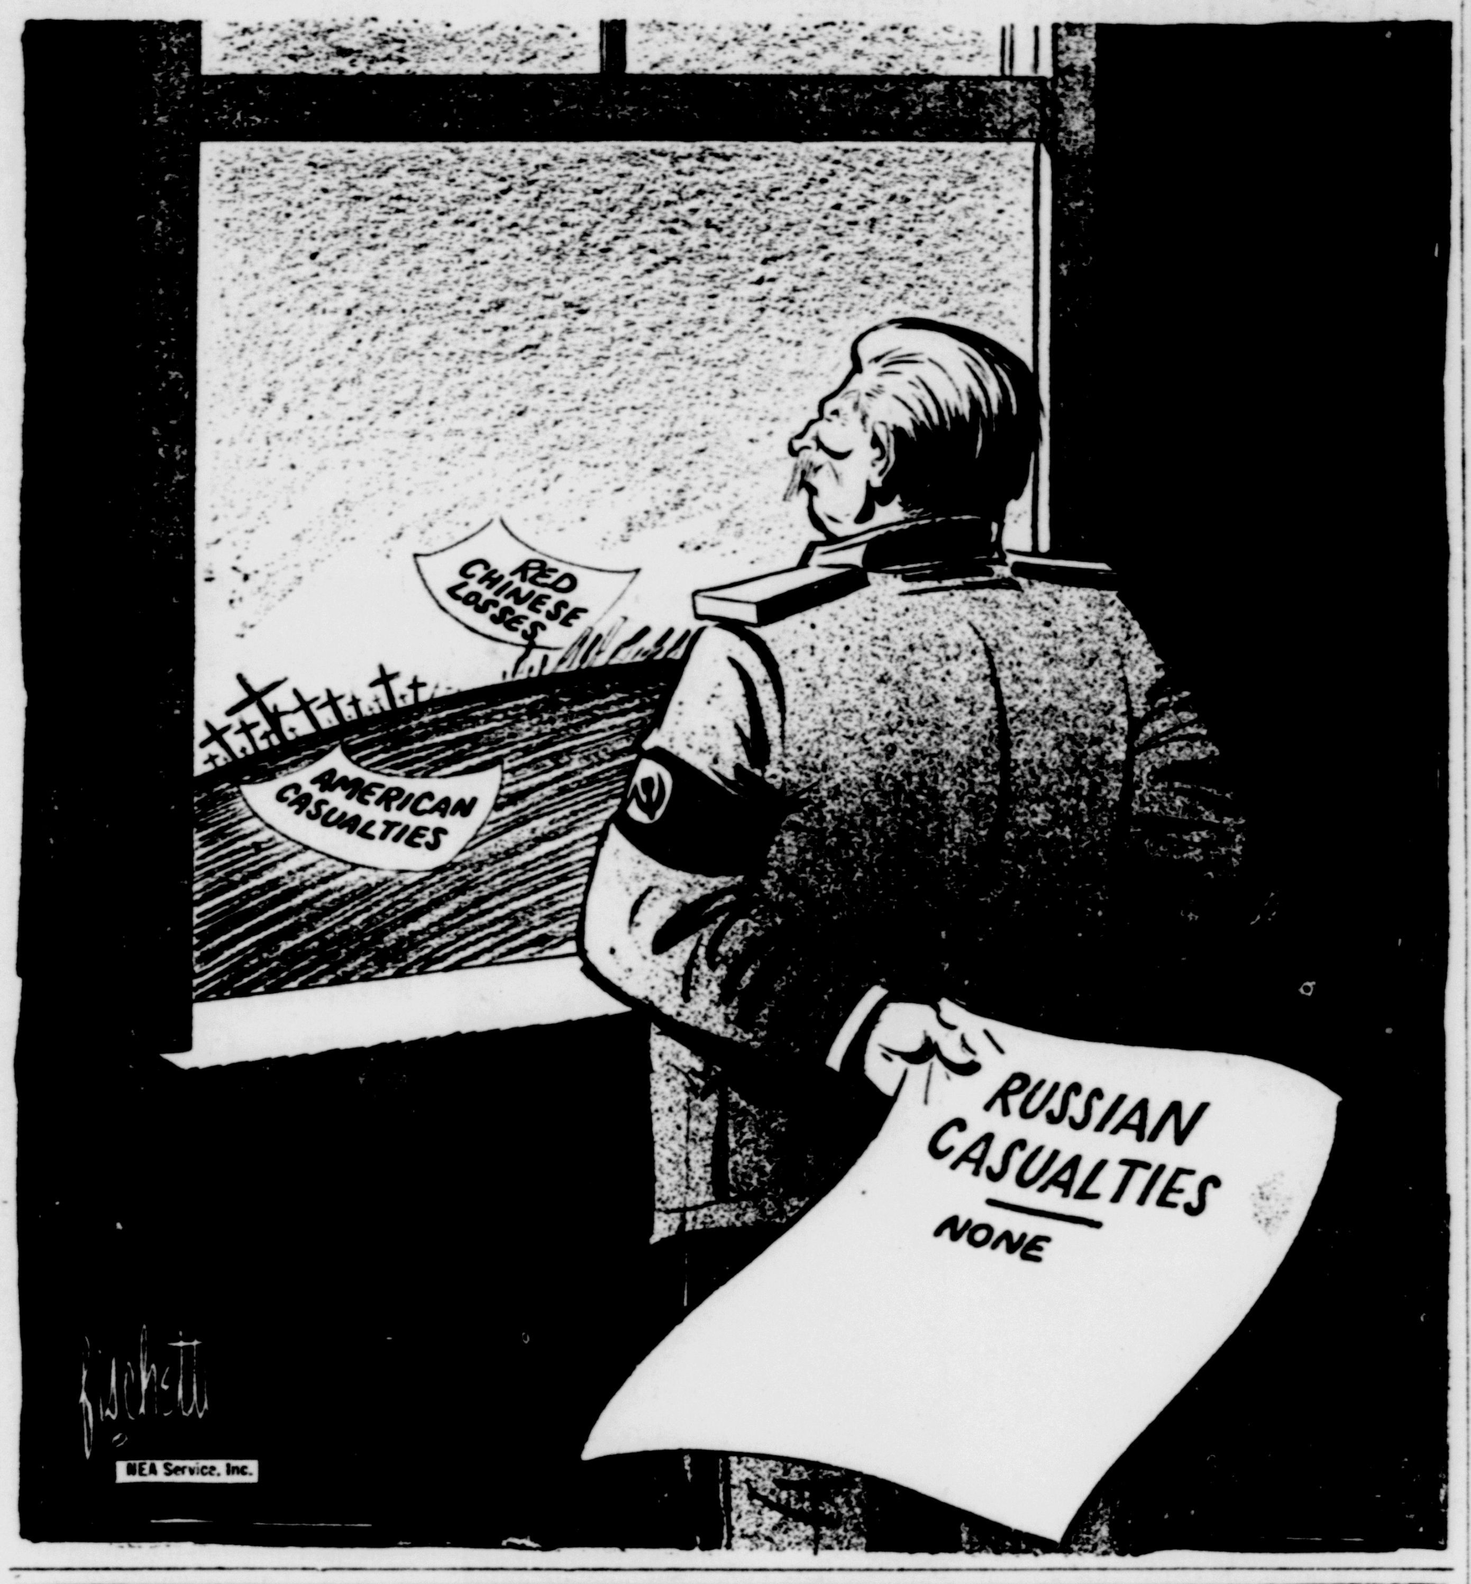
Soviet White Paper on Korea



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — With Congress taking the rest of the year off, vacation-minded congressmen have suddenly discovered "official business" in South America, the Pacific islands, the Mediterranean and other faraway places.

With winter approaching, the greatest congressional interest seems to be in South America, as compared with Alaska in the summer. More than two dozen congressmen have signed up for "surveys" of sunny South America in November and December. However, other tours are also planned through Europe, the Middle East and around the world.

While some of these trips are pure junkets, this columnist is of the opinion that some make worth-while additions to a congressman's store of knowledge at a time when the American defense line extends from Korea to the Rhine. However, since the taxpayer pays for the air travel, the public is entitled to know the travel program and judge for itself. Here are the chief itineraries:

First to light out for a foreign vacation were Congressmen Monroe Redden, North Carolina Democrat, and Fred Crawford, Michigan Republican. They represent the House Interior Committee, chiefly concerned with domestic matters. However, the congressmen explained solemnly to the air force that they had to inspect the Pacific territories entrusted to us under the peace treaty and they then headed for the Pacific by way of Paris, Geneva, Cairo and Bangkok. This is quite a long way round. Crawford left word he hoped to be back in time to make another trip to the Virgin Islands in December.

Another expedition to the Pacific "trust" territories is scheduled in November by Congressmen Ben Jensen of Iowa, Carl Andersen of Minnesota, Lowell Stockman of Oregon, George Schwabe of Oklahoma and William Van Pelt of Wisconsin, all Republicans, of the House Appropriations Committee.

Popular Latinos

The first junket to South America has been scheduled November 7 by Congressman Abraham Multer, New York Democrat, who is lining up a 45-day tour for House Banking Committee members. Presumably, they will take a long-distance view of U. S. banking problems, as seen from South America.

House Commerce Chairman Robert Crosser of Ohio has also made reservations with the air force for 18 of his committee members to make a 30-day tour of South America, November 10 to December 10. They will be followed four days later by a delegation from the House Foreign Affairs Committee, headed by Chairman James Richards of South Carolina. South America is very popular.

Those who have signed up for this South American trip are Congressmen Tom Morgan of Pennsylvania, Tom Gordon of Illinois and Omar Burleson of Texas, Democrats, with Robert Chiperfield of Illinois and Don Jackson of California, Republicans.

Another House Foreign Affairs group will leave for Europe at the same time. They will include Representatives Clement Zablocki of Wisconsin, A. S. Carnahan of Missouri and Edna Kelly of Brooklyn, N. Y., Democrats, and Jacob Javits of New York, Republican.

Around the World

Congressman Porter Hardy, Jr., Virginia Democrat, has scheduled a trip to Europe for the House Armed Services Committee November 7. A joint Senate-House group is also planning to tour Europe, North Africa and the Middle East, beginning November 6. This group includes Senators Theodore Green of Rhode Island, Brien McMahon of Connecticut, William Benton of Connecticut and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Democrats; and Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin and Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa, Republicans. Most of the above are members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, so have a legitimate reason for taking the trip.

With them will also go Congressmen Gene Cox of Georgia, Howard Smith of Virginia, Frazier Reams of Ohio and Donald O'Toole of New York, Democrats; and Walter Judd of Minnesota, Harris Ellsworth of Oregon and Kenneth Keating of New York, Republicans.

Meanwhile, another congressional delegation has already taken off for a leisurely, two-month, round-the-world tour. They include Congressmen Herbert Bonner of North Carolina, Harold Donohue of Massachusetts, Sidney Fine of New York, John Shelley of California and William Lantaff of Florida, Democrats; together with Charles Brownson of Indiana, Thomas Curtis of Missouri, Cecil Harden of Indiana, Walt Horan of Washington and George Meader of Michigan. Their "official trip" is sponsored by the House Expenditures Committee which has no round-the-world business, but is supposed to keep an eye on federal expenses.

It is interesting to note that not a single congressman has asked to go to Korea, where the weather is growing bitter cold and accommodations aren't so comfortable.

Sparkman vs. Lawyer

Sen. John Sparkman was mystified by a strange visit from an emissary of Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer just before the senator returned to Alabama.

The emissary, Assistant Secretary Thomas W. S. Davis, said, almost apologetically, "Secretary Sawyer is quite upset about your speech on the distribution of war contracts."

"What was the matter?" Sparkman asked.

"Well," Davis replied, "you said that 40 per cent of the war contracts are held by ten companies, and the secretary of commerce feels you gave an erroneous impression. After all, much of the work on the prime contracts is sublet. The Bendix Company, for example, has benefited widely from subcontracts, and it is not one of the first ten."

Sparkman said this was most interesting, and that he would like the figures on Bendix.

Davis took out the list of defense contracts, then seemed even more embarrassed. For the figures revealed that Bendix was fifteenth in the list of prime contracts, receiving $265,000,000 worth.

Note—In a recent talk at Columbus, O., not cleared at the White House, Secretary Sawyer lambasted the federal budget as "wild and extravagant" and called the small plants corporation, just approved by Congress to help small business, as "ridiculous." As a result, rumors are current around Pennsylvania avenue that Sawyer is anxious to exit from Washington.

American Conservatives Seen as Taking Heart in Churchill's Recent Victory

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 29—Any election which changes the man at the helm of the British government is bound to affect relations with the United States.

While some politicians on the Republican side here profess to see a trend away from socialism, and the Democrats believe that the programs of reforms adopted by the Labor government will not be essentially changed, the fact is that American conservatives — whether they be Democrats or Republicans — will take heart from what has happened in England.

Curiously enough, Stalin will derive considerable encouragement, too. For the "left wing" in the Labor government, which wants America to reduce her armament and appease the Communists in China and Korea, has come back with a strong vote at the polls.

As Stalin looks around the world, his cause thrives on friction inside the democracies. The rise of "left wingism" is grist to his mill. The "left wing" strength in Britain is such that, if the Conservative government fails, the next Prime Minister will not be the moderate Attlee but the extreme radical and socialist — Aneurin Bevan.

Winston Churchill will doubtless plead here for support on an economic and financial basis, using the argument that unless his government is helped to grow stronger with the people, Britain will go further and further toward the "left."

The British government is, indeed, in need of help because her economic situation is not as rosy as it has been painted. The disasters in Iran and Egypt will not diminish the external expenses of Great Britain but will increase them materially.

All in all, the British electorate is torn into three parts—the Conservatives under Churchill, the moderates or middle-of-the-roaders among the Laborites under Attlee, and the radicals under Bevan. The contest for supremacy has by no means been settled by the election. It may be, as happened in the early '30's when Ramsay MacDonald, as Prime Minister, left the Labor party to join in a coalition government, and again during the war when Attlee came into the Churchill cabinet, the majority of the British people will insist on a coalition government to see Britain through world crisis.

Plainly the conservative strength plus a substantial section of the Labor party would give a coalition government an overwhelming majority. It is on foreign or external matters that such a coalition would be forced because on domestic issues some of the major differences are still all but irreconsilable. It could be, however, that Churchill, who is a master of compromises, will woo to his side more and more of the moderate Laborites even on domestic questions. But if he doesn't choose to follow that strategy, he will be compelled to crystallize the issues for another test of power a year hence in the hope that conservative strength with the people will have been enhanced by a year of Churchill's rule.

It now is expected that Great Britain and America will work more closely than ever before. Former Prime Minister Attlee in his decisions has been constantly under the necessity of keeping an expedient eye on his "left wing," and hence he has been growing weaker and weaker in dealing with America. The "left wing" has been anti-American. Churchill, with a solid Conservative majority behind him, will have no such handicap and will not appease the "left wing," confining his compromises toward the moderate Laborites.

Concretely, a settlement of both the Iranian and the Egyptian problems will be sought by Churchill. The skill of the Conservatives as negotiators will be tested to the utmost. But a steady hand in the British foreign office, guided by the resourceful Churchill, may be looked for to cement relations between the United States and Britain in whatever joint policies may be evolved for the Middle East. Britain, in a broad sense, gains on external policy by switching to Churchill now.

What the future may be in the way of a strengthened or weakened British economy is not so readily appraised, and the danger of economic deterioration — as hoped for by Stalin — has not been removed by the entry of Churchill, because he takes over an already badly disintegrated economic system.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 28—I have been renewing old acquaintance with my first Favorite Author, Horatio Alger, Jr., through some of his earliest and best works. They are "Fame and Fortune or the Progress of Richard Hunter"; "Try and Trust or the Story of a Bound Boy"; "Phil the Fiddler, or the Young Street Musician"; "Strong and Steady or Paddle Your Own Canoe"; "Strive and Succeed or the Progress of Walter Conrad", and "Jed, the Poorhouse Boy."

This is revealing literature.

The preface to "Fame and Fortune" tells us that there were in 1868 more than 12,000 friendless, vagrant children in New York alone and many others in other cities.

"The author has sought to depict the inner life and represent the feelings and emotions of these little waifs," Alger tells us in this foreword. "He thus hopes to excite a deeper and more widespread sympathy in the public mind as well as to exert a salutary influence upon the class of whom he is writing, by setting them inspiring examples of what energy, ambition and an honest purpose may achieve."

Richard Hunter, the hero of this story, is the Ragged Dick of a preceding tale. As Ragged Dick he had slept in wagons and packing boxes and had blacked gentlemen's boots in Chatham Square.

Another figure in the Alger literature had run a racket. Equipped with a witch's broom this young man would offer to sweep the mud off the crossing in the path of gentlemen approaching, but only for a fee. If he didn't get a few pennies he would spray mud on their boots and trousers and the ragged dicks of the square would catch them for customers, altogether a graphic, description of the condition of the city streets not so long ago.

Now, Richard Hunter has rescued from a watery grave the small son of Mr. Rockwell, a rich merchant with a place of business on Pearl street and a home on Madison avenue. In gratitude, Mr. Rockwell gave him a job at $10 a week, a gold watch and chain, and a check for $1,000. Richard is a frank, modest, industrious character and by the end of chapter three we may leave him, confident that he will go over the top. He now lives in a respectable boarding house on Bleecker St., where he gets lodging and three meals a day for $5 a week. His first breakfast, a typical meal, consisted of beefsteak, hot biscuits, potatoes and very good coffee.

There is an inscription in pencil on the flyleaf of "Try and Trust or The Story of a Bound Boy"—"Jos. M. Smith, from His S. S. Teacher, Phineas Smith, Christmas, 1873."

Herbert Mason, 14, is left an orphan in Waverly, O., and his avaricious uncle in New York warily refuses to recommend him for "a situation" in the big city. Then a cruel fate would have it that he should get into a collision with mean and selfish farmer named Abner Holden in a narrow stretch or road. Herbert was driving a horse and wagon over to Mill Village to get some corn ground for a neighbor and he encountered a light open buggy driven by a "very dark man with black hair and an unshaven beard of three days' growth which did not set off his irregular and repulsive features." Herbert gave over, but the man would not yield an inch, so his buggy was upset and damaged ten dollars' worth.

Now Abner Holden, for it was indeed he, goes to Captain Ross, the "cheerman of the selectmen," who, all unknowing, delivered poor Herbert over to "the tender mercies of a man who had very little love for him."

I draw a veil over the wretched orphan's sufferings but leave you with the good news that all was well in the end.

The status and trials of Jed, the poorhouse boy, are similar to Herbert's and again we get by implication a glimpse of conditions which few of us ever heard of in our country. Adults and orphaned or abandoned children were legally committed to county poorhouses and the bondage of children in rural districts was a routine condition.

"When a boy becomes vain in his own achievements, and boastful, he is likely to alienate the respect and regard of his friends," the author wrote in the forward to "Try and Trust." How true! One may say. How true! But, "No such description will apply to Herbert Mason. It is hoped that the sympathies of the reader will attend him in his efforts to rise out of the poverty of his early days and in the fight against the

Jacoby on Canasta

Commission Agrees on Rule

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The National Canasta Laws Commission met recently to discuss the interpretation of various laws of Canasta and of Samba. That makes it possible for me to answer a question that several readers have asked. I knew that some of the members of the law-making body thought one way about this question, while others thought just the opposite way. So there was no point in answering the question until we had all agreed on the answer.

Suppose you are playing Samba and that your partner melds 6-5-4 of spades. Later in the same hand, one of you melds 10-9-8 of spades. Can those two melds be joined into a single sequence with a seven of spades?

The official answer is that the two sequences may be joined. Mind you, this is possible only when the complete meld is not more than seven cards in length. In the game of Samba, a sequence may never contain more than seven cards.

The situation may arise in actual play when one side is obviously trying very hard to meld out in a hurry. For example, suppose your opponents are playing for out, and that your partner has melded 6-5-4 of spades early in the play. You hold, among other goodies, J-10-9-8 of spades. What should you do?

You put down the 10-9-8 of spades, but not the jack. If your partner has the seven, he can join the two melds into a samba, but he would not be able to do so if you had put down your jack, since then the combined meld would contain eight cards.

The advantage of making this small meld is that your partner has a chance to make the samba at his very next turn. For all you can tell, you may not get another turn to play (since the opponent at your right may meld out before the play gets back to you). It may therefore be very important to give your partner this immediate opportunity.

Let's carry this situation a bit farther. Suppose the hand keeps going for a play or two even though both opponents are trying very hard to meld out. Your partner doesn't put down a seven of spades, and you can't do the trick either. Now you pick up the king and ace of spades. What should you do now?

At this point you may well decide to abandon the seven of spades. The samba can be made if your partner has the queen of spades. It may pay to put down the jack of spades, thus inviting your partner to add the queen if he has it.

Desirable Amendment

ULSTER COUNTY BAR
ASSOCIATION
Kingston, New York

To the Editor of The Kingston Daily Freeman:

Among the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on at the coming election is one to authorize the Court of Appeals to consider appeals from non-final orders of the Appellate Division in proceedings brought by or against public officials where the Court of Appeals considers that a question of law is involved which ought to be reviewed.

Obviously, this is a technical matter which most laymen will not understand. It is important, however, in many respects in the proper functioning of our administrative and judicial proceedings.

As a matter of public service, the Ulster County Bar Association deems it proper to call to the attention of the public that this is a desirable amendment which should be adopted by the voters. Its beneficial results will be twofold:

1. It will speed the final conclusion of cases in which the decision by the Court of Appeals will end the controversy, thus saving time and money.

2. It will eliminate the present undesirable practice which prevents a public official from appealing a determination which he has been compelled to make by intermediate judicial decision, on the technical ground that it is his own determination.

For these reasons, among others, the adoption of such constitutional amendment is urged.

Very truly yours,
ABRAHAM STREIFER
Chairman of Committee on Legislation
Ulster County Bar Association

Cockroach in the Diet

Jakarta, Indonesia, (AP) — Most people, troubled by cockroaches, kill them and let it go at that. But some people here fry them to a fine brown crisp, then reduce them to a powder. If you're run down, a teaspoon peps you up. If you have a cough, it cures it. Take it regularly, and you may eat what you like without fearing indigestion, those who use the powder say. Those with experience say that powdered cockroach, mixed in tea or coffee, is quite tasteless.

Commission Agrees on Rule

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The National Canasta Laws Commission met recently to discuss the interpretation of various laws of Canasta and of Samba. That makes it possible for me to answer a question that several readers have asked. I knew that some of the members of the law-making body thought one way about this question, while others thought just the opposite way. So there was no point in answering the question until we had all agreed on the answer.

Suppose you are playing Samba and that your partner melds 6-5-4 of spades. Later in the same hand, one of you melds 10-9-8 of spades. Can those two melds be joined into a single sequence with a seven of spades?

The official answer is that the two sequences may be joined. Mind you, this is possible only when the complete meld is not more than seven cards in length. In the game of Samba, a sequence may never contain more than seven cards.

The situation may arise in actual play when one side is obviously trying very hard to meld out in a hurry. For example, suppose your opponents are playing for out, and that your partner has melded 6-5-4 of spades early in the play. You hold, among other goodies, J-10-9-8 of spades. What should you do?

You put down the 10-9-8 of spades, but not the jack. If your partner has the seven, he can join the two melds into a samba, but he would not be able to do so if you had put down your jack, since then the combined meld would contain eight cards.

The advantage of making this small meld is that your partner has a chance to make the samba at his very next turn. For all you can tell, you may not get another turn to play (since the opponent at your right may meld out before the play gets back to you). It may therefore be very important to give your partner this immediate opportunity.

Let's carry this situation a bit farther. Suppose the hand keeps going for a play or two even though both opponents are trying very hard to meld out. Your partner doesn't put down a seven of spades, and you can't do the trick either. Now you pick up the king and ace of spades. What should you do now?

At this point you may well decide to abandon the seven of spades. The samba can be made if your partner has the queen of spades. It may pay to put down the jack of spades, thus inviting your partner to add the queen if he has it.

Desirable Amendment

ASSOCIATION
Kingston, New York

To the Editor of The Kingston Daily Freeman:

Among the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on at the coming election is one to authorize the Court of Appeals to consider appeals from non-final orders of the Appellate Division in proceedings brought by or against public officials where the Court of Appeals considers that a question of law is involved which ought to be reviewed.

Obviously, this is a technical matter which most laymen will not understand. It is important, however, in many respects in the proper functioning of our administrative and judicial proceedings.

As a matter of public service, the Ulster County Bar Association deems it proper to call to the attention of the public that this is a desirable amendment which should be adopted by the voters. Its beneficial results will be twofold:

1. It will speed the final conclusion of cases in which the decision by the Court of Appeals will end the controversy, thus saving time and money.

2. It will eliminate the present undesirable practice which prevents a public official from appealing a determination which he has been compelled to make by intermediate judicial decision, on the technical ground that it is his own determination.

For these reasons, among others, the adoption of such constitutional amendment is urged.

Very truly yours,
ABRAHAM STREIFER
Chairman of Committee on Legislation
Ulster County Bar Association

Cockroach in the Diet

Jakarta, Indonesia, (AP) — Most people, troubled by cockroaches, kill them and let it go at that. But some people here fry them to a fine brown crisp, then reduce them to a powder. If you're run down, a teaspoon peps you up. If you have a cough, it cures it. Take it regularly, and you may eat what you like without fearing indigestion, those who use the powder say. Those with experience say that powdered cockroach, mixed in tea or coffee, is quite tasteless.

Carrolls Entertain

Students at KHS were given a treat Tuesday morning in assembly when Fred and Ann Carroll presented their unusual act, Masquers on Parade.

Fred and Ann, who bill themselves as a Hollywood Nightmare, presented a series of excellent movie characters with clever masks representing the brighter screen lights. In this educational and highly humorous act the students enjoyed most, the Carrolls' representation of Bette Davis doing a jitterbug with Basil Rathbone, Sonja Henie getting tossed about by Edward G. Robinson, and Greta Garbo tripping the light fantastic with Wallace Beery.

The Carrolls are world known having played in Korea, Australia, China, Japan and on the European continent and in England. During the war the Carrolls were overseas entertaining troops in the war zones for the USO.

They have appeared in musical shows in New York and have appeared on television and in the larger theatres in this country and Canada.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Don't Be Shaken By Unusual Hands

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"I've been playing bridge ever since my hands were big enough to hold a deck of cards," writes my good friend Maury Bryan, of Brooklyn, "and in all that time I had always heard that the correct card to lead from a doubleton was the higher card of the two. I was brought up on that advice, and I have always given it to my own pupils.

"You can therefore understand why I felt that the world was coming to an end when this hand came along in my regular duplicate game at the St. George. A feller doesn't know what to believe any more if this sort of thing can happen.

"At all tables West opened the ace of diamonds and dummy ruffed. When South dropped the king of diamonds, the situation in that suit was quite clear, of course.

"Each declarer then led the jack of hearts from dummy and let it ride for a finesse. This lost to West's king, and each West then naturally shifted to spades in an attempt to nab some tricks before the clubs came in.

"Now, here's the sad part of my story. East West led the ten of spades, exactly as he or she had been taught from childhood.

"The lead of the ten of spades allowed South to make the contract of four hearts. Dummy put up the queen of spades, and East won with the ace. East had to return a spade, since otherwise South would develop the clubs and get rid of two spades on dummy's extra clubs. If East returned the jack of spades, South's nine would be high; and if East returned his low spade, South could put up the nine to win the trick.

"The contract would be beaten if West led the eight of spades instead of the ten. Dummy would play the queen, and East would take the ace. East would then return the low spade, and West's ten would force out dummys' king. Then East would have the jack of spades to cash when he got in with the king of clubs.

"Isn't this a disturbing hand?"

I agree that it's a very unusual hand. It doesn't disturb me, however, because I have always thought that there is no such thing as an unbreakable rule. Nevertheless, I think that only one bridge player in a thousand would be thoughtful enough to lead the eight of spades rather than the ten.

Will Donate Blood

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 29 (AP)—Jewish war veterans in New York state plan to donate blood one day soon for use in Korea. The JWV state department adopted a resolution yesterday urging members of all 243 posts in the state to give a pint of blood each on a date to be picked by State Commander Jesse Moss. Members of women's auxiliaries also were asked to contribute. The action was taken at the department's bimonthly meeting.

Course Starts Tonight

A course called Children at Home and at School for parents and teachers of children four through 14 years of age will begin tonight at 7 o'clock in Room V-207 at the new Vocational Building. The course is part of the adult education program headed by Hubert Hoderath.

Appeasement Followed

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—Rep. Jacob Javits (R.-Liberal-N. Y.) says the United States has pursued a "policy of wooing the Arab leaders" in the Near East. State Department policy in that region, he says, is endangering the security of western nations by following the "unsuccessful British policy" of trying to appease the Arab leaders. Javits, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, made the statements last night in addressing the annual dinner conference sparking a fund drive by the United Organizations for the Israel Histadrut, the country's labor federation.

Carrolls Entertain

Students at KHS were given a treat Tuesday morning in assembly when Fred and Ann Carroll presented their unusual act, Masquers on Parade.

Fred and Ann, who bill themselves as a Hollywood Nightmare, presented a series of excellent movie characters with clever masks representing the brighter screen lights. In this educational and highly humorous act the students enjoyed most, the Carrolls' representation of Bette Davis doing a jitterbug with Basil Rathbone, Sonja Henie getting tossed about by Edward G. Robinson, and Greta Garbo tripping the light fantastic with Wallace Beery.

The Carrolls are world known having played in Korea, Australia, China, Japan and on the European continent and in England. During the war the Carrolls were overseas entertaining troops in the war zones for the USO.

They have appeared in musical shows in New York and have appeared on television and in the larger theatres in this country and Canada.

New Masquers

Thirty-eight talented students have been chosen by a committee to join Maroon Masquers, school dramatic club, as a result of tryouts held after school in the auditorium during the past two weeks.

Those who have been seletced are Maxine Adner, Natalie Alcon, Gloria Alecco, Judy Argulewicz, Ruth Best, Gerry Billings, Mildred Brown, Tom Brower, Douglas Buddenhagen, Joan Bottlieri, Bob Cahill, Freida Cohen, Frank Damis, Kathleen Davis, DeCosta Dawson, Myron Epstein, Norman Foster and Art Harder.

Also chosen were Diane Johnson, Gloria Lamphere, Frank Larkin, Corinne Levine, Elaine Macholdt, Elizabeth Nussbaum, Edith Palen, Marni Paley, Mary Redmond, George Ruffing, Pat Shultis, Mary Lou Snyder, Nadya Spassenko, Carol Strongin, Robin Strongin, Ruth Streiffer, Joan Timpson, Paula Weiner, James Wrinn and Joyce Yerry.

Dame Rumor Cited

Dame Rumor has copped the all New York state rating for excellence for the 11th successive year in both topography and editorial content. A certificate of award has been received from the Empire State School Press Association.

Three representatives of Dame Rumor, Ruth Cohen, Arlene Semilof, Maxine Adner and Agnes Scott Smith, faculty advisor, left today to attend he 14th annual two-day Empire State Schools' Press Convention at Syracuse.

Short journalistic courses in feature, news and editorial writing for high school newspapers will be offered to the students.

Entertainment for the weekend came in the form of a banquet, speaker and dance tonight and a football game Saturday, Syracuse vs. Fordam.

One of the highlights of the convention will be the appearance of cartoonist Milton Caniff, the comic strip originator of Steve Canyon.

Attends Conference

Doug Buddenhagen, lieutenant governor of New York State Key Clubs, journeyed to Albany today to attend a special training conference with other Key Club executives. Officers in Key Club include Bill Gaudette, president; Jim Young, secretary; and Ted Angell, treasurer. More book covers have been ordered and are due to go on sale shortly.

Marshals Inducted

During a special assembly held last Thursday 38 boys were sworn in as marshals who patrol corridors during the passing of classes.

An elaborate program was held whereby the new members received maroon corduroy jackets, significant of the honor of becoming a marshal. To attain their goal, the boys elected had to pass through a six-week probationary period.

Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools, recited the oath with the new marshals and after they were officially sworn in Clarence Rowland, president of the Board of Education, presented the boys with their new jackets.

Mr. Dankevitch, faculty advisor for the marshals, introduced the officers: Charlie Tiano, captain; Bruce Hinkley, Hamilton Darling and John Letus, lieutenants, and Louis Kirschner, executive secretary.

Drive Is Underway

Prisma's annual magazine drive got underway with a special assembly Monday morning. Representatives of the magazine publishing companies officially opened the drive by explaining the program of selling and their magazines.

Numerous prizes will be awarded to the girls selling the greatest amount of subscriptions and a fashion show was held in which many of the prizes were modeled by some of the Prisma girls.

The drive started on Oct. 22 and will last until Nov. 5 and the goal has been set at $4,000. Proceeds will be used for numerous scholarships given by Prisma.

Gets Scholarship

Sandra Silk, KHS graduate, class of 1949, has been presented with the Sarah Williston Scholarship award at Mt. Holyoke College where she is a member of the Junior Class. The Sarah Williston award is the highest academic honor at Holyoke, preliminary to Phi Beta Kappa.

Body Found in Gully

West Falls, Oct. 29 (AP)—Henry J. Turek, 45, former fruit concessionnaire at the United Nations headquarters in Flushing, who disappeared Sept. 9 was found dead in a gully yesterday near the West Falls rest home. State Police BCI Investigator F. J. Driscoll said Turek apparently collapsed and died during an after dinner walk at the home. Turek was a resident of Flushing.

"I've been playing bridge ever since my hands were big enough to hold a deck of cards," writes my good friend Maury Bryan, of Brooklyn, "and in all that time I had always heard that the correct card to lead from a doubleton was the higher card of the two. I was brought up on that advice, and I have always given it to my own pupils.

"You can therefore understand why I felt that the world was coming to an end when this hand came along in my regular duplicate game at the St. George. A feller doesn't know what to believe any more if this sort of thing can happen.

"At all tables West opened the ace of diamonds and dummy ruffed. When South dropped the king of diamonds, the situation in that suit was quite clear, of course.

"Each declarer then led the jack of hearts from dummy and let it ride for a finesse. This lost to West's king, and each West then naturally shifted to spades in an attempt to nab some tricks before the clubs came in.

"Now, here's the sad part of my story. East West led the ten of spades, exactly as he or she had been taught from childhood.

"The lead of the ten of spades allowed South to make the contract of four hearts. Dummy put up the queen of spades, and East won with the ace. East had to return a spade, since otherwise South would develop the clubs and get rid of two spades on dummy's extra clubs. If East returned the jack of spades, South's nine would be high; and if East returned his low spade, South could put up the nine to win the trick.

"The contract would be beaten if West led the eight of spades instead of the ten. Dummy would play the queen, and East would take the ace. East would then return the low spade, and West's ten would force out dummys' king. Then East would have the jack of spades to cash when he got in with the king of clubs.

"Isn't this a disturbing hand?"

I agree that it's a very unusual hand. It doesn't disturb me, however, because I have always thought that there is no such thing as an unbreakable rule. Nevertheless, I think that only one bridge player in a thousand would be thoughtful enough to lead the eight of spades rather than the ten.

Walking home from work one night, a man came upon his small son sitting on top of another boy.

Father—Why are you sitting on top of that boy?

Son—He hit me in the eye.

Father—Well, how many times have I told you to count up to 100 before you lose your temper?

Son—I am counting to 100. But I'm sitting on him so he'll be around when I get through counting.

"I'm sorry, old man, but I make it a rule not to lend money. It ruins friendship."

"Well, don't worry over that. We've not been what you might call wonderfully good friends, have we?

Woman—I'm going out to buy a book.

Neighbor—A book!

Woman — Yes, my husband bought me the most adorable reading-lamp yesterday.

After you beat a path to success the deadbeats worry you silly.

Life is an everlasting struggle to keep money coming in and teeth and hair from coming out.

Walking home from work one night, a man came upon his small son sitting on top of another boy.

Father—Why are you sitting on top of that boy?

Son—He hit me in the eye.

Father—Well, how many times have I told you to count up to 100 before you lose your temper?

Son—I am counting to 100. But I'm sitting on him so he'll be around when I get through counting.

"I'm sorry, old man, but I make it a rule not to lend money. It ruins friendship."

"Well, don't worry over that. We've not been what you might call wonderfully good friends, have we?

Woman—I'm going out to buy a book.

Neighbor—A book!

Woman — Yes, my husband bought me the most adorable reading-lamp yesterday.

90% For! 10% Against

Railroad workers are represented by 23 standard unions. By mutual agreement, 20 of these unions—comprising about 1,200,000 men, or more than 90%—are working under wages and rules agreed to by them and the railroads. But leaders of three unions—with only about 130,000 men, or less than 10%—still refuse, after more than a year of negotiations, to accept similar wage and rules agreements. These are even more favorable than the terms recommended by the Emergency Board appointed by the President.

Time to settle...

Yes, it certainly seems to be finally about time that the leaders of the three unions stop their delaying tactics—their quibbling. But the leaders of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Order of Railway Conductors continue to refuse. They continue a course of dillying and dallying. It is definitely time to END THIS QUIBBLING!

On June 15, 1950, an Emergency Board appointed by the President under the terms of the Railway Labor Act—an Act largely fathered by the unions themselves—made its recommendations on certain wage and working conditions ("rules" in railroad language) which had been in dispute between employes and the railroads.

More Than 90% of Employes Accept

Since then, terms equal to or better than the Board recommendations have been accepted by about 1,200,000 railroad employes—more than 90% of the total of all workers. They are represented by 20 of the 23 standard railroad unions.

Less Than 10% Refuse

But three unions—with about 130,000 men, or less than 10% of the total—have refused to accept, even after months of negotiations. These three unions are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Order of Railway Conductors. These are three of the so-called "operating" unions. Already the highest paid men in the industry, their leaders demand still further advantages over other workers.

In all, there are about 270,000 operating employes. But not all of them, by any means, are represented by BLE, BLF&E, or ORC. As a matter of fact, less than half—132,000 to be exact—are in these three unions. More than half—about 140,000—are in other unions, principally the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. What makes the whole situation so hard to understand is that these 140,000 operating employes are working under wages and rules which the leaders of the other 130,000 say they cannot agree to.

What Do the Railroads Offer?

They offer these three unions the same settlement which was contained in a Memorandum of Agreement signed at the White House on December 21, 1950, by four brotherhoods and the railroads. Later these brotherhoods sought to repudiate this agreement. But on May 25, 1951, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen signed a complete agreement carrying out the principles of the Memorandum Agreement of December 21. They have been working under this agreement since May 25.

What About Wages?

Under the terms of the agreement, yard engineers, firemen and conductors would now be receiving a wage increase of 34 cents an hour ($2.72 a day) and road engineers, firemen and conductors would now be receiving an increase of 19½ cents an hour ($1.56 per day). Large sums of retroactive pay have already accrued and if the agreement is carried out, will be paid promptly.

What About "Cost of Living" Increases?

The White House Agreement includes an "escalator" clause under which wages will be geared to changes in the Government's cost-of-living index. Two such increases—April and July, 1951—have already been paid to the 90% of railroad employes covered by signed agreements.

What About the 40-Hour Week?

The White House Agreement calls for the establishment of the 40-hour week in principle for employes in yard service. The employes can have it any time after January 1, 1952, provided the manpower situation is such that the railroads can get enough men to perform the work with reasonable regularity at straight time rates. If the parties do not agree on the question of availability of manpower, the White House Agreement provides arbitration by a referee appointed by the President.

What Else Do the Union Leaders Demand?

The continued quibbling of the leaders of the three unions has to do principally with rules changes, which have already been agreed to by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Of these, the principal one seems to be that having to do with so-called "interdivisional service"—runs which take in two or more seniority districts.

The union leaders would bar progress and efficiency in the industry, and better service to the public, by maintaining a situation where they can arbitrarily stop a railroad from establishing such interdivisional runs. The carriers propose that if a railroad wishes to set up an interdivisional run, the railroad and the unions should try to agree on such run and the conditions which should surround its establishment, and if the railroad and the unions can't agree, the matter will be submitted to arbitration.

But the three union leaders still refuse.

Rules Can Be Arbitrated

The railroads have not only offered these three unions the same rules agreed to by the BRT and covered by the White House Agreement, but have even agreed to submit such rules to arbitration.

The Industry Pattern Is Fixed

With the pattern so firmly established in the railroad industry, it seems fair to suggest that the leaders of BLE, BLF&E, and ORC stop their quibbling and take action to make the railroad labor picture 100% complete. Certainly today's economic and international situation calls for a united front. And certainly no good reason has been advanced why these three unions should be preferred over all other railroad employes.

90% For! 10% Against

Railroad workers are represented by 23 standard unions. By mutual agreement, 20 of these unions—comprising about 1,200,000 men, or more than 90%—are working under wages and rules agreed to by them and the railroads. But leaders of three unions—with only about 130,000 men, or less than 10%—still refuse, after more than a year of negotiations, to accept similar wage and rules agreements. These are even more favorable than the terms recommended by the Emergency Board appointed by the President.

Time to settle...

Yes, it certainly seems to be finally about time that the leaders of the three unions stop their delaying tactics—their quibbling. But the leaders of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Order of Railway Conductors continue to refuse. They continue a course of dillying and dallying. It is definitely time to

END THIS QUIBBLING!

On June 15, 1950, an Emergency Board appointed by the President under the terms of the Railway Labor Act—an Act largely fathered by the unions themselves—made its recommendations on certain wage and working conditions ("rules" in railroad language) which had been in dispute between employes and the railroads.

More Than 90% of Employes Accept

Since then, terms equal to or better than the Board recommendations have been accepted by about 1,200,000 railroad employes—more than 90% of the total of all workers. They are represented by 20 of the 23 standard railroad unions.

Less Than 10% Refuse

But three unions—with about 130,000 men, or less than 10% of the total—have refused to accept, even after months of negotiations. These three unions are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Order of Railway Conductors. These are three of the so-called "operating" unions. Already the highest paid men in the industry, their leaders demand still further advantages over other workers.

In all, there are about 270,000 operating employes. But not all of them, by any means, are represented by BLE, BLF&E, or ORC. As a matter of fact, less than half—132,000 to be exact—are in these three unions. More than half—about 140,000—are in other unions, principally the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. What makes the whole situation so hard to understand is that these 140,000 operating employes are working under wages and rules which the leaders of the other 130,000 say they cannot agree to.

What Do the Railroads Offer?

They offer these three unions the same settlement which was contained in a Memorandum of Agreement signed at the White House on December 21, 1950, by four brotherhoods and the railroads. Later these brotherhoods sought to repudiate this agreement. But on May 25, 1951, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen signed a complete agreement carrying out the principles of the Memorandum Agreement of December 21. They have been working under this agreement since May 25.

What About Wages?

Under the terms of the agreement, yard engineers, firemen and conductors would now be receiving a wage increase of 34 cents an hour ($2.72 a day) and road engineers, firemen and conductors would now be receiving an increase of 19½ cents an hour ($1.56 per day). Large sums of retroactive pay have already accrued and if the agreement is carried out, will be paid promptly.

What About "Cost of Living" Increases?

The White House Agreement includes an "escalator" clause under which wages will be geared to changes in the Government's cost-of-living index. Two such increases—April and July, 1951—have already been paid to the 90% of railroad employes covered by signed agreements.

What About the 40-Hour Week?

The White House Agreement calls for the establishment of the 40-hour week in principle for employes in yard service. The employes can have it any time after January 1, 1952, provided the manpower situation is such that the railroads can get enough men to perform the work with reasonable regularity at straight time rates. If the parties do not agree on the question of availability of manpower, the White House Agreement provides arbitration by a referee appointed by the President.

What Else Do the Union Leaders Demand?

The continued quibbling of the leaders of the three unions has to do principally with rules changes, which have already been agreed to by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Of these, the principal one seems to be that having to do with so-called "interdivisional service"—runs which take in two or more seniority districts.

The union leaders would bar progress and efficiency in the industry, and better service to the public, by maintaining a situation where they can arbitrarily stop a railroad from establishing such interdivisional runs. The carriers propose that if a railroad wishes to set up an interdivisional run, the railroad and the unions should try to agree on such run and the conditions which should surround its establishment, and if the railroad and the unions can't agree, the matter will be submitted to arbitration.

But the three union leaders still refuse.

Rules Can Be Arbitrated

The railroads have not only offered these three unions the same rules agreed to by the BRT and covered by the White House Agreement, but have even agreed to submit such rules to arbitration.

The Industry Pattern Is Fixed

With the pattern so firmly established in the railroad industry, it seems fair to suggest that the leaders of BLE, BLF&E, and ORC stop their quibbling and take action to make the railroad labor picture 100% complete. Certainly today's economic and international situation calls for a united front. And certainly no good reason has been advanced why these three unions should be preferred over all other railroad employes.

BRIDAL CLOTHES AT DELAYED RECEPTION

A bride-to-be writes: "I am being married at home. My fiance's family and most of his relatives live several hundred miles from here and it will be impossible for them to come to the wedding. We intend to visit his family on our wedding trip and while there, his mother is going to give a reception in our honor, inviting all of his relatives and friends who could not come to the wedding. My fiance would like very much for me to take my wedding dress and veil along with me and wear it at this reception so that his family can see me in my bridal clothes. Would this be proper?"

It is entirely proper to wear your wedding dress, and if they would like you to put your wedding veil on for a short time so they can see how you looked there is certainly no serious offense in your doing so under the circumstances you speak of. But to wear the veil for more than a few minutes would bring criticism.

Invitations to Bring Guest

Dear Mrs. Post: I am giving a large dance and am puzzled as to how to address some of the invitations. The situation is this: I would like some of the guests to bring their own partners. Do I address the envelope to Mr. John Jones and Guest, Miss Mary Smith and Guest, or how is this handled? Please help me.

Answer: Address the invitation to Mr. John Jones or Miss Mary Smith. Then write by hand at the bottom of the invitation: "We will be pleased to have you bring a partner if you care too."

No Finger Bowls

Dear Mrs. Post: I was invited out to dinner the other evening to one of the local restaurants noted for its broiled lobster. When I finished eating, my hands were very sticky and as no finger bowls were served, I poured some of the water from my drinking glass onto my fingers and then wiped them on my napkin. I held the glass of water over my dinner plate so that the water dripped into it and not on the table. I thought this was perfectly all right but my friend was shocked at my behavior and told me so. What does one do when no finger bowls are served?

Answer: Restaurants that serve lobsters as a speciality are expected to serve finger bowls and you can certainly ask the waiter to bring you one. If they cannot, you should have tipped the glass against the corner of your napkin enough to dampen it and then wiped your fingers with that. To do as you did really is shocking.

St. Joseph's Church Filled to Capacity For Catholic Daughters Anniversary

A capacity crowd filled the church of St. Joseph on Sunday afternoon when the Saint Pius X school choir sang the vespers service commemorating the 40th anniversary of the Catholic Daughters of America, Court Santa Maria 264. Solemn Benediction followed the vespers and was celebrated by the Rev. Austin V. Carey. Rev. John Simmons was the deacon, and Rev. Theodore Shultz, sub-deacon.

Thirty-five members of the fourth degree assembly, Knights of Columbus, in full dress with swords, led a procession from St. Joseph's rectory to the church for the service. There were approximately 300 persons in the procession including the Catholic daughters, nuns, and priests.

The vespers, rendered in a beautiful chant of the ancient church liturgy were conducted by the faculty of the choirs of Saint Pius X School of Liturgical Music and of Manhattanville College of the Sacred Heart. Because of the solemnity associated with the Feast of Christ the King, the Sunday service consisted of five psalms with antiphons repeated before and after each psalm. A short scripture text known as the little chapter followed the fifth antiphon and then was sung the hymn, Te Saeculorum Principem.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury was present as were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly, the Rev. Joseph Geis, the Rev. John Simmons, the Rev. Theodore Shultz, the Rev. Austin V. Carey, Rev. James Keating, the Sisters of the Academy of St. Ursula, Mary Grove, Sisters of West Park, Sisters of the Immaculate Conception, Sisters of the Benedictine Hospital, Sisters of St. Peter's, Sisters of Charity, Saugerties, and the Sisters of St. Ursula, St. Joseph's Church. Also in attendance were seven charter members of the Catholic Daughters organization.

For this occasion, the church was beautifully decorated with flowers and new drapes.

Immediately following the service, a luncheon was served in the church hall by Mrs. Adelaide Rice for some 200 guests, including the clergy, nuns, Knights of Columbus honor guard, and the choir members.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Connelly expressed his sincere thanks to all for their splendid attendance and to the Cotholic Daughters who were responsible for the success of this brilliant occasion.

BRIDAL CLOTHES AT DELAYED RECEPTION

A bride-to-be writes: "I am being married at home. My fiance's family and most of his relatives live several hundred miles from here and it will be impossible for them to come to the wedding. We intend to visit his family on our wedding trip and while there, his mother is going to give a reception in our honor, inviting all of his relatives and friends who could not come to the wedding. My fiance would like very much for me to take my wedding dress and veil along with me and wear it at this reception so that his family can see me in my bridal clothes. Would this be proper?"

It is entirely proper to wear your wedding dress, and if they would like you to put your wedding veil on for a short time so they can see how you looked there is certainly no serious offense in your doing so under the circumstances you speak of. But to wear the veil for more than a few minutes would bring criticism.

Invitations to Bring Guest

Dear Mrs. Post: I am giving a large dance and am puzzled as to how to address some of the invitations. The situation is this: I would like some of the guests to bring their own partners. Do I address the envelope to Mr. John Jones and Guest, Miss Mary Smith and Guest, or how is this handled? Please help me.

Answer: Address the invitation to Mr. John Jones or Miss Mary Smith. Then write by hand at the bottom of the invitation: "We will be pleased to have you bring a partner if you care too."

No Finger Bowls

Dear Mrs. Post: I was invited out to dinner the other evening to one of the local restaurants noted for its broiled lobster. When I finished eating, my hands were very sticky and as no finger bowls were served, I poured some of the water from my drinking glass onto my fingers and then wiped them on my napkin. I held the glass of water over my dinner plate so that the water dripped into it and not on the table. I thought this was perfectly all right but my friend was shocked at my behavior and told me so. What does one do when no finger bowls are served?

Answer: Restaurants that serve lobsters as a speciality are expected to serve finger bowls and you can certainly ask the waiter to bring you one. If they cannot, you should have tipped the glass against the corner of your napkin enough to dampen it and then wiped your fingers with that. To do as you did really is shocking.

St. Joseph's Church Filled to Capacity For Catholic Daughters Anniversary

A capacity crowd filled the church of St. Joseph on Sunday afternoon when the Saint Pius X school choir sang the vespers service commemorating the 40th anniversary of the Catholic Daughters of America, Court Santa Maria 264. Solemn Benediction followed the vespers and was celebrated by the Rev. Austin V. Carey. Rev. John Simmons was the deacon, and Rev. Theodore Shultz, sub-deacon.

Thirty-five members of the fourth degree assembly, Knights of Columbus, in full dress with swords, led a procession from St. Joseph's rectory to the church for the service. There were approximately 300 persons in the procession including the Catholic daughters, nuns, and priests.

The vespers, rendered in a beautiful chant of the ancient church liturgy were conducted by the faculty of the choirs of Saint Pius X School of Liturgical Music and of Manhattanville College of the Sacred Heart. Because of the solemnity associated with the Feast of Christ the King, the Sunday service consisted of five psalms with antiphons repeated before and after each psalm. A short scripture text known as the little chapter followed the fifth antiphon and then was sung the hymn, Te Saeculorum Principem.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury was present as were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly, the Rev. Joseph Geis, the Rev. John Simmons, the Rev. Theodore Shultz, the Rev. Austin V. Carey, Rev. James Keating, the Sisters of the Academy of St. Ursula, Mary Grove, Sisters of West Park, Sisters of the Immaculate Conception, Sisters of the Benedictine Hospital, Sisters of St. Peter's, Sisters of Charity, Saugerties, and the Sisters of St. Ursula, St. Joseph's Church. Also in attendance were seven charter members of the Catholic Daughters organization.

For this occasion, the church was beautifully decorated with flowers and new drapes.

Immediately following the service, a luncheon was served in the church hall by Mrs. Adelaide Rice for some 200 guests, including the clergy, nuns, Knights of Columbus honor guard, and the choir members.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Connelly expressed his sincere thanks to all for their splendid attendance and to the Cotholic Daughters who were responsible for the success of this brilliant occasion.

Protestants Hear

thorized the statement to be distributed to the congregations.

The cornerstone of "our religious liberty" the statement said has been the separation of church and state, and on this basis America has been "singularly free of religious strife."

The statement said of the President's action; "It is our belief that in doing so he is abdicating his sworn position as defender of the constitution of the United States. It stressed that "this is the first time that an ambassador has been named by the United States to an ecclesiastical power." Former diplomatic relationship was with the Papal States as a temporal power, it said.

Sees No Valid Reason

Today the Papal State is only one sixth of the size it was in 1848 when its area was 16,000 square miles, and now has a population of 1,250 as compared to a former 3,000,000, the statement said and it argued that there is no "valid reason for sending a diplomatic representative to the Vatican City as a temporal, commercial power."

"The influence and power of the Papal Nuncio, who would be established in Washington if this proposal of the President is carried out," it said, "would be related not to his position as the representative of the Vatican City but to his position as the representative of the head of the Roman Catholic Church. Thus there would be at the very heart of our government in Washington an official ambassador of the Roman Catholic Church—a status granted to no other church—in direct defiance of the constitutional principle which has provided the basis for the freedom we enjoy."

The statement charged: "It is even more sinister than this. Through the encyclicals of its Popes and the approved writings of its ablest interpreters the Roman Catholic Church has proclaimed to every generation that it does not believe in freedom of religious worship. It has officially stated that when the church can control the state the state has the duty to forbid freedom of worship to non-Roman Catholics. The encyclical of Pope Leo XIII on 'The Christian Constitution of States,' declares that 'It is not lawful for the state to hold in equal favor different kinds of religion.' "

Seen in Direct Opposition

The statement charges that the President's proposal, "would establish on a professional basis at the heart of the nation's government a church which by tradition and officially expressed position is in direct opposition to the constitutional principle which has guaranteed a religious freedom to Roman Catholics, Protestants and Jews in America. We believe there are thousands of our American Roman Catholic friends who do not follow their church completely here—who regret its stand against freedom of worship and the machinations of its hierarchy in the direction of more domination and political control. But it is not American Catholicism that is to be represented in Washington; it is Roman Catholicism under the direction and control of the world hierarchy in Rome."

On the contention that the move is to help fight communism, the statement said:

Can't Fight by Acquiescence

"You cannot fight a political tyranny that stems from Moscow by acquiescing in an Ecclesiastical tyranny that stems from Rome. A religious tyranny over the souls of men paves the way in human life for every other kind of tyranny."

The statement concluded:

'We have an American ambassador to the Government of Italy who lives in Rome. Surely, if the Vatican has any information of value in fighting Communist aggression there are ways of getting that information to Washington through channels already in existence. There is no valid reason here for the establishing of the proposed diplomatic relations with the Vatican. The real reason, of course, is that this is what the Vatican wants. This proposal has come after years of concentrated pressure upon our chief executive on the part of the Roman Catholic Hierarchy in America and in Rome. The scheming nature of the time and manner of the announcement of this proposal gives added evidence of the fundamental dishonesty behind it. It is the type of approach to governmental change that we have learned to expect from Rome or Moscow but not from the chief executive of the United States.

'Made in Defiance'

"We shall probably be called 'bigots' for daring to protest this action. But let it be remembered from whence the pressure came to strike this blow at the constitutional guarantees of our freedom. We should remember, too, that the President has had upon his desk strongly worded statements from all of our great Protestant Denominations, declaring the unanimous stand of their people against any such proposal as this. The proposal was therefore made in defiance of this fundamental position of millions of American Protestants.

"We regret the necessity of calling these facts to the attention of our people. We have learned, however, from the bitter experiences of men in recent decades how quickly freedoms can disappear. The time to defend them is now. We believe that large numbers of our Roman Catholic friends have as little desire to see the heavy hand of the Vatican established on the American political scene as we have. We reiterate our support of the right of Roman Catholics to freedom of worship in America—but we take our stand against any ecclesiastical or political power or person who for reasons of imperialism or political expediency would destroy the constitutional framework that guarantees and protects our status as a free people.

Comments Assail President's Move

Washington, Oct. 29 (AP)—The White House said today that President Truman's nomination of Gen. Mark W. Clark to be ambassador to the Vatican has brought "several thousand" letters and telegrams commenting on the action.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said he did not know the exact ratio but that the vast majority of them were in opposition to the President's move.

Asked what he meant by "several thousand" he said there were "more than five thousand."

He also said it is generally true that letters in opposition to an action usually exceed those that are favorable, since the opposition is likely to be vocal.

At Cornerstone Rites

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, P.R., V.F., dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, wields the trowel in the placing of the cornerstone for the new wing of the Benedictine Hospital during Saturday afternoon's ceremonies. Bus Accident

from the Oakland bus depot after a night run from Salt Lake City.

Bus Driver Vane E. Elshire of Sacramento, Calif., was one of the dead.

Highway patrolmen here could recall no accident that ever had happened in just the same way.

Early in the morning, Boatswain Mate Orville Russell, 26, left his Richmond home to wake up the navy cooks at Treasure Island—his first duty of the day.

He drove onto the MacArthur Boulevard distribution ramp—the intricate cloverleaf at the east end of the San Francisco-Oakland bridge across the bay—and, for reasons still unexplained, his car struck a concrete dividing abutment. Two big pieces of concrete were knocked into the adjacent traffic lanes as his car swerved along for 114 feet and turned over, pinning him under the wreckage. He was injured critically.

Passing motorists were trying to free Russell when the bus bore down on the scene from the opposite direction three minutes later. Squarely in its path lay one of the concrete blocks, a chunk nearly four feet long and a foot and a half thick.

Highway patrolmen said driver Elshire apparently tried to straddle the concrete block, but it was too high. The left front tire blew out. As the massive bus careened, it tore out 40 feet of heavy iron pipe railing before going off the ramp completely.

It struck heavily in the key system rail yards 40 feet below, pancaking the bus top and pinning all of the passengers in the battered wreckage.

Hospital Cornerstone Placed

and Sullivan counties, noted that the addition which will double the hospital's capacity is a "vital necessity."

Thanking all those who worked on the campaign to raise $600,000 to finance the addition as well as all those who contributed, Msgr. Drury described the action as "one of the greatest acts of mercy. Those who contributed have contributed to their nieghbor," he said after reading Christ's second commandment to "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

Arthur H. Wicks, state senate majority leader and a co-chairman of the drive, said he deemed it "a privilege and a pleasure" to have had a part in the building fund campaign. To the Benedictine Hospital will come the people "whose hopes and prayers are for relief of pain and suffering," he said, adding "I am sure they will get the relief they are looking for."

James A. Dwyer, also a co-chairman of the drive, requested those who have not been contacted to contact workers before Tuesday, when at 6:30 p. m. the final report meeting will be held at the municipal auditorium.

Allen Baker, master of ceremonies, called the cornerstone laying a "definite milestone. It indicates to the city that all is going well."

The ceremonies were held at 3 p. m. Saturday. A recording of the talks was made for rebroadcast over WKNY at 8:30 p. m. that night. Opened with an amplified recording of "The Star Spangled Banner," the ceremony closed with "God Bless America."

Reformation Day Service Attracts 700 Sunday Night

A congregation of more than 700 persons attended the annual Reformation Day service of the Protestant churches of Kingston at Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday night.

Guest speaker was the Rev. Dr. David A. MacLennan, professor of preaching and pastoral care at Yale Divinity School, whose topic was Why Protestants Go to Church.

The Protestant witness is not alone "a negative protest against an alien religious culture," he said, but it is "a positive witness of faith to a universal religion wherein all men are brothers of the Elder Brother, the Son of God."

Dr. MacLennan contended that Protestants go to church "not to repeat a sacrifice at human hands," but that the Protestant faith is that the Divine sacrifice "was once made for all men for all time."

The Protestant witness, therefore, "can make no difference between lesser sins and greater sins," Dr. MacLennan said. "He goes to church to witness to his own sacrifice of himself with the eternally sacrificed Son of God," rather than "to confess to a certain kind of sin and to undertake penance which shall satisfy divine justice," the speaker said.

Sunday night's service marked the 434th anniversary of the posting of Luther's 95 arguments. Presiding minister was the Rev. Dr. William Carner Cain, president of the Kingston Ministerial Association. Pastor of the host church was the Rev. Dr. Frank Lawrence Gollnick. The Gospel and Epistle were read by the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool and the pastoral prayer was by the Rev. Dr. Ralph M. Houston.

Verdict Is Delayed

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 29 (AP)—Authorities today withheld opinion in the death of Dr. Albert H. Covner of Nahant, pending a pathological report. The 54-year-old heart specialist was found dead in North Reading woods Saturday, just 10 days after three 'teen-aged baby sitters took $18,000 from a strong box in his home for a big-time spending spree. Medical Examiner Thomas P. Devlin of Stoneham said the cause of death would not be known until an examination is completed on Dr. Covner's vital organs. He said the verdict may be made by tomorrow.

Protestants Hear

thorized the statement to be distributed to the congregations.

The cornerstone of "our religious liberty" the statement said has been the separation of church and state, and on this basis America has been "singularly free of religious strife."

The statement said of the President's action; "It is our belief that in doing so he is abdicating his sworn position as defender of the constitution of the United States. It stressed that "this is the first time that an ambassador has been named by the United States to an ecclesiastical power." Former diplomatic relationship was with the Papal States as a temporal power, it said.

Sees No Valid Reason

Today the Papal State is only one sixth of the size it was in 1848 when its area was 16,000 square miles, and now has a population of 1,250 as compared to a former 3,000,000, the statement said and it argued that there is no "valid reason for sending a diplomatic representative to the Vatican City as a temporal, commercial power."

"The influence and power of the Papal Nuncio, who would be established in Washington if this proposal of the President is carried out," it said, "would be related not to his position as the representative of the Vatican City but to his position as the representative of the head of the Roman Catholic Church. Thus there would be at the very heart of our government in Washington an official ambassador of the Roman Catholic Church—a status granted to no other church—in direct defiance of the constitutional principle which has provided the basis for the freedom we enjoy."

The statement charged: "It is even more sinister than this. Through the encyclicals of its Popes and the approved writings of its ablest interpreters the Roman Catholic Church has proclaimed to every generation that it does not believe in freedom of religious worship. It has officially stated that when the church can control the state the state has the duty to forbid freedom of worship to non-Roman Catholics. The encyclical of Pope Leo XIII on 'The Christian Constitution of States,' declares that 'It is not lawful for the state to hold in equal favor different kinds of religion.'"

Seen in Direct Opposition

The statement charges that the President's proposal, "would establish on a professional basis at the heart of the nation's government a church which by tradition and officially expressed position is in direct opposition to the constitutional principle which has guaranteed a religious freedom to Roman Catholics, Protestants and Jews in America. We believe there are thousands of our American Roman Catholic friends who do not follow their church completely here—who regret its stand against freedom of worship and the machinations of its hierarchy in the direction of more domination and political control. But it is not American Catholicism that is to be represented in Washington; it is Roman Catholicism under the direction and control of the world hierarchy in Rome."

On the contention that the move is to help fight communism, the statement said:

Can't Fight by Acquiescence

"You cannot fight a political tyranny that stems from Moscow by acquiescing in an Ecclesiastical tyranny that stems from Rome. A religious tyranny over the souls of men paves the way in human life for every other kind of tyranny."

The statement concluded:

'We have an American ambassador to the Government of Italy who lives in Rome. Surely, if the Vatican has any information of value in fighting Communist aggression there are ways of getting that information to Washington through channels already in existence. There is no valid reason here for the establishing of the proposed diplomatic relations with the Vatican. The real reason, of course, is that this is what the Vatican wants. This proposal has come after years of concentrated pressure upon our chief executive on the part of the Roman Catholic Hierarchy in America and in Rome. The scheming nature of the time and manner of the announcement of this proposal gives added evidence of the fundamental dishonesty behind it. It is the type of approach to governmental change that we have learned to expect from Rome or Moscow but not from the chief executive of the United States.

'Made in Defiance'

"We shall probably be called 'bigots' for daring to protest this action. But let it be remembered from whence the pressure came to strike this blow at the constitutional guarantees of our freedom. We should remember, too, that the President has had upon his desk strongly worded statements from all of our great Protestant Denominations, declaring the unanimous stand of their people against any such proposal as this. The proposal was therefore made in defiance of this fundamental position of millions of American Protestants.

"We regret the necessity of calling these facts to the attention of our people. We have learned, however, from the bitter experiences of men in recent decades how quickly freedoms can disappear. The time to defend them is now. We believe that large numbers of our Roman Catholic friends have as little desire to see the heavy hand of the Vatican established on the American political scene as we have. We reiterate our support of the right of Roman Catholics to freedom of worship in America—but we take our stand against any ecclesiastical or political power or person who for reasons of imperialism or political expediency would destroy the constitutional framework that guarantees and protects our status as a free people.

At Cornerstone Rites

from the Oakland bus depot after a night run from Salt Lake City.

Bus Driver Vane E. Elshire of Sacramento, Calif., was one of the dead.

Highway patrolmen here could recall no accident that ever had happened in just the same way.

Early in the morning, Boatswain Mate Orville Russell, 26, left his Richmond home to wake up the navy cooks at Treasure Island—his first duty of the day.

He drove onto the MacArthur Boulevard distribution ramp—the intricate cloverleaf at the east end of the San Francisco-Oakland bridge across the bay—and, for reasons still unexplained, his car struck a concrete dividing abutment. Two big pieces of concrete were knocked into the adjacent traffic lanes as his car swerved along for 114 feet and turned over, pinning him under the wreckage. He was injured critically.

Passing motorists were trying to free Russell when the bus bore down on the scene from the opposite direction three minutes later. Squarely in its path lay one of the concrete blocks, a chunk nearly four feet long and a foot and a half thick.

Highway patrolmen said driver Elshire apparently tried to straddle the concrete block, but it was too high. The left front tire blew out. As the massive bus careened, it tore out 40 feet of heavy iron pipe railing before going off the ramp completely.

It struck heavily in the key system rail yards 40 feet below, pancaking the bus top and pinning all of the passengers in the battered wreckage.

Comments Assail President's Move

Washington, Oct. 29 (AP)—The White House said today that President Truman's nomination of Gen. Mark W. Clark to be ambassador to the Vatican has brought "several thousand" letters and telegrams commenting on the action.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said he did not know the exact ratio but that the vast majority of them were in opposition to the President's move.

Asked what he meant by "several thousand" he said there were "more than five thousand."

He also said it is generally true that letters in opposition to an action usually exceed those that are favorable, since the opposition is likely to be vocal.

Hospital Cornerstone Placed

and Sullivan counties, noted that the addition which will double the hospital's capacity is a "vital necessity."

Thanking all those who worked on the campaign to raise $600,000 to finance the addition as well as all those who contributed, Msgr. Drury described the action as "one of the greatest acts of mercy. Those who contributed have contributed to their nieghbor," he said after reading Christ's second commandment to "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

Arthur H. Wicks, state senate majority leader and a co-chairman of the drive, said he deemed it "a privilege and a pleasure" to have had a part in the building fund campaign. To the Benedictine Hospital will come the people "whose hopes and prayers are for relief of pain and suffering," he said, adding "I am sure they will get the relief they are looking for."

James A. Dwyer, also a co-chairman of the drive, requested those who have not been contacted to contact workers before Tuesday, when at 6:30 p. m. the final report meeting will be held at the municipal auditorium.

Allen Baker, master of ceremonies, called the cornerstone laying a "definite milestone. It indicates to the city that all is going well."

The ceremonies were held at 3 p. m. Saturday. A recording of the talks was made for rebroadcast over WKNY at 8:30 p. m. that night. Opened with an amplified recording of "The Star Spangled Banner," the ceremony closed with "God Bless America."

Reformation Day Service Attracts 700 Sunday Night

A congregation of more than 700 persons attended the annual Reformation Day service of the Protestant churches of Kingston at Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday night.

Guest speaker was the Rev. Dr. David A. MacLennan, professor of preaching and pastoral care at Yale Divinity School, whose topic was Why Protestants Go to Church.

The Protestant witness is not alone "a negative protest against an alien religious culture," he said, but it is "a positive witness of faith to a universal religion wherein all men are brothers of the Elder Brother, the Son of God."

Dr. MacLennan contended that Protestants go to church "not to repeat a sacrifice at human hands," but that the Protestant faith is that the Divine sacrifice "was once made for all men for all time."

The Protestant witness, therefore, "can make no difference between lesser sins and greater sins," Dr MacLennan said. "He goes to church to witness to his own sacrifice of himself with the eternally sacrificed Son of God," rather than "to confess to a certain kind of sin and to undertake penance which shall satisfy divine justice," the speaker said.

Sunday night's service marked the 434th anniversary of the posting of Luther's 95 arguments. Presiding minister was the Rev. Dr. William Carner Cain, president of the Kingston Ministerial Association. Pastor of the host church was the Rev. Dr. Frank Lawrence Gollnick. The Gospel and Epistle were read by the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool and the pastoral prayer was by the Rev. Dr. Ralph M. Houston.

Verdict Is Delayed

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 29 (AP)—Authorities today withheld opinion in the death of Dr. Albert H. Covner of Nahant, pending a pathological report. The 54-year-old heart specialist was found dead in North Reading woods Saturday, just 10 days after three 'teen-aged baby sitters took $18,000 from a strong box in his home for a big-time spending spree. Medical Examiner Thomas P. Devlin of Stoneham said the cause of death would not be known until an examination is completed on Dr. Covner's vital organs. He said the verdict may be made by tomorrow.

Cleveland Browns Edge Giants; Take American Division Lead

49ers Upset Rams In National Loop

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—A missed point after a touchdown, something seldom seen among the professionals, could prove mighty costly for the New York Giants in quest of the American Conference title in the National Football League.

The missed point came yesterday and permitted the Cleveland Browns to pass the Giants in the American Conference standings as the National League champions won 14-13 for their fourth victory in five games. It was the Giants' first setback after winning three straight following a tie.

While Ray Poole missed the try for the extra point after the Giants' second touchdown, Lou (The Toe) Groza converted twice for the Browns for the margin of victory.

Playing before 56,942, the Browns electrified the huge throng by scoring on a 64-yard pass play on the first play from scrimmage. Otto Graham, the Browns' famous quarterback, passed from the Cleveland 38 to Dub Jones who caught it on the Giants' 45 and outraced Otto Schnellbacher to the end zone. Groza converted for a 7-0 lead.

Tom Landry galloped 16 yards with an intercepted fumble and Ray Poole added the extra point to make it 7-7 at halftime.

Fumble Costly

The Browns' Hal Herring recovered Emlin Tunnell's fumble of a Cleveland punt on the Giants' 29. On the second play, Graham threw a long pass into the end zone where Dante Lavelli was waiting for it over in a corner.

A 29-yard pass from Chuckin' Charlie Conerly to Bob McChesney in the end zone gave the Giants their second touchdown. It seemed obvious that the score was tied because the pros seldom miss an extra point.

Rapacz's pass from center to Conerly was a little wide, however, and Conerly had to reach to get the ball and set it up. The instant's delay threw Poole off on his timing. He halted his kick and had to recover quickly. The ball went under the cross-bar and the score was Cleveland 14, New York 13. And that was the end of the scoring.

Bears Edge Lions

End Ed Sprinkle blocked a fourth-period punt and Bill Wightman recovered the ball in the end zone for a tie-breaking touchdown that gave the Bears a 28-23 victory over the Lions before 36,950 fans.

Rookie fullback John Dottley crashed over for two second period Bear touchdowns and George Gulyanics battered across in the third period as the Bears remained in first place in the Western Division.

Quarterback Bobby Layne unleashed a long-gain passing attack that kept the Lions in the game all the way, throwing touchdown passes to ends Leon Hart, Jim Doran and Lorne Dibble.

Baugh Shines

Bullet Bill Dudley and aged but still accurate Slingin' Sammy Baugh double-teamed the Philadelphia Eagles to give the rejuvenated Washington Redskins a 27 to 23 victory before 20,437 fans in Philadelphia.

Dudley scored one touchdown, kicked two field goals, and converted three extra points for a total of 15. Baugh, who always bounces back with a superlative performance every time the experts hint he ought to retire, completed eight passes in 17 attempts for 203 yards and one touchdown.

The Pittsburgh Steelers triphammered three touchdowns in the final seven minutes of the game today to bury the bewildered Chicago Cardinals, 28 to 14.

Billy Cross, a 145-pound rookie from West Texas State, darted to two Chicago touchdowns in the third period to give his team a 14-7 lead.

With seven minutes remaining Lynn Chandnois, trapped while trying to pass, finally popped the ball in desperation to Joe Geri who raced across to complete a 49-yard scoring play. Geri booted the extra point and the game was deadlocked 14-14.

With only 90 seconds left to play Jerry Shipkey intercepted a pass and ran it back to the Cardinal 31. On second play Chuck Ortman spiraled a 33-yard touchdown pass to Ebel Nickle. Then with only seconds remaining rookie Jack Butler of St. Bonaventure intercepted another Cardinal pass and romped 52 yards to score.

49ers Upset Rams

San Francisco's 49ers passed and powered to a stunning 44-17 victory over the Los Angeles Rams before 51,897 in San Francisco. Gordon Soltau, former Minnesota star, turned in a spectacular performance. He snagged three passes in sensational fashion, place kicked a 23-yard field goal and converted five times.

A field goal in the final 11 seconds enabled the Green Bay Packers to edge the New York Yankees, 29 to 27. The Packers collected 23 points in the fourth period.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

It was a pretty sickening sight, wasn't it?

Old Joe Louis, one of the greatest human fighting machines of all time, lying grotesquely on the apron of the ring in Madison Square Garden, his legs tangled awkwardly in the ropes.

Father Time took inevitable toll of the once-classic Brown Bomber and, as Referee Ruby Goldstein disdained the final toll of "10" over the prostrate veteran, you realized that a ring saga had ended. At least you prayed that it had.

If you escaped without a lump in your throat, then you missed the full impact of one of the most dramatic moments in sports history.

What happened Friday night happened because the aging Brown Bomber wanted it that way. Your mind went back to December of 1947 when ancient Jersey Joe Walcott actually whipped the Brown Bomber. The little gremlins who carry out the relentless destruction of Father Time had already gained heavy inroads on the lethal punching youth who came out of Detroit nearly 17 years ago to restore prestige, dignity, drama and excitement to the heavyweight division.

Joe Louis was never the same after that night in December in 1947. He subsequently kayoed Walcott and then took a fearful beating at the hands of Ezzard Charles. That was the moment Joe Louis should have retired. But then, who knows what strange impulses moved the silent, dead-panned ring great. Was it because, like the general public, he held Ezzard Charles in utter contempt. You remember Charles, the cheese champion?

It was probably a combination of three things . . . Louis' contempt for Charles and his utter conviction that he could beat him in a return, financial difficulties and the noble and human desire to do something no other heavyweight had ever accomplished—regain the world's heavyweight crown.

The book was against Louis. Somehow, on borrowed time it seemed, he started the slow, painful road back toward a shot at Walcott or Charles, whichever one held the crown.

When Walcott, the praying man, stunned the boxing world by knocking out Ezzard Charles, it was evident that Louis' number was up. Walcott certainly would never meet Joe again until he had defended against Charles and Ezzard the Gizzard would discreetly avoid contact with the Brown Bomber until he had lured Walcott back into the ring.

So, today, the heavyweight division has its first serious white challenger since the Brown Bomber took over. The heavyweight situation being what it is, Rocky Marciano should scale the heights. He has youth, power, ambition. And he is the first heavyweight since Louis with a real knockout punch. Charles was and is a slasher. Walcott a Fancy Dan, crafty and disconcerting, but never a knockout artist.

It will be written that Father Time and not so much Rocky Marciano rendered the once great Joe Louis into a helpless hulk last Friday night.

Be that as it may, it is the only story that can be written.

Marciano's victory will be discredited and held lightly by the millions of boxing fans who remember Louis as one of the most destructive punchers in the game's history.

But that, too, is the inevitable fate of any man who licks a fabled champion. Gene Tunney didn't exactly dazzle the world or convince skeptics when he defeated Jack Dempsey. Charles was scorned after his lopsided decision over Louis.

If anything, Marciano's triumph restores a measure of sanity and class to the heavyweight division. It is difficult to see how he can miss winning the crown. He is an exciting type with a lot of crowd appeal and should be a popular champ when he manages to get into the same ring with Charles or Walcott. He's a one-punch killer like Louis. The heavyweight champion must be a killer in the Louis-Dempsey mould. Marciano is our best bet today.

Some guy will sidle up to you and say: "Marciano couldn't carry Louis' glove ten years ago." And some day in the distant future, they'll say the same thing about the guy who whips Rocky Marciano.

Anybody with any sporting instinct would have preferred seeing the old Bomber go out standing up. It wasn't in the cards because the Brown Bomber didn't want it that way. He died with his boots on.

SCORES HIS FIRST HOLE-IN-ONE

Leon Randall, Wiltwyck Golf Club and city golf champion, completed the most successful season in his brief but brilliant golf career on Sunday when he scored a hole-in-one on Wiltwyck's 182-yard eighth hole. Randall used a 5-iron in scoring the ace and was playing in a foursome that included Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr., J. Watson Bailey and Dr. George Rifenbary. The ball landed about two feet from the pin and reached the cup on the first bounce for the first ace in Leon's career. He won his second Wiltwyck crown this summer by defeating Bill Van Aken in the finals, then won over George Hughes of Twaalfskill in the 36-hole city finals. Randall will be the guest of honor at Wiltwyck's Dinner of Champions tonight at Leherb's.

Two-Minute Mile No Longer Rarity

Trotters and pacers, racing at blinding speed over lightning fast tracks, have accounted for thirty-one two-minute miles in 1951, second biggest single season total in the history of the sport.

Since the two-minute list, harness racing's most select honor roll, was inaugurated by Star Pointer in 1897, the annual output has averaged less than ten. The all-time topper was 1938 when 48 "miracle miles" were posted.

Sharing the two-minute lead in 1951, according to official records compiled by The United States Trotting Association, are Sampson Hanover, 4-year-old pacer owned by K. D. Owen, Houston, Texas; and Prince Jay, aged pacing gelding belonging to Sol Camp, Shafter, Calif. Each has posted four to date.

Sampson Hanover, trained and driven by veteran Frank Ervin, became the fastest horse ever to race over a half mile track when he went in 1.59 3/5 at Delaware, Ohio, in September. The undefeated stallion later toured the Lexington, Ky. track in 1.56 4/5, fastest mile in the sport since 1938.

Prince Jay, trained and driven by Young Wilbur Beattie, tied for the lead with a 1.59 2/5 mile at Inglewood, Calif., last week. He also scored at Springfield, Ill., and at Lexington twice. The California meeting now in progress probably will produce more two-minute miles.

Good Time Nears All-Time Winnings

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—Good Time, world record holder from Bill Cane's Good Time stable, is heading west with light harness racing's all-time money record as his objective.

The little five-year-old pacer boosted his total earnings to $198,505 when he won the $10,000 Roaring Grand at Yonkers Raceway Saturday night. That is a record for pacers but his objective is the $252,929 world record made by the trotter, Proximity, before she was retired earlier in the year.

Although winner of 14 out of 19 starts this year, Good Time missed purses worth $135,000 while sidelined during the summer, according to the figuring of trainer-driver Frank Irvin.

No Scholarships For Big Three

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 29 (AP)—The presidents of Harvard, Yale and Princeton say their schools do not give "athletic scholarships or special subsidies of any sort for athletes."

They said last night they were speaking out "in order to prevent misunderstanding and misrepresentation."

In a joint statement of policy, Presidents James B. Conant of Harvard, Alfred W. Griswold of Yale and Harold W. Dodds of Princeton said:

"The athletic program exists for the welfare of the student, for the contribution it can make to his healthy educational experience, not for the glorification of the individual or the prestige or profit of the college.

"The academic work and the physical welfare of the student are primary. No individual should be exploited for the sake of athletic success. No athletic scholarships or special subsidies of any sort for athletes are given by Harvard, Yale or Princeton. * * *"

Top Ten Teams Have Perfect Day Except For Baylor-Texas A&M Tie

New York, Oct. 29 (AP) — It was Navy Day Saturday and one look at the college football scores was a strong reminder of the date.

Princeton swamped Cornell, 53-15; Wisconsin washed over Northwestern, 41-0; Oklahoma drowned Colorado in touchdowns, 55-14 and Tennessee drydocked poor little Tennessee Tech, 68-0. Then there were these scoring salvos: Michigan State 53, Pitt 20, Michigan 54, Minnesota 27, and Ohio State 47, Iowa 21.

The Southwest Conference was the sole exception to the torrent of touchdowns. In the cattle country's key games, rebounding Texas halted Rice's vaunted air attack, 14-6, and Baylor scored twice in the last quarter to tie Texas A&M, 21-21, and remain unbeaten.

Two last-period touchdowns also figured in another Southwest Conference school's game, but these were scored by Southern California, which edged Texas Christian, 28-26.

The USC-TCU extra point battle highlighted an intersectional program which was marked by the southwest dropping three games while winning none. Besides the TCU game, Santa Clara, which had lost four out of five, won 21-12 over an Arkansas team on the letdown after last week's Texas victory, and Villanova had one touchdown too many for Houston, 33-27.

Few Upsets

Otherwise there were few upsets, however, and the top ten teams in the Associated Press poll had a perfect record save for the tie played by Baylor, No. 7. Third-ranked Georgia Tech utilized a blocked punt for a touchdown, then added a safety for an 8-7 win over Vanderbilt. Illinois, No. 4, shut out Indiana, 21-0, on three touchdowns by Johnny Karras. Maryland, No. 5, trounced Louisiana State, 27-0, and California, No. 9, whipped Oregon State, 35-14.

Other top ten winners were Tennessee, No. 1; Michigan State, No. 2; USC, No. 6; Princeton, No. 8 and Texas, No. 10.

Navy lost again, even if it was Navy Day, when Penn punched out a 14-0 victory in the last quarter.

As the teams head into November and the traditional battles for conference honors, next Saturday's schedule shows three games matching teams undefeated in conference play.

Princeton, headed for its second straight Ivy League title and working on a string of 18 straight after the amazingly one-sided trouncing of Cornell, plays host to Brown. The Bruins, who won their only league game against Yale, should be easy meat for Dick Kazmaier and his mates.

Michigan's defending Big 10 champions, rolling now after dropping two non-conference games, clash with Illinois in a game that may decide the eventual conference kingpin. In the southwest, TCU and Baylor meet in the game of the day there.

Cleveland Browns Edge Giants; Take American Division Lead

49ers Upset Rams In National Loop

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—A missed point after a touchdown, something seldom seen among the professionals, could prove mighty costly for the New York Giants in quest of the American Conference title in the National Football League.

The missed point came yesterday and permitted the Cleveland Browns to pass the Giants in the American Conference standings as the National League champions won 14-13 for their fourth victory in five games. It was the Giants' first setback after winning three straight following a tie.

While Ray Poole missed the try for the extra point after the Giants' second touchdown, Lou (The Toe) Groza converted twice for the Browns for the margin of victory.

Playing before 56,942, the Browns electrified the huge throng by scoring on a 64-yard pass play on the first play from scrimmage. Otto Graham, the Browns' famous quarterback, passed from the Cleveland 38 to Dub Jones who caught it on the Giants' 45 and outraced Otto Schnellbacher to the end zone. Groza converted for a 7-0 lead.

Tom Landry galloped 16 yards with an intercepted fumble and Ray Poole added the extra point to make it 7-7 at halftime.

Fumble Costly

The Browns' Hal Herring recovered Emlin Tunnell's fumble of a Cleveland punt on the Giants' 29. On the second play, Graham threw a long pass into the end zone where Dante Lavelli was waiting for it over in a corner.

A 29-yard pass from Chuckin' Charlie Conerly to Bob McChesney in the end zone gave the Giants their second touchdown. It seemed obvious that the score was tied because the pros seldom miss an extra point.

Rapacz's pass from center to Conerly was a little wide, however, and Conerly had to reach to get the ball and set it up. The instant's delay threw Poole off on his timing. He halted his kick and had to recover quickly. The ball went under the cross-bar and the score was Cleveland 14, New York 13. And that was the end of the scoring.

Bears Edge Lions

End Ed Sprinkle blocked a fourth-period punt and Bill Wightman recovered the ball in the end zone for a tie-breaking touchdown that gave the Bears a 28-23 victory over the Lions before 36,950 fans.

Rookie fullback John Dottley crashed over for two second period Bear touchdowns and George Gulyanics battered across in the third period as the Bears remained in first place in the Western Division.

Quarterback Bobby Layne unleashed a long-gain passing attack that kept the Lions in the game all the way, throwing touchdown passes to ends Leon Hart, Jim Doran and Lorne Dibble.

Baugh Shines

Bullet Bill Dudley and aged but still accurate Slingin' Sammy Baugh double-teamed the Philadelphia Eagles to give the rejuvenated Washington Redskins a 27 to 23 victory before 20,437 fans in Philadelphia.

Dudley scored one touchdown, kicked two field goals, and converted three extra points for a total of 15. Baugh, who always bounces back with a superlative performance every time the experts hint he ought to retire, completed eight passes in 17 attempts for 203 yards and one touchdown.

The Pittsburgh Steelers trip-hammered three touchdowns in the final seven minutes of the game today to bury the bewildered Chicago Cardinals, 28 to 14.

Billy Cross, a 145-pound rookie from West Texas State, darted to two Chicago touchdowns in the third period to give his team a 14-7 lead.

With seven minutes remaining Lynn Chandnois, trapped while trying to pass, finally popped the ball in desperation to Joe Geri who raced across to complete a 49-yard scoring play. Geri booted the extra point and the game was deadlocked 14-14.

With only 90 seconds left to play Jerry Shipkey intercepted a pass and ran it back to the Cardinal 31. On second play Chuck Ortman spiraled a 33-yard touchdown pass to Ebel Nickle. Then with only seconds remaining rookie Jack Butler of St. Bonaventure intercepted another Cardinal pass and romped 52 yards to score.

49ers Upset Rams

San Francisco's 49ers passed and powered to a stunning 44-17 victory over the Los Angeles Rams before 51,897 in San Francisco. Gordon Soltau, former Minnesota star, turned in a spectacular performance. He snagged three passes in sensational fashion, place kicked a 23-yard field goal and converted five times.

A field goal in the final 11 seconds enabled the Green Bay Packers to edge the New York Yankees, 29 to 27. The Packers collected 23 points in the fourth period.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

It was a pretty sickening sight, wasn't it?

Old Joe Louis, one of the greatest human fighting machines of all time, lying grotesquely on the apron of the ring in Madison Square Garden, his legs tangled awkwardly in the ropes.

Father Time took inevitable toll of the once-classic Brown Bomber and, as Referee Ruby Goldstein disdained the final toll of "10" over the prostrate veteran, you realized that a ring saga had ended. At least you prayed that it had.

If you escaped without a lump in your throat, then you missed the full impact of one of the most dramatic moments in sports history.

What happened Friday night happened because the aging Brown Bomber wanted it that way. Your mind went back to December of 1947 when ancient Jersey Joe Walcott actually whipped the Brown Bomber. The little gremlins who carry out the relentless destruction of Father Time had already gained heavy inroads on the lethal punching youth who came out of Detroit nearly 17 years ago to restore prestige, dignity, drama and excitement to the heavyweight division.

Joe Louis was never the same after that night in December in 1947. He subsequently kayoed Walcott and then took a fearful beating at the hands of Ezzard Charles. That was the moment Joe Louis should have retired. But then, who knows what strange impulses moved the silent, dead-panned ring great. Was it because, like the general public, he held Ezzard Charles in utter contempt. You remember Charles, the cheese champion?

It was probably a combination of three things . . . Louis' contempt for Charles and his utter conviction that he could beat him in a return, financial difficulties and the noble and human desire to do something no other heavyweight had ever accomplished—regain the world's heavyweight crown.

The book was against Louis. Somehow, on borrowed time it seemed, he started the slow, painful road back toward a shot at Walcott or Charles, whichever one held the crown.

When Walcott, the praying man, stunned the boxing world by knocking out Ezzard Charles, it was evident that Louis' number was up. Walcott certainly would never meet Joe again until he had defended against Charles and Ezzard the Gizzard would discreetly avoid contact with the Brown Bomber until he had lured Walcott back into the ring.

So, today, the heavyweight division has its first serious white challenger since the Brown Bomber took over. The heavyweight situation being what it is, Rocky Marciano should scale the heights. He has youth, power, ambition. And he is the first heavyweight since Louis with a real knockout punch. Charles was and is a slasher. Walcott a Fancy Dan, crafty and disconcerting, but never a knockout artist.

It will be written that Father Time and not so much Rocky Marciano rendered the once great Joe Louis into a helpless hulk last Friday night.

Be that as it may, it is the only story that can be written.

Marciano's victory will be discredited and held lightly by the millions of boxing fans who remember Louis as one of the most destructive punchers in the game's history.

But that, too, is the inevitable fate of any man who licks a fabled champion. Gene Tunney didn't exactly dazzle the world or convince skeptics when he defeated Jack Dempsey. Charles was scorned after his lopsided decision over Louis.

If anything, Marciano's triumph restores a measure of sanity and class to the heavyweight division. It is difficult to see how he can miss winning the crown. He is an exciting type with a lot of crowd appeal and should be a popular champ when he manages to get into the same ring with Charles or Walcott. He's a one-punch killer like Louis. The heavyweight champion must be a killer in the Louis-Dempsey mould. Marciano is our best bet today.

Some guy will sidle up to you and say: "Marciano couldn't carry Louis' glove ten years ago." And some day in the distant future, they'll say the same thing about the guy who whips Rocky Marciano.

Anybody with any sporting instinct would have preferred seeing the old Bomber go out standing up. It wasn't in the cards because the Brown Bomber didn't want it that way. He died with his boots on.

SCORES HIS FIRST HOLE-IN-ONE

Leon Randall, Wiltwyck Golf Club and city golf champion, completed the most successful season in his brief but brilliant golf career on Sunday when he scored a hole-in-one on Wiltwyck's 182-yard eighth hole. Randall used a 5-iron in scoring the ace and was playing in a foursome that included Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr., J. Watson Bailey and Dr. George Rifenbary. The ball landed about two feet from the pin and reached the cup on the first bounce for the first ace in Leon's career. He won his second Wiltwyck crown this summer by defeating Bill Van Aken in the finals, then won over George Hughes of Twaalfskill in the 36-hole city finals. Randall will be the guest of honor at Wiltwyck's Dinner of Champions tonight at Leherb's.

Two-Minute Mile No Longer Rarity

Trotters and pacers, racing at blinding speed over lightning fast tracks, have accounted for thirty-one two-minute miles in 1951, second biggest single season total in the history of the sport.

Since the two-minute list, harness racing's most select honor roll, was inaugurated by Star Pointer in 1897, the annual output has averaged less than ten. The all-time topper was 1938 when 48 "miracle miles" were posted.

Sharing the two-minute lead in 1951, according to official records compiled by The United States Trotting Association, are Sampson Hanover, 4-year-old pacer owned by K. D. Owen, Houston, Texas; and Prince Jay, aged pacing gelding belonging to Sol Camp, Shafter, Calif. Each has posted four to date.

Sampson Hanover, trained and driven by veteran Frank Ervin, became the fastest horse ever to race over a half mile track when he went in 1.59 3/5 at Delaware, Ohio, in September. The undefeated stallion later toured the Lexington, Ky. track in 1.56 4/5, fastest mile in the sport since 1938.

Prince Jay, trained and driven by Young Wilbur Beattie, tied for the lead with a 1.59 2/5 mile at Inglewood, Calif., last week. He also scored at Springfield, Ill., and at Lexington twice. The California meeting now in progress probably will produce more two-minute miles.

Good Time Nears All-Time Winnings

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—Good Time, world record holder from Bill Cane's Good Time stable, is heading west with light harness racing's all-time money record as his objective.

The little five-year-old pacer boosted his total earnings to $198,505 when he won the $10,000 Roaring Grand at Yonkers Raceway Saturday night. That is a record for pacers but his objective is the $252,929 world record made by the trotter, Proximity, before she was retired earlier in the year.

Good Time will be pointed for the $25,000 Golden West pace at Hollywood Park.

Although winner of 14 out of 19 starts this year, Good Time missed purses worth $135,000 while sidelined during the summer, according to the figuring of trainer-driver Frank Irvin.

No Scholarships For Big Three

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 29 (AP)—The presidents of Harvard, Yale and Princeton say their schools do not give "athletic scholarships or special subsidies of any sort for athletes."

They said last night they were speaking out "in order to prevent misunderstanding and misrepresentation."

In a joint statement of policy, Presidents James B. Conant of Harvard, Alfred W. Griswold of Yale and Harold W. Dodds of Princeton said:

"The athletic program exists for the welfare of the student, for the contribution it can make to his healthy educational experience, not for the glorification of the individual or the prestige or profit of the college.

"The academic work and the physical welfare of the student are primary. No individual should be exploited for the sake of athletic success. No athletic scholarships or special subsidies of any sort for athletes are given by Harvard, Yale or Princeton. * * *"

Caldwell Takes His Ducking–Happily, Whatever Happened to the 'T'?

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—Hanging Monday's football wash out to dry, and don't forget to leave room on the line for Charley Caldwell's old gray tweed:

Two weeks ago Coldwell said he'd let his Princeton boys throw him in Lake Carnegie if they beat Cornell. . . . Less than an hour after Princeton's 53-15 victory was posted, the coach clothes and all, was tossed — SPLASH!—into the drink. . . "My suit's not dry yet," Caldwell said. . . . By the way, what ever became of the "T" formation? . . . The two most successful elevens* in present day football, Princeton and Tennessee, are exponents of the old-fashioned single-wing. . . . Princeton has won 18 in a row and top-ranked Tennessee, 15.

After absorbing that 53-15 massacre, Cornell's coach Lefty James said: "Princeton, as it played against us, could have beaten any team in the country, and I don't exclude Tennessee, Illinois or Michigan State." . . . But down in Philadelphia, Navy Coach Eddie Erdelatz said: "Our boys thought Rice was better. We though Rice was the best team we've played." . . . Navy lost to Princeton, 24-20, and to Rice, 21-14, on successive Saturdays. . . . Wonder if Eddie and Lefty are talking about the same team. . . . Erdelatz, incidentally, can add the bluing to today's wash. . . . There's none bluer, after his fifth game without a victory. . . . "We've made a lot of mistakes, fumbled and drawn costly penalties, but we'll come along all right, don't worry," warned the head man of the Tars.

Navy and Pennsylvania could not hold the ball for dropping it at Philadelphia Saturday and between them provided 11 fumbles, eight of them recovered by the other side. . . . Of these Penn was guilty of eight bobbles, five snatched up by Navy. . . . Hard-tackling jarred the boys loose from the spheroid. . . . The stuff may have been catching, because Florida fumbled five times against Kentucky, once eight yards from the enemy goal, before Kentucky won, 14-6.

All-America Dick Kazmaier had a great day for Princeton, with 15 completed passes out of 17 and a total of 350 overall yards, but he didn't outshine a virtual unknown from Ohio State named Tony Curcillo. . . . All Curcillo did was pass for four touchdowns and score two others in the Buckeyes' 47-21 victory over Iowa. . . . He hit with 10 of 14 passes for 292 yards. . . . And a lad plucked up from the "B" squad, Jerry Witt, scored four touchdowns, one on a 69-yard sprint, in Wisconsin's 41-0 triumph over northwestern. . . . Also Oklahoma's Eddie Crowder threw four scoring passes in 18 minutes against Colorado and Pitt's Bob Bestwick completed 16 out of 21 for 235 yards in losing to Michigan State.

New Paltz Track Stirs Excitement

The relays will be known hereafter as the Hudson Valley Relays.

The new track, used for the first time on Oct. 18 for the first annual interclass track and field meet at New Paltz High, is in excellent condition, hard, firm and fast for a series of major meets scheduled there in the future.

The new quarter mile oval has attracted the attention of many schools for miles around and is certain to be the scene of the big track meets.

New Paltz High will sponsor the Hudson Valley Relays in the future. In addition, the Ulster County Athletic League track and field championships that have been held at Marlborough in previous years will be transferred to New Paltz. A half dozen other dual meets are planned for the track.

Tigers Laud Kazmaier; James Calls Him Best

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—Princeton stood astride eastern football like a Colossus today but made no effort to hide the source of its power. Full credit was given the All-America halfback, Dick Kazmaier.

"Without Kazmaier we certainly wouldn't be unbeaten today," said Coach Charley Cadwell, whose 18-game winning streak is the longest in current football. "Without him, I'm not sure we could have beaten Cornell. It would have been a dog-eat-dog affair."

All Kazmaier, a 170-pounder from Maumee, Ohio, did was complete 15 of 17 passes for 236 yards and gain 124 yards on the ground for an individual total of 350 yards. That's 150 more than made by the entire Cornell team.

He scored two touchdowns and passed for three others in one of the finest one-man performances ever seen in the east.

"He's the greatest back I've seen since I've been coaching," said Cornell's coach Lefty James. "I don't think there's a more valuable man to his team in the country.

"He's a magnificent passer and his deceptiveness completely fooled our men. We had him trapped repeatedly but he slipped away for good gains."

In Senior Year

This is Kazmaier's final year and chances are he will not experience another defeat as a collegian. Having now beaten both Pennsylvania and Cornell, Princeton is over the toughest part of its schedule. The rest should be fairly easy.

The Tigers, not defeated since Cornell downed them two years ago, are host to Brown next Saturday and then they play Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth in order. They are heavily favored to go the rest of the way and wrap up both the Eastern and Ivy League championships.

Princeton also can set a record by winning the Big Three title over Yale and Harvard for the fifth year running.

With the Ivy league title thus allocated, the main interest now centers on runnerup honors. Pennsylvania, Cornell and Columbia probably will battle it out for the No. 2 spot.

Cornell entertains Columbia Saturday and meets Penn Nov. 24 in the final game of the season. Columbia already has lost to Penn. In the only other league game this week, Yale, thrice-beaten in the league, will be host to Dartmouth.

Penn entertains William & Mary and Harvard is idle.

Last Saturday, Penn fumbled away five opportunities and then collected itself for two last period touchdowns to beat Navy, 14-0. Columbia lost to Army, 14-9.

Dartmouth won a league game from Harvard, 26-20, on a last half rally sparked by quarterback Gene Howard. Yale whipped Colgate, 27-7, and Brown lost to Holy Cross, 41-6.

Durocher Wins With Soft Shoe

Hollywood, Oct. 29 (AP)—Southern California television audiences last night discovered that Leo (Lippy) Durocher can be as convincing with a soft shoe routine as he isn't with National League umpires.

The New York Giants' manager teamed with Jack Benny and George Burns in a nostalgic vaudeville song and dance skit. It was easily the hit of a special CBS television show marking the transfer of station KNXT's new transmitter to mile high Mt. Wilson.

Durocher also sang a solo in sweet tones, the like of which never were heard along the Polo Grounds third base line.

Wallkill Trips Kerhonkson, 35-19

Kerhonkson High completed its schedule in the Ulster County Athletic League's six-man football league by dropping a 35-19 decision to Wallkill High on Saturday.

The loss gave the Kerhonkson gridders a 2 and 2 record for the campaign.

New Paltz leads the five-team circuit with three straight wins. Wallkill has won two and lost one and Kerhonkson has split in its four games. Saugerties has one victory in three starts and Marlborough is in the league cellar with four straight setbacks.

Wallkill exploded for 22 points in the second half against Kerhonkson after holding a slim 13-12 lead at halftime.

Nevins was the running star for Wallkill, while Witt, Van Etten and Mesteda scored TDs for the losers. Witt scored on a short pass, while Van Etten and Mesteda plunged over on short line bucks.

Wallkill outrushed Kerhonkson, 172 yards to 164. The losers had 10 first downs to Wallkill's 6. The winners completed six passes in nine attempts. Kerhonkson had five completions in 13 tries.

Caldwell Takes His Ducking—Happily, Whatever Happened to the 'T'?

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—Hanging Monday's football wash out to dry, and don't forget to leave room on the line for Charley Caldwell's old gray tweed:

Two weeks ago Coldwell said he'd let his Princeton boys throw him in Lake Carnegie if they beat Cornell. . . . Less than an hour after Princeton's 53-15 victory was posted, the coach clothes and all, was tossed —SPLASH!—into the drink. . . "My suit's not dry yet," Caldwell said. . . . By the way, what ever became of the "T" formation? . . . The two most successful elevens* in present day football, Princeton and Tennessee, are exponents of the old-fashioned single-wing. . . . Princeton has won 18 in a row and top-ranked Tennessee, 15.

After absorbing that 53-15 massacre, Cornell's coach Lefty James said: "Princeton, as it played against us, could have beaten any team in the country, and I don't exclude Tennessee, Illinois or Michigan State." . . . But down in Philadelphia, Navy Coach Eddie Erdelatz said: "Our boys thought Rice was better. We though Rice was the best team we've played." . . . Navy lost to Princeton, 24-20, and to Rice, 21-14, on successive Saturdays. . . . Wonder if Eddie and Lefty are talking about the same team. . . . Erdelatz, incidentally, can add the bluing to today's wash. . . . There's none bluer, after his fifth game without a victory. . . . "We've made a lot of mistakes, fumbled and drawn costly penalties, but we'll come along all right, don't worry," warned the head man of the Tars.

Navy and Pennsylvania could not hold the ball for dropping it at Philadelphia Saturday and between them provided 11 fumbles, eight of them recovered by the other side. . . . Of these Penn was guilty of eight bobbles, five snatched up by Navy. . . . Hard-tackling jarred the boys loose from the spheroid. . . . The stuff may have been catching, because Florida fumbled five times against Kentucky, once eight yards from the enemy goal, before Kentucky won, 14-6.

All-America Dick Kazmaier had a great day for Princeton, with 15 completed passes out of 17 and a total of 350 overall yards, but he didn't outshine a virtual unknown from Ohio State named Tony Curcillo. . . . All Curcillo did was pass for four touchdowns and score two others in the Buckeyes' 47-21 victory over Iowa. . . . He hit with 10 of 14 passes for 292 yards. . . . And a lad plucked up from the "B" squad, Jerry Witt, scored four touchdowns, one on a 69-yard sprint, in Wisconsin's 41-0 triumph over northwestern. . . . Also Oklahoma's Eddie Crowder threw four scoring passes in 18 minutes against Colorado and Pitt's Bob Bestwick completed 16 out of 21 for 235 yards in losing to Michigan State.

New Paltz Track Stirs Excitement

The Newburgh Relays, staged at the Newburgh Free Academy track for the past 20 years, will be held next spring at the new and outstanding quarter mile track at New Paltz High School.

The relays will be known hereafter as the Hudson Valley Relays.

The new track, used for the first time on Oct. 18 for the first annual interclass track and field meet at New Paltz High, is in excellent condition, hard, firm and fast for a series of major meets scheduled there in the future.

The new quarter mile oval has attracted the attention of many schools for miles around and is certain to be the scene of the big track meets.

New Paltz High will sponsor the Hudson Valley Relays in the future. In addition, the Ulster County Athletic League track and field championships that have been held at Marlborough in previous years will be transferred to New Paltz. A half dozen other dual meets are planned for the track.

Tigers Laud Kazmaier; James Calls Him Best

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—Princeton stood astride eastern football like a Colossus today but made no effort to hide the source of its power. Full credit was given the All-America halfback, Dick Kazmaier.

"Without Kazmaier we certainly wouldn't be unbeaten today," said Coach Charley Cadwell, whose 18-game winning streak is the longest in current football. "Without him, I'm not sure we could have beaten Cornell. It would have been a dog-eat-dog affair."

With Kazmaier, however, Princeton made a massacre of this battle of unbeatens Saturday at Princeton's Palmer Stadium, winning 53-15.

All Kazmaier, a 170-pounder from Maumee, Ohio, did was complete 15 of 17 passes for 236 yards and gain 124 yards on the ground for an individual total of 350 yards. That's 150 more than made by the entire Cornell team.

He scored two touchdowns and passed for three others in one of the finest one-man performances ever seen in the east.

"He's the greatest back I've seen since I've been coaching," said Cornell's coach Lefty James. "I don't think there's a more valuable man to his team in the country.

"He's a magnificent passer and his deceptiveness completely fooled our men. We had him trapped repeatedly but he slipped away for good gains."

In Senior Year

This is Kazmaier's final year and chances are he will not experience another defeat as a collegian. Having now beaten both Pennsylvania and Cornell, Princeton is over the toughest part of its schedule. The rest should be fairly easy.

The Tigers, not defeated since Cornell downed them two years ago, are host to Brown next Saturday and then they play Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth in order. They are heavily favored to go the rest of the way and wrap up both the Eastern and Ivy League championships.

Princeton also can set a record by winning the Big Three title over Yale and Harvard for the fifth year running.

With the Ivy league title thus allocated, the main interest now centers on runnerup honors. Pennsylvania, Cornell and Columbia probably will battle it out for the No. 2 spot.

Cornell entertains Columbia Saturday and meets Penn Nov. 24 in the final game of the season. Columbia already has lost to Penn. In the only other league game this week, Yale, thrice-beaten in the league, will be host to Dartmouth.

Penn entertains William & Mary and Harvard is idle.

Last Saturday, Penn fumbled away five opportunities and then collected itself for two last period touchdowns to beat Navy, 14-0. Columbia lost to Army, 14-9.

Dartmouth won a league game from Harvard, 26-20, on a last half rally sparked by quarterback Gene Howard. Yale whipped Colgate, 27-7, and Brown lost to Holy Cross, 41-6.

Durocher Wins With Soft Shoe

Hollywood, Oct. 29 (AP)—Southern California television audiences last night discovered that Leo (Lippy) Durocher can be as convincing with a soft shoe routine as he isn't with National League umpires.

The New York Giants' manager teamed with Jack Benny and George Burns in a nostalgic vaudeville song and dance skit. It was easily the hit of a special CBS television show marking the transfer of station KNXT's new transmitter to mile high Mt. Wilson.

Durocher also sang a solo in sweet tones, the like of which never were heard along the Polo Grounds third base line.

Wallkill Trips Kerhonkson, 35-19

Kerhonkson High completed its schedule in the Ulster County Athletic League's six-man football league by dropping a 35-19 decision to Wallkill High on Saturday.

The loss gave the Kerhonkson gridders a 2 and 2 record for the campaign.

New Paltz leads the five-team circuit with three straight wins. Wallkill has won two and lost one and Kerhonkson has split in its four games. Saugerties has one victory in three starts and Marlborough is in the league cellar with four straight setbacks.

Wallkill exploded for 22 points in the second half against Kerhonkson after holding a slim 13-12 lead at halftime.

Nevins was the running star for Wallkill, while Witt, Van Etten and Mesteda scored TDs for the losers. Witt scored on a short pass, while Van Etten and Mesteda plunged over on short line bucks.

Wallkill outrushed Kerhonkson, 172 yards to 164. The losers had 10 first downs to Wallkill's 6. The winners completed six passes in nine attempts. Kerhonkson had five completions in 13 tries.

Friendly Poker Game

By FRANK TRIPP

"What's the nearest you ever came to being killed?" One of the fellows around the poker table asked during the recess when the host brought in the midnight repast. He asked it more directly to Corky, whose pet expression is "You slay me!"

Corky, for Corcoran, is a swell guy but at that moment we were six victims of his prowess who wouldn't have cared much if he had been slain before we met him. We were stuffing down a fine lunch like pagans to gain more time to recoup our losses.

For Corky had all the chips; and had been known to quit a game suddenly and unexpectedly; laid it on his "old lady" who couldn't sleep till he got home—so he said.

So it was after Corky left—with most of the dough—that the tension eased and one by one the pals told of their narrow escapes from death. Scotty was voted Grand Exalted Liar—for life.

Scotty and Dick were in the war but war incidents were barred, to keep the peace; 'cause Scotty was a Marine and Dick in the Army. You'd think they fought on different sides when they talked war.

That's why Scotty had to confine himself to the bull story that he told, while Dick razzed him. I'm not sure; maybe you'll believe it.

"I WAS BROUGHT UP on a farm," Scotty related. "My father always kept a bull and he didn't think one worth keeping unless he was the meanest critter in the country. When I was about 14 he had the worst one of the lot, a black devil with an ugly brindle face and a neck like a bulldozer. We called him Nitro Glycerine—Nitro for short.

"One day I walked up to Nitro's pen to tease him with my new red shirt," the hero went on. "The husky fence fell like a matchbox before Nitro's onrush. He roared and bellowed and lowered his horns into the earth at my very feet.

"When he straightened up I was hanging on his horns by my new red shirt, just by one sleeve. He tried to shake me off but I had the presence of mind to grab him by the ears and swing astride his neck."

Even the dealer paused, with a card in midair. Scotty went on: "He crashed right through the sturdy barn door, thinking of course to crush me against it. But I was too smart for him. I clung flat to his neck and never got a scratch.

"Inside the barn he arched his back, flung his frothing nostrils into the air, to throw me off. That was my chance. I let him throw me. And brother, he did; way back to the farthest corner of the haymow."

"And I suppose they didn't get you out till next hayin' time," said Dick.

"Yes, they did," said unruffled Scotty, "but they couldn't get the bull out of the barn until he chased my red shirt back to the bull pen. There he caught up to me again—"

"And kissed you," blurted Dick—"She's open for two whites."

"No he didn't kiss me. When he lunged to gore me I nimbly dove aside. Foiled, he crashed his head into a concrete watering trough and—"

"And drowned," razzed Dick—"I'll take three cards."

"No, not drowned. He just plain hit it so hard that my father had to kill him."

THUS ENDED Scotty's harrowing tale. Everybody groaned. The betting went on and Dick took over:

"I remember the incident well," he said. "What a small world. To think that you and I should meet after all these years.

"It was my father who bought old Nitro's carcass from your dad. Pop was a taxidermist. He stuffed Nitro's hide and sold it to the American Tobacco Company. That's Nitro's picture on those sacks of Bull Durham."

More groans, as Dick added: "Finally the bull came back on pop's hands again."

"Then I suppose he sold it to Sitting Bull," countered Scotty.

"No, he gave it to Stonewall Jackson's son-in-law, and it stood for 30 years on the site of the Battle of Bull Run. Today is —"

"Yeah, let's hear: just where is the bull now?" risked Scotty—with his neck 'way out. Then he got it:

"You ought to know; you spent your life shooting it."

Somebody said: "I'll raise you five"—and I passed.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Six

Shall the proposed amendment of article eight, sections four, five, seven and eleven, of the constitution, in relation to restrictions on the powers of counties, cities, towns, villages, and certain school districts to contract indebtedness and to impose taxes upon real estate be approved?

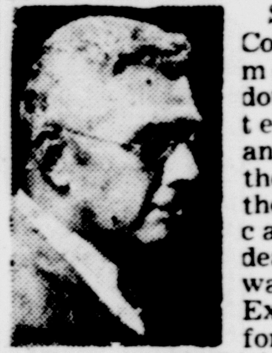
Friendly Poker Game

By FRANK TRIPP

"What's the nearest you ever came to being killed?" One of the fellows around the poker table asked during the recess when the host brought in the midnight repast. He asked it more directly to Corky, whose pet expression is "You slay me!"

Corky, for Corcoran, is a swell guy but at that moment we were six victims of his prowess who wouldn't have cared much if he had been slain before we met him. We were stuffing down a fine lunch like pagans to gain more time to recoup our losses.

For Corky had all the chips; and had been known to quit a game suddenly and unexpectedly; laid it on his "old lady" who couldn't sleep till he got home—so he said.



So it was after Corky left—with most of the dough—that the tension eased and one by one the pals told of their narrow escapes from death. Scotty was voted Grand Exalted Liar — for life.

Scotty and Dick were in the war but war incidents were barred, to keep the peace; 'cause Scotty was a Marine and Dick in the Army. You'd think they fought on different sides when they talked war.

That's why Scotty had to confine himself to the bull story that he told, while Dick razzed him. I'm not sure; maybe you'll believe it.

"I WAS BROUGHT UP on a farm," Scotty related. "My father always kept a bull and he didn't think one worth keeping unless he was the meanest critter in the country. When I was about 14 he had the worst one of the lot, a black devil with an ugly brindle face and a neck like a bulldozer. We called him Nitro Glycerine—Nitro for short.

"One day I walked up to Nitro's pen to tease him with my new red shirt," the hero went on. "The husky fence fell like a matchbox before Nitro's onrush. He roared and bellowed and lowered his horns into the earth at my very feet.

"When he straightened up I was hanging on his horns by my new red shirt, just by one sleeve. He tried to shake me off but I had the presence of mind to grab him by the ears and swing astride his neck."

Even the dealer paused, with a card in midair. Scotty went on: "He crashed right through the sturdy barn door, thinking of course to crush me against it. But I was too smart for him. I clung flat to his neck and never got a scratch.

"Inside the barn he arched his back, flung his frothing nostrils into the air, to throw me off. That was my chance. I let him throw me. And brother, he did; way back to the farthest corner of the haymow."

"And I suppose they didn't get you out till next hayin' time," said Dick.

"Yes, they did," said unruffled Scotty, "but they couldn't get the bull out of the barn until he chased my red shirt back to the bull pen. There he caught up to me again—"

"And kissed you," blurted Dick—"She's open for two whites."

"No he didn't kiss me. When he lunged to gore me I nimbly dove aside. Foiled, he crashed his head into a concrete watering trough and—"

"And drowned," razzed Dick—"I'll take three cards."

"No, not drowned. He just plain hit it so hard that my father had to kill him."

THUS ENDED Scotty's harrowing tale. Everybody groaned. The betting went on and Dick took over:

"I remember the incident well," he said. "What a small world. To think that you and I should meet after all these years.

"It was my father who bought old Nitro's carcass from your dad. Pop was a taxidermist. He stuffed Nitro's hide and sold it to the American Tobacco Company. That's Nitro's picture on those sacks of Bull Durham."

More groans, as Dick added: "Finally the bull came back on pop's hands again."

"Then I suppose he sold it to Sitting Bull," countered Scotty.

"No, he gave it to Stonewall Jackson's son-in-law, and it stood for 30 years on the site of the Battle of Bull Run. Today is —"

"Yeah, let's hear: just where is the bull now?" risked Scotty—with his neck 'way out. Then he got it:

"You ought to know; you spent your life shooting it."

Somebody said: "I'll raise you five"—and I passed.

THOMAS J. CURRAN
Secretary of State

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number One

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to permit electors in the actual military service of the state or of the United States in the army, navy, air force or any branch thereof or in the coast guard, to vote, despite absence from their election districts, in time of peace as well as war, and to give the same right to a spouse, parent or child of such electors accompanying them if a qualified voter and a resident of the same election district. The present provision applies only to those in actual military service of the state, or of the United States in the army or navy and is limited to time of war.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number One

Shall the proposed amendment of article two, section one, of the constitution, in relation to absentee voting privileges of electors in military service and certain members of their immediate families, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Two

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to exempt from the requirement of personal registration of voters in the actual military service of the state, or of the United States, in the army, navy, air force or any branch thereof or in the coast guard, inmates of a veterans' bureau hospital located outside the state of New York and a spouse, parent or child of such voters accompanying them, if a qualified voter and a resident of the same election district.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Two

Shall the proposed amendment to article two, section five, of the constitution, in relation to exempting from the requirement of personal registration voters in military service, inmates of certain veterans' bureau hospitals, and certain members of their immediate families, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Three

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to empower the legislature to provide for payment of increased pensions to members of a retirement system of the state or of a subdivision of the state.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Three

Shall the proposed amendment of article seven, section eight, of the constitution, in relation to the power to increase pensions of members of a retirement system of the state or of a subdivision thereof be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Four

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to empower the legislature, without submission to the people, to subject the state to liability for the payment of the bonded indebtedness of a public corporation created to construct state thruways, in a principal amount not to exceed $500,000,000, and to authorize the use of any state canal land and properties by such public corporation.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Four

Shall the proposed amendment of article ten of the constitution by adding thereto proposed new section six, in relation to empowering the Legislature by law (a) to make the State liable for the payment of bonds and notes of a public corporation created to construct State thruways, and (b) to authorize the use of State canal lands and properties by such public corporation, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Five

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to provide for an appeal to the court of appeals from a non-final order of the appellate division in a proceeding by or against one or more public officers, a board, commission or other body of public officers, or a court or tribunal, when the court of appeals allows the same, without regard to the availability of appeal by stipulation for final order upon affirmance.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Five

Shall the proposed amendment of article six, section seven, of the constitution, in relation to appeals to the court of appeals, by permission, from non-final orders in proceedings by or against public officers be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Six

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to base municipal debt limitations upon a five year average of full valuation of taxable real estate rather than upon average assessed valuation as at present; to lower the percentage prescribed in the debt limitation for counties, other than Nassau, and for towns and villages from 8 to 7 per cent; to continue the debt limitation for the City of New York and for the County of Nassau at 10 per cent, and for other cities of 125,000 or more inhabitants at 9 per cent; to establish a debt limitation of 7 per cent for city purposes, excluding education purposes, for cities having less than 125,000 inhabitants; to establish a separate 5 per cent debt limit for school districts wholly or partly within or coterminous with cities of less than 125,000 inhabitants, subject to increase for specified objects or purposes upon approval of a proposition by school district voters and consent of the Regents and State Comptroller, and to include within the school district debt limit city debt contracted for education purposes prior to 1952; to advance the date of partial exclusion of indebtedness for potentially self-sustaining improvements or services to the date the debt is contracted; to authorize the City of New York to exclude from its 10 per cent debt limit (1) indebtedness contracted after January 1, 1952, for the construction and equipment of new rapid transit railroads and for the reconstruction and equipment of existing rapid transit railroads not exceeding $500,000,000, which exclusion may be used only once as such debt is contracted from time to time until it aggregates the permissible maximum regardless of repayments (i.e., it is non-revolving), and (2) bonded debt for school purposes to the extent to which State aid for common schools, not exceeding $2,500,000, shall be applied by such city in any fiscal year to meet the annual debt service thereon; to limit to the City of New York the provisions of Section 11 under which the amount of taxes for capital improvements or for payment of short-term debt for such improvements may be excluded from the constitutional tax limit upon condition that such amount be deemed indebtedness for the purpose of computing the constitutional debt contracting power in the same manner as thought a debt had been incurred payable over the period of probable usefulness of the improvement and to provide that any amount deemed to be indebtedness of a county, city other than New York, village or school district under that provision shall not be so considered on and after January 1, 1952, and to authorize such other cities, counties, villages and school districts wholly or partly within cities of less than 125,000 inhabitants, to exclude taxes required for direct budgetary appropriation to finance objects or purposes having a period of probable usefulness from their tax limitations unless the Legislature otherwise provides.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Six

Shall the proposed amendment of article eight, sections four, five, seven and eleven, of the constitution, in relation to restrictions on the powers of counties, cities, towns, villages, and certain school districts to contract indebtedness and to impose taxes upon real estate be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Seven

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to increase the monetary jurisdiction of the city court of the city of New York from $3,000 to $6,000. It also revises Section 15 to eliminate obsolete provisions.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Seven

Shall the proposed amendment of article six section fifteen, of the constitution, in relation to increasing the monetary jurisdiction of the city court of the city of New York, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Eight

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to permit judges of the court of appeals and the justices of the supreme court to serve in any capacity in the armed forces of the United States of America and of the state of New York and to authorize the legislature to provide for temporary judges or justices to serve during their absence in such service. Presently such judges and justices are prohibited from holding any other public office or trust, except that they may serve as members of a constitutional convention.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Eight

Shall the proposed amendment of article six, section nineteen of the Constitution, in relation to permitting judges of the court of appeals and justices of the supreme court to serve in the armed forces of the United States or state of New York, be approved?

Eckert Defends Action of Esopus Taxpayers Group

Edward R. Eckert, Republican candidate for supervisor in the Town of Esopus, in answer to a charge by an Independent Citizens Committee, defended the actions of the Esopus Taxpayers Association, Inc. in the following statement to the Freeman:

"The Citizens Committee charges that the cancellation of association meetings until after election, which was voted by the Executive Committee of the Taxpayers Association, deprived the voters of the right to hear the platform of both parties debated. Up until the respective caucus, the Democratic candidates were in complete sympathy with the Taxpayers Association plan and since then they have altered their way of thinking. There were nine long months spent in research regarding the assessments and there was complete unity of thought. It has been admitted by one of the Democratic candidates that some of the deposed Republican officials are working with the Democratic organization to defeat the principals of the present Republican candidates. This is an admission by the Democrats that they are not in sympathy with the taxpayer's pocketbook but rather the gaining of political power by any means. The means they are resorting to is that of confusion.

The big issue for the voters to think about is—who circulated the petitions for the forming of the Independent Citizens Committee and what part did it's chairman, William H. VanBenschoten play in the recent reassessment program. My opponent in this campaign, declined an invitation tendered by the Taxpayers Association in September, to debate the platforms of both parties. On October 9th, at a meeting held in Port Ewen, I appeared with my opponent before the organization and stated the platform of the Republican candidates. The opposing party, at that time was unprepared, and consequently was unable to offer any definite platform. Now at this late date, the recently formed Independent Citizens Committee, has issued an invitation to the Republican candidates, to again debate at the Town Hall on October 29th. Due to previous committments, we are forced to decline the invitation.

"The platform of the Republican candidates is simple and straightforward, we pledge relief from unfair assessments and the continuation of honest, efficient, and capable town government. That is what the taxpayers of this town are seeking and that is what the Republican candidates, will see they get. They want action not promises. We have stated our position and supplied the information. This our opponents have failed to do. They have not as yet, even though they have had countless opportunities to do so, offered any definite platform to the voters of this Township. It has been clearly demonstrated at meetings in Port Ewen, that the plan offered by the Taxpayers Association and used by our sister communities, will benefit the individual taxpayers. That is the plan we intend to use, if we are elected."

Suggestion for Farmers

Des Moines, Ia., (AP)—Lester Abbott, manager of the John Nie farm near Anamosa, has a suggestion for dairy farmers who want to take advantage of today's good beef prices. "Breeding Holstein cows to a good Angus bull is one way to be sure of having some feeding cattle," he says. He and Nie did that last year and now have 15 cross-bred calves on the farm.

Eckert Defends Action of Esopus Taxpayers Group

Edward R. Eckert, Republican candidate for supervisor in the Town of Esopus, in answer to a charge by an Independent Citizens Committee, defended the actions of the Esopus Taxpayers Association, Inc. in the following statement to the Freeman:

"The Citizens Committee charges that the cancellation of association meetings until after election, which was voted by the Executive Committee of the Taxpayers Association, deprived the voters of the right to hear the platform of both parties debated. Up until the respective caucus, the Democratic candidates were in complete sympathy with the Taxpayers Association plan and since then they have altered their way of thinking. There were nine long months spent in research regarding the assessments and there was complete unity of thought. It has been admitted by one of the Democratic candidates that some of the deposed Republican officials are working with the Democratic organization to defeat the principals of the present Republican candidates. This is an admission by the Democrats that they are not in sympathy with the taxpayer's pocketbook but rather the gaining of political power by any means. The means they are resorting to is that of confusion.

The big issue for the voters to think about is—who circulated the petitions for the forming of the Independent Citizens Committee and what part did it's chairman, William H. VanBenschoten play in the recent reassessment program. My opponent in this campaign, declined an invitation tendered by the Taxpayers Association in September, to debate the platforms of both parties. On October 9th, at a meeting held in Port Ewen, I appeared with my opponent before the organization and stated the platform of the Republican candidates. The opposing party, at that time was unprepared, and consequently was unable to offer any definite platform. Now at this late date, the recently formed Independent Citizens Committee, has issued an invitation to the Republican candidates, to again debate at the Town Hall on October 29th. Due to previous committments, we are forced to decline the invitation.

"The platform of the Republican candidates is simple and straightforward, we pledge relief from unfair assessments and the continuation of honest, efficient, and capable town government. That is what the taxpayers of this town are seeking and that is what the Republican candidates, will see they get. They want action not promises. We have stated our position and supplied the information. This our opponents have failed to do. They have not as yet, even though they have had countless opportunities to do so, offered any definite platform to the voters of this Township. It has been clearly demonstrated at meetings in Port Ewen, that the plan offered by the Taxpayers Association and used by our sister communities, will benefit the individual taxpayers. That is the plan we intend to use, if we are elected."

Suggestion for Farmers

Des Moines, Ia., (AP)—Lester Abbott, manager of the John Nie farm near Anamosa, has a suggestion for dairy farmers who want to take advantage of today's good beef prices. "Breeding Holstein cows to a good Angus bull is one way to be sure of having some feeding cattle," he says. He and Nie did that last year and now have 15 cross-bred calves on the farm.

DUSO Standing

Newburgh	2	0	1.000

Port Jervis	0	2	.000

Poughkeepsie High School turned back a stubborn Middletown eleven, 13 to 0, Saturday in Middletown to remain undefeated in DUSO conference play.

The win was the third straight for Coach Sam Kalloch's Blues. Friday night, Newburgh Academy, the other unbeaten squad, had tripped Port Jervis, 18-0, to stay undefeated and unscored on for the season.

The Blues marched 89 yards for the first TD in the first period after stalling a Middie drive on the Poughkeepsie 11. The payoff play was an 8-yard pass from quarterback Johnny Ripo to Ed Gattine in the end zone.

Ripo and Gattine duplicated the play in the second period when they combined for a 50-yard scoring play. From the 50-yard line Ripo hit Gattine on the 20 and the latter scampered unmolested over the goal line. The sustained drive went 66 yards in six plays.

The second half was scoreless, although Poughkeepsie was twice stopped inside the Middletown 10. The foray to the Poughkeepsie 11 after the first kickoff was Middletown's only serious threat of the game.

The DUSO schedule resumes on Nov. 10 when Poughkeepsie meets Newburgh in the Hill City and Kingston High travels to Port Jervis.

Shepherd Will Return

London, Oct. 29 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden directed Sir Francis Shepherd, Britain's ambassador in Tehran, today to return to London immediately for consultations on the Anglo-Iranian oil row. Eden's action was his first publicly announced official move since taking over as foreign secretary in the new Conservative government of Winston Churchill. The recall presumably means that Eden is seeking a way to reopen the stalled negotiations with Iran over nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's billion-dollar properties.

"Among the most interesting and picturesque classes of street children of New York are the young Italian musicians," he tells us. "They wander about our streets with harps, violins or tambourines, playing wherever they can secure an audience. Few, even after several years, acquire even a passable knowledge of the English language. I was fortunate enough to make the acquaintance of two Italian gentlemen long resident in New York, Mr. A. E. Cerqua, superintendent of the Italian school at Five Points, and Mr. G. F. Secchi De Casale, editor of the well-known 'Eco D'Italia' from whom I obtained full and trustworthy information. A series of articles contributed by Mr. De Casale to his paper, on the Italian street children, I have found a great service.

"My Readers will learn with surprise, probably, of the inhuman treatment which they receive from the speculators who buy them from their parents in Italy. They are distinct from the bootblacks and newsboys who are found in Chatham Square and City Hall Park. These are children of Italian residents of the poorer classes. From their ranks the Italian school draws its pupils. If the story of Phil the fiddler shall excite an active sympathy in their behalf, the author will feel abundantly repaid for his reports."

On fair consideration isn't it possible that Horatio Alger, Jr., instead of ridicule, deserves a status as a reformer similar to Dickens and Harriet Beecher Stowe?

Poughkeepsie High School turned back a stubborn Middletown eleven, 13 to 0, Saturday in Middletown to remain undefeated in DUSO conference play.

The win was the third straight for Coach Sam Kalloch's Blues. Friday night, Newburgh Academy, the other unbeaten squad, had tripped Port Jervis, 18-0, to stay undefeated and unscored on for the season.

The Blues marched 89 yards for the first TD in the first period after stalling a Middie drive on the Poughkeepsie 11. The payoff play was an 8-yard pass from quarterback Johnny Ripo to Ed Gattine in the end zone.

Ripo and Gattine duplicated the play in the second period when they combined for a 50-yard scoring play. From the 50-yard line Ripo hit Gattine on the 20 and the latter scampered unmolested over the goal line. The sustained drive went 66 yards in six plays.

The second half was scoreless, although Poughkeepsie was twice stopped inside the Middletown 10. The foray to the Poughkeepsie 11 after the first kickoff was Middletown's only serious threat of the game.

The DUSO schedule resumes on Nov. 10 when Poughkeepsie meets Newburgh in the Hill City and Kingston High travels to Port Jervis.

Shepherd Will Return

London, Oct. 29 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden directed Sir Francis Shepherd, Britain's ambassador in Tehran, today to return to London immediately for consultations on the Anglo-Iranian oil row. Eden's action was his first publicly announced official move since taking over as foreign secretary in the new Conservative government of Winston Churchill. The recall presumably means that Eden is seeking a way to reopen the stalled negotiations with Iran over nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's billion-dollar properties.

man to whom he is in bondage."

"Phil the Fiddler, or The Young Street Musician" is not only an Alger classic but a graphic view of a forgotten feature of the past.

"Among the most interesting and picturesque classes of street children of New York are the young Italian musicians," he tells us. "They wander about our streets with harps, violins or tambourines, playing wherever they can secure an audience. Few, even after several years, acquire even a passable knowledge of the English language. I was fortunate enough to make the acquaintance of two Italian gentlemen long resident in New York, Mr. A. E. Cerqua, superintendent of the Italian school at Five Points, and Mr. G. F. Secchi De Casale, editor of the well-known 'Eco D'Italia' from whom I obtained full and trustworthy information. A series of articles contributed by Mr. De Casale to his paper, on the Italian street children, I have found a great service.

"My Readers will learn with surprise, probably, of the inhuman treatment which they receive from the speculators who buy them from their parents in Italy. They are distinct from the bootblacks and newsboys who are found in Chatham Square and City Hall Park. These are children of Italian residents of the poorer classes. From their ranks the Italian school draws its pupils. If the story of Phil the fiddler shall excite an active sympathy in their behalf, the author will feel abundantly repaid for his reports."

On fair consideration isn't it possible that Horatio Alger, Jr., instead of ridicule, deserves a status as a reformer similar to Dickens and Harriet Beecher Stowe?

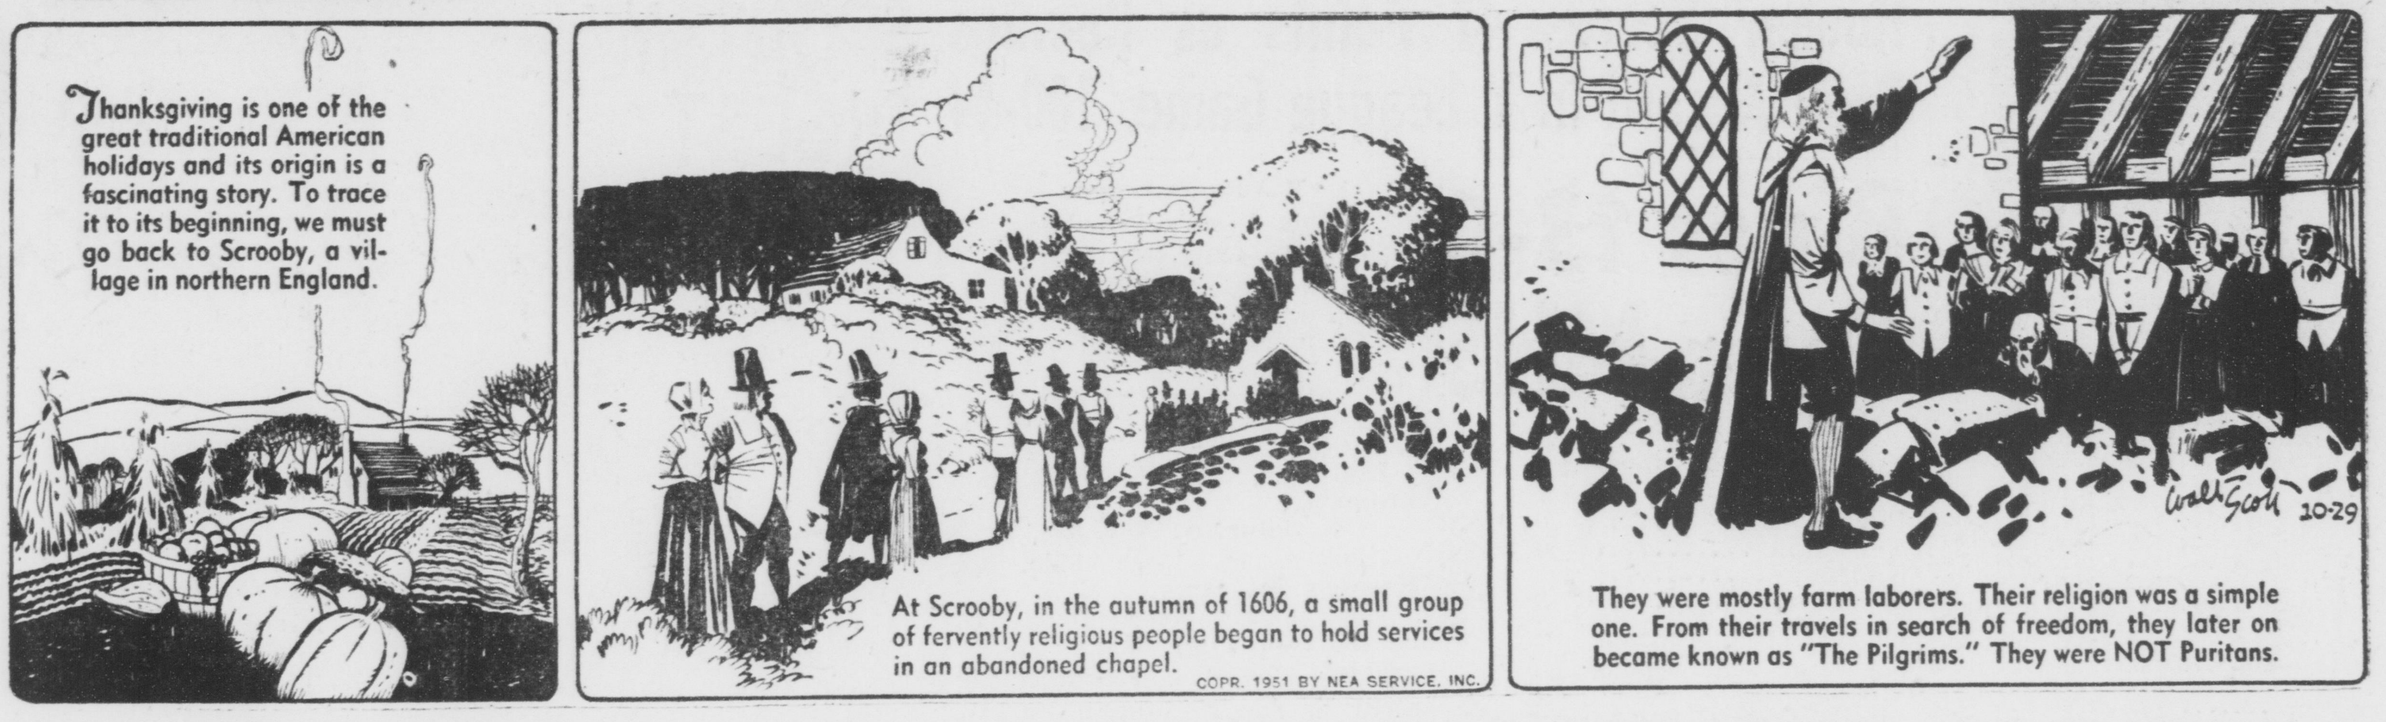
THE FIRST THANKSGIVING

Illustrated by Walter Scott



Thanksgiving is one of the great traditional American holidays and its origin is a fascinating story. To trace it to its beginning, we must go back to Scrooby, a village in northern England.

At Scrooby, in the autumn of 1606, a small group of fervently religious people began to hold services in an abandoned chapel.

COPR. 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

They were mostly farm laborers. Their religion was a simple one. From their travels in search of freedom, they later on became known as "The Pilgrims." They were NOT Puritans.

Chief of Police Appeals for Safe Halloween Night

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren today issued the following appeal to youngsters of the city asking them to observe Halloween without mischief and destruction:

Again the one night of the year, which in the past has proven to be one of grave concern to your police department and to the property owners of the city is approaching—Halloween.

I hereby appeal to the youth of Kingston to please refrain from doing those wanton and malicious acts on this night which in the past have proven to be costly, unsafe and unsightly. I specifically request that you refrain from the soaping of windows, the taking of gates, upsetting the garbage and ash cans, starting of curb fires, hiding and playing in the leaves along the curb. In fact, any other act which you would not think of doing on any other night of the year.

It is not my desire to deprive you of good clean fun. Dress up if you will. Masquerade and parade to your hearts content. Call at the homes of your neighbors and friends. Meet with the other youth of the city at the municipal auditorium, which our Mayor Newkirk has so graciously thrown open and placed at your disposal for the evening.

Join in the supervised facilities at said place. You are assured a good time by your Recreation Department, who under the leadership of Andrew Murphy, III and Harry L. Edson, have made great plans for your evening's entertainment. Make an attempt to win one of the many prizes offered for the costume contest and enjoy the specially selected feature cartoon. When the evening's frolic is over Mayor Newkirk, Mr. Murphy, Mr. Edson and myself request that you go straight to your homes, happy in the knowledge of an enjoyable evening well spent, without injury to yourself or damage to the property of others.

Yours very truly,
Raymond Van Buren,
Chief of Police.

Dies During Appeal

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—William Keyserling, 82, father of one of President Truman's chief aides, collapsed and died of a heart attack here yesterday as he appealed for funds for Israel. "We must save lives," were his last words, spoken into a microphone at a conference of the United Jewish Appeal. Keyserling's son, Leon, is chairman of President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers. The elder Keyserling, a delegate from Beaufort, S. C., succumbed during the third speech he made at a conference question-and-answer session.

300 Elks Honor Two Officials; 10 New Candidates Enroll

Approximately 300 members from Kingston and other Elks' lodges in the East Central District attended the recent program at the club on Fair street for the official visits of two dignitaries of the order.

Paul Johansen of Liberty, vice president of the New York State Elks' Association was one of the honored guests and the other was F. Vincent Hauber of Port Jervis, district deputy grand exalted ruler of the east central district.

In connection with the official visits, 10 candidates were initiated into Kingston Lodge, 550, by officers of the organization. Previous to the initiation they were guests at a dinner in their honor.

The new members heard reports on the various activities sponsored by the Elks, and President Johansen told them that the slogan of the organization is "Serve your order today for a better America tomorrow."

Million Pints of Blood

Johansen stressed that Elks lodges throughout the nation will pledge 1,000,000 pints of blood for use in the national emergency.

Howard R. Davis, grand exalted ruler of the BPOE, made the announcement, he said, at a recent testimonial dinner in his honor at his home lodge, Williamsport Lodge, 173.

Davis, he said, was to meet Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett in Washington to present the official blood donation pledge of the 1,600 Elks lodges in the United States.

Exalted Ruler John J. Schwalbach said the local blood bank plan would be announced in the near future.

Schwalbach welcomed the new Elks after the initiation and urged them to become active in the various projects sponsored by their lodge.

10 New Members

The candidates initiated were Dr. Melvin Karow, Fred Duna, Anthony G. Pizzarelli, Oliver T. Byrne, Charles J. Gaudette, Harry Eckstein, Aloysius Bailey, Donald W. Carver, John J. Duffy, Jr., Millard V. Everett.

Delegations present were from Newburgh, Catskill, Liberty, Middletown, Port Jervis and Haverstraw.

Past State President William F. Edelmuth and nine other Elks who presided over New York State Elks Associations were introduced, also nine past vice presidents, including G. Dewey Logan, Dr. Morton Lown and Charles and A. Ryan, Sydney Flisser, both past district deputies.

Jewish Night Oct. 30

Joseph Epstein, a trustee of Kingston Lodge, and chairman of Jewish night, reported a prospective attendance of 200 at the dinner scheduled Tuesday, Oct. 30, at 7 p. m.

Joseph Kelly, chairman of the Youth Activities Committee praised Exalted Ruler Schwalbach for instituting the project in behalf of the younger members of the community and announced a dinner for Monday, Nov. 12 at 6 p. m.

Music for the dance was furnished through the courtesy of Local 215, American Federation of Musicians, who used money from the transcription fund for the event.

Andrew J. Murphy, 3rd, and Harry Edson of the Recreation Department, furnished movies for the youngsters after they enjoyed their dinner.

Insurance Agents Vote Strike in Month

New York, Oct. 29 (AP) — Some 2,000 insurance agents of the Prudential Life Insurance Co. in the New York-New Jersey area have voted overwhelmingly in favor of a Dec. 1 strike unless the company comes up with an "acceptable contract."

The agents, members of the AFL Insurance Agents Union, voted 95 per cent in favor of the strike, a union spokesman announced Saturday.

Similar strike votes are scheduled for agents in 35 states and Washington, D. C., the spokesman said.

The present contract, which expires Dec. 1, provides for a $35 pay base (drawing account) plus commissions.

A Prudential spokesman said agents are paid an average weekly salary of $110, including the value of company benefits, and that their actual cash income averages $99 a week.

Medium A-Bomb Is Exploded From Plane Over Desert

Las Vagas, Nev., Oct. 29 (AP)—A medium-sized atomic bomb exploded over the Nevada desert yesterday, and rumbles were heard more than 200 miles away.

The bomb, dropped from a B-29, outshone the morning sun for a few seconds. The time was 7:20 a. m. PST (10:20 a. m. EST).

It was the second after-dawn nuclear test put on by the AEC after much delay because of weather and various operational difficulties.

Uulike the pallid baby blast last Monday, yesterday's detonation caused a rumble heard as far away as Big Bear, Calif., 225 miles away, and St. George, Utah, 135 miles off. An aviator flying at about 11,000 feet over Kaibab forest, Utah, reported seeing the flash some 200 miles distant. It also was widely seen in Las Vagas and other southern Nevada communities, but was felt by comparatively few persons. There was no damage reported.

The AEC reported finding a small amount of radiation in the Beatty — Lathrop Wells area, about 35 miles southwest of the Yucca flat test site, but it was termed unharmful to human beings, animals or crops.

Yesterday's bomb—unofficially the 19th major nuclear explosion by the U. S.—flashed white, then glowed red for perhaps two seconds before sending up a column of smoke and the familiar atomic mushroom.

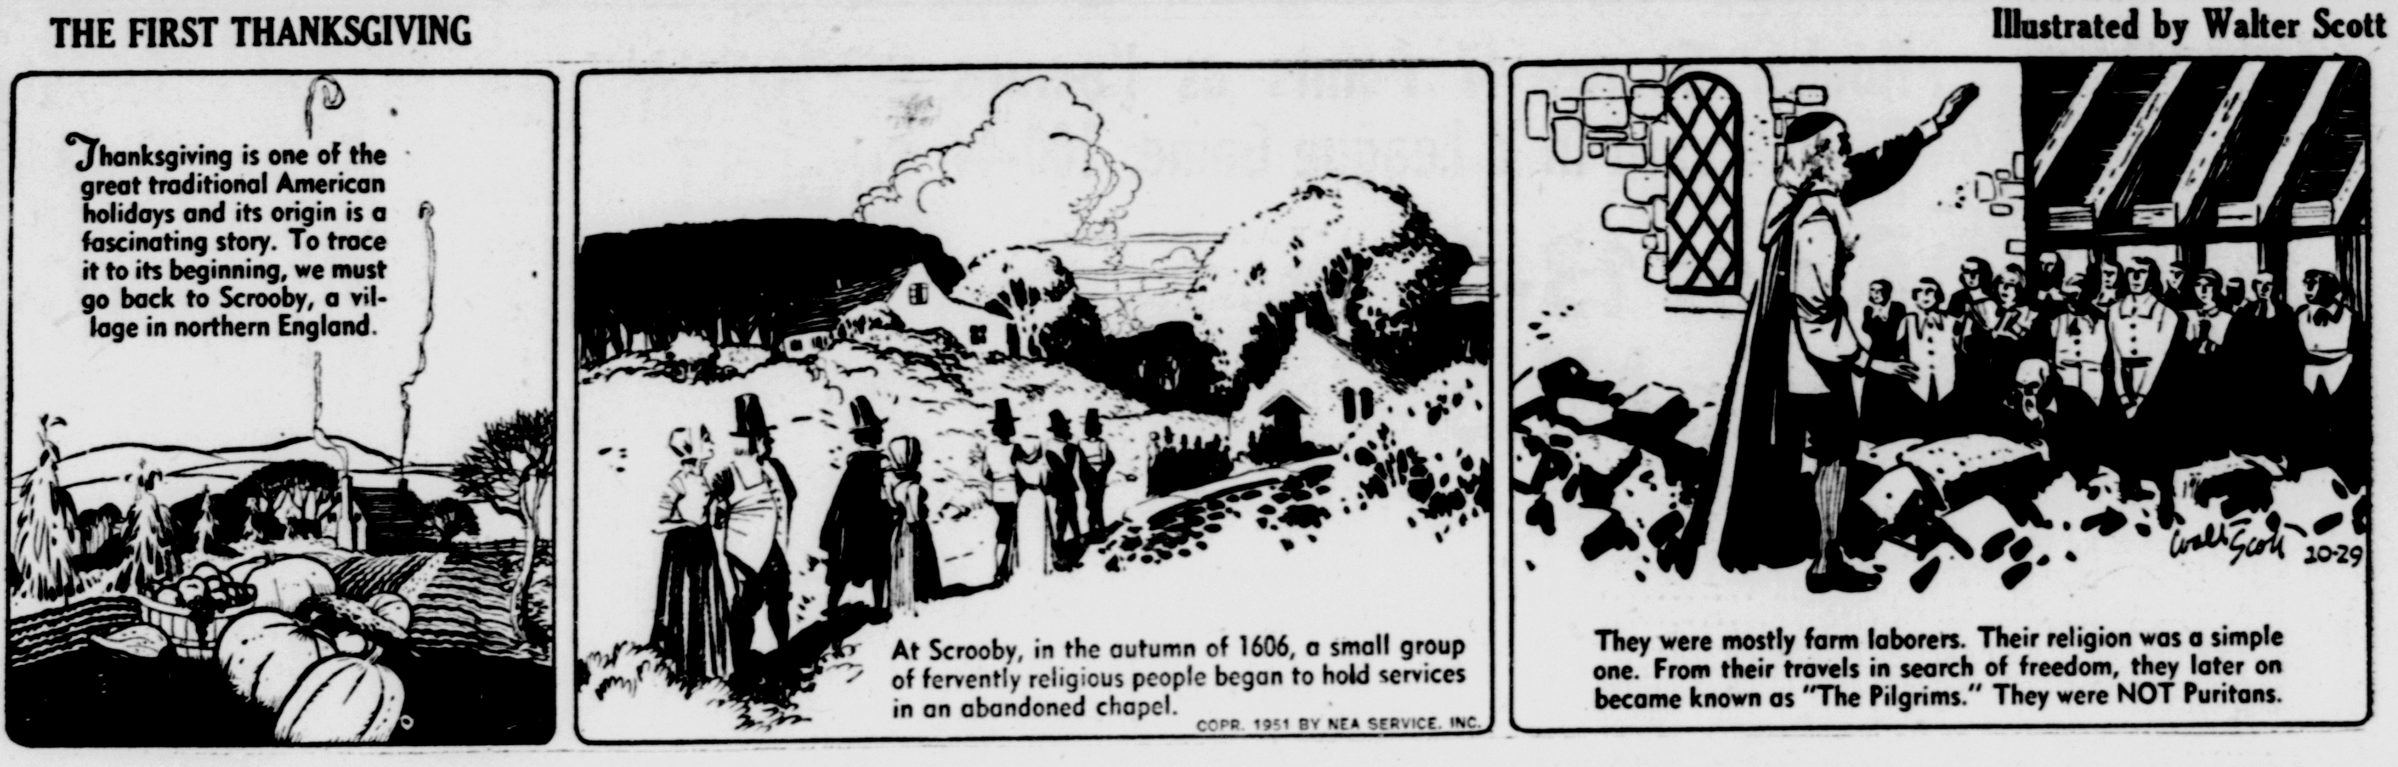
THE FIRST THANKSGIVING

Illustrated by Walter Scott



Thanksgiving is one of the great traditional American holidays and its origin is a fascinating story. To trace it to its beginning, we must go back to Scrooby, a village in northern England.

At Scrooby, in the autumn of 1606, a small group of fervently religious people began to hold services in an abandoned chapel.

They were mostly farm laborers. Their religion was a simple one. From their travels in search of freedom, they later on became known as "The Pilgrims." They were NOT Puritans.

Chief of Police Appeals for Safe Halloween Night

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren today issued the following appeal to youngsters of the city asking them to observe Halloween without mischief and destruction:

Again the one night of the year, which in the past has proven to be one of grave concern to your police department and to the property owners of the city is approaching—Halloween.

I hereby appeal to the youth of Kingston to please refrain from doing those wanton and malicious acts on this night which in the past have proven to be costly, unsafe and unsightly. I specifically request that you refrain from the soaping of windows, the taking of gates, upsetting the garbage and ash cans, starting of curb fires, hiding and playing in the leaves along the curb. In fact, any other act which you would not think of doing on any other night of the year.

It is not my desire to deprive you of good clean fun. Dress up if you will. Masquerade and parade to your hearts content. Call at the homes of your neighbors and friends. Meet with the other youth of the city at the municipal auditorium, which our Mayor Newkirk has so graciously thrown open and placed at your disposal for the evening.

Join in the supervised facilities at said place. You are assured a good time by your Recreation Department, who under the leadership of Andrew Murphy, III and Harry L. Edson, have made great plans for your evening's entertainment. Make an attempt to win one of the many prizes offered for the costume contest and enjoy the specially selected feature cartoon. When the evening's frolic is over Mayor Newkirk, Mr. Murphy, Mr. Edson and myself request that you go straight to your homes, happy in the knowledge of an enjoyable evening well spent, without injury to yourself or damage to the property of others.

Yours very truly,
Raymond Van Buren,
Chief of Police.

Dies During Appeal

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—William Keyserling, 82, father of one of President Truman's chief aides, collapsed and died of a heart attack here yesterday as he appealed for funds for Israel. "We must save lives," were his last words, spoken into a microphone at a conference of the United Jewish Appeal. Keyserling's son, Leon, is chairman of President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers. The elder Keyserling, a delegate from Beaufort, S. C., succumbed during the third speech he made at a conference question-and-answer session.
